LANDED IN JAIL. VIRGIN CITY, April 1, 1884.

HOW PEACE WAS DISTURBED.

Our general peace has been disturbed this winter by the presence of Josh. Swet, an Arizona cowboy, who came here about the latter part of last October. His real character being unknown to the people; after camping a short time on the river bottom, he moved time on the river bottom, he moved into town, stating he had decided to remain and spend the winter.

After a short time a citizen who had recently removed from Toquerville, became possessed of the Information that a reward was offered from Arizona for sald Swet. This person, by name William Bliss, immediately gave the information to Swet, affiliated with him, making arrangements to shade him, furnish him with food, and take care of his wife, who was confined shortly after, for a consideration, which he himself reported as being several hundred dollars. Having made these arrangements Swet left in the same night that he re-swet left in the same night that he re-ceived the information, for the moun-trins north. William Stapley, a nephew of Bliss's was the instrument used in carrying supplies, staying with Swet most of the time.

After being upon the mountains north After being upon the mountains north-for some six weeks, some boys from Toquerville out hunting stock, came across his camp, and finding plenty of beef hanging in the trees, apparently without a rightful owner, they appro-priated it and left without any one appearing to hinder.

Swet's suspicions were awakened, and thinking the locality rather to well known, he came down unseen by the citizens, and still shaded by Bliss, passed south in the vicinity of Caanan Ranch where they camped, living upon beef of which they were not the own-ers, supplying their families at nights by stealth, when they came in occa-sionally to replenish their bread sup-

A HUNTER THREATENED. Shortly after Richard Parker, when out hunting, crossed their camp when they drew their guns upon him, asking him what he wanted there. As soon as he got within speaking distance he asked what they drew their guns upon him for, he knew nothing of them and was not seeking to injure them. and was not seeking to injure them. When they saw who he was they allowd him to come into camp.

THE COWBOYS SHOOT. William Wright, John Wood, John Wright, Alex McDonald and Charles Ballard went out to have a talk with them, to find out their intentions and to endeavor to get them to come in, but no conversation was had with them. At the same time, Sawyer, Par-ker, Guriey and Mansfield, of the Stock Protective Association, were watching them from the other side, and upon whom the cowboys fired, ordering them to leave. Ephraim Mansfield -left for St. George for the purpose of swearing out a warrant of arrest, obtaining which he left for the scene of action, and a posse under Deputy De Frieze left St. George at about 10 o'clock on Sunday night,

They came up on the south side of the river and reached the ground be-fore daylight. As soon as they could see they hunted for their game, but found the camp removed and the bird flown. Following upon their trail they found their horses in a corner of the foot hills south of Virgin City, the cow-boys not being able to take them further on account of being so closely pressed. The posse secured the horses and camp equipage, left the trail and came into Virgin City to refresh themselves, having been out all night, with but little food or rest. A number of the Stock Protective Association, with boys from Virgin City, Duncan's Retreat and Grafton, followed the trail, one of the game, Wm. Bliss, being captured previous to the arrival of the posse.

LUCEEN SEED.

THE COWBOYS CORRALLED BUT ESCAPE. They soon came up with the outlaws and corralled them in some willows on a farm owned by Wm. Wright, situated between Virgin City and Duncan's Retreat, All hands guarded on Monday night. At about 11 o'clock at night Moses W. Gibson and John Martindale saw them in the willows and fired, when they immediately concealed when they immediately concealed themselves.

A portion of the guard left, leaving a portion of the line broken, through which Swet and Stapley escaped, leaving the guard in ignorance of the fact until near noon of Tuesday. The rest of the day was spent in tracking. On Wednesday morning Sheriff Hardy arrived and his under direction tracking was continued all day without any definite result. Thursday morning the St. George posse left for home, taking with them the prisoner Bliss, with the captured horses and camp equipage. A number of men from the up river settlements and some of the Stock Protective Association started for the old haunts of Swet in the mountains Have a large force of First-class Plumbers, Steam and Gas Fitters, and is prepared to do Plumbing and Steam Fitting on the very latest improved plans as adopted by Eastern cities, and solicits the continued patronage of the citizens of this city and vicinity.

Protective Association started for the old haunts of Swet in the mountains north, found tracks up the hill but not any on top. Intelligence was received that tracks were seen in the vicinity of Toquerville and later that Swet and Stapley had stolen a pair of Ashton Nebeker's horses and had been seen in Kanarra, the express from Toquerville on his return bringing the word. The men from the mountains were received that tracks were seen in the vicinity of Toquerville and later that Swet and Stapley had stolen a pair of Ashton Nebeker's horses and had been seen in Kanarra, the express from Toquerville on his return bringing the word.

The men from the mountains were re-called by express.

Sheriff Hardy and Richard Parker started from Virgin for the scene, others going later, the Sheriff tele-graphing to the settlements in Iron Co., having previously sent word for them to be on the look out and offering $100.00 reward for their capture, either under Geo. Williams left Kansara in pursuit of Swet, and Stap-ley came up with them, running them upon a steep mountain, compelling them to leave the stolen horses. A them to leave the stolen horses. A posse from Cedar also came up and the men were coralled. The officers called upon them to surrender, a shot from a Winchester rifle was the reply. They again escaped during the night and on Friday were again tracked with little difficulty by Leo Wood, an Indian from Cedar, he being able to see tracks undiscernable to the whites. They however cluded the efforts of They, however, eluded the efforts of the posse all day and they were tracked to the vicinity of Kelsey's ranch, near the rim of the basin, evidently atriking back to their old runs. Sheriff liardy how discharged the Iron Coposse and expressed to Toquerville to have the towns well guarded. On Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night, a strong guard was posted in Virgin City, the citizens being thoroughly aroused, deeming their peoperty unsafe so long as the cowboys were not taken.

The wives of Swet and Bliss were emoved from the house in which they were staying and mards posted with-In and without, and between 11 and 12 o'clock Sunday night the 10th inst. Thos. Malone, on guard in the vicinity of the house, saw two hatless persons making their way across a grass lot stealthily toward the house. They crossed the fence into the street, where he requested the first in sight, to give the countersign. This proved to be Stapley, who asked what it was, when Majone told him to throw up his hands, which he did, requesting food. Another guard being questing food.

prisoners when other guards went with the deputy and lodged the desperadoes in the county jail at St. George.

Since the capture of these men peace again smiles upon us. Great praise is due to the Stock Protective Association, and also the citizens of Virgin City, Duncan's Retreat and Grafton, to Sheriff Hardy and all engaged, for their promptness, perseverance and untiring energy displayed in the guarding of towns, cutting off the food supplies, and also in the pursuit and ing of towns, cutting off the food supplies, and also in the pursuit and capture of these outlaws, ridding the country of a source of continual anxiety, showing by example that such men cannot tamper with the rights of citizens in this section.

Yours truly, GEORGE ISOM.
