

EASTERN NOTES.

Stanley didn't get very favorable notices from the Chicago press the morning after his recent lecture there. This is from the Times: "After one has seen this Henney, and heard him cackle his story, one cannot help entertaining a rather poor opinion of the venerable doctor for allowing such a person to discover him."

A Pennsylvania college proposes to establish a department of cookery. A bill is pending in the legislature which provides for an appropriation of $20,000 to build the general cook shop as an adjunct to the college, and the science of cookery will, therefore, become a part of the curriculum if the bill passes.

Englishmen are beginning to direct their attention to the vast herds of cattle in the Western States, and the question has been raised whether or not an experiment to transport some of our superfluous live stock across the Atlantic would be successful. It is suggested that a fleet of steamers should be constructed specially for this trade, and it is claimed that the receipts would largely exceed all expenditures.

An eminent physician says that, after twenty-five years experience, he is satisfied that the practice of drugging children with soothing syrups and other preparations containing the principle of opium, is very destructive to the nervous system, and almost sure to beget a taste for alcohol and opium in after life.—Washington Star.

In large assemblages, as at balls and public entertainments, it is strange how absolutely essential to the comfort and equanimity of gentlemen are frequent inhalations of fresh air. We have noticed this in ball rooms and at the theatre. On occasions between the dances, and between the acts, partners and escorts politely excuse themselves for a moment to breathe freely outdoors and look at the stars, and the resulting revivification proves conclusively the steam power of oxygen.

The newspapers notice a fight which took place at Dover on Sunday afternoon, 16th ult., between two soldiers who fought for 90 minutes in the presence of about 150 of their comrades, including a garrison military policeman. One of the combatants was left senseless on the ground by his gallant friends and companions, and died the next day. The coroner's jury found a verdict of manslaughter against the surviving brute.

The Washington Star says it is reported that "New York Congressmen will distribute their additional salary among benevolent institutions." This is the first time in the history of the country that "sample rooms" have been called "benevolent institutions."—N. Y. Commercial.

This very doubtful project finds currency in the Charleston (S. C.) News:

"There is some talk of forming a new State, to be called 'Alleghany,' out of western North Carolina, eastern Tennessee and south-western Virginia, with the capital at Knoxville or Chattanooga. The territory thus described consists almost wholly of mountain land, and the new State would be the Switzerland of America. It would also be immensely rich in mineral deposits."

FOREIGN NOTES.

The following recipe for a preventative of small-pox has been used in England with great benefit during the prevalence of the disease as an epidemic, and we endorse it by our testimony, the result of experience: 1 oz. epsom salts; 2 oz. cream tartar; 1 lemon sliced; 2 qts. hot water. A wineglass full, morning and evening, and for an adult, to be taken cold.—Ex.

The Russian War Department has decided to build a number of forts on the Austrian and Prussian frontiers. Four of these are to be begun at once. One will be near Proskurov, in Podolia; one near Dulno, in Volhynia; the third at Bialystok, in the Government of Grodno, near the junction of the railway between Warsaw and St. Petersburg with that from Brest to Grajewo, and the fourth near Wirballen, the first Russian railway station on the side of Prussia. Each of these forts is to be within gun-range of the railway crossing the frontier in its vicinity. They are to be completed in two years' time.
