McADAM. The Scotch "roadist" Mc-Alunded a good thing for the traveling stock of goods, consisting of public when he hit upon the method of making roads now called, in honor to his memory, macadamized. Such a road when well made, is very durable and is smooth and pleasnat for travel, either for pedestrians or teams; but whom made by bunglers, pedestrians compelled to travel thereon are in a worse plight than the pilgrim before he boiled his seas. We were shown a piece of road of this description last evening, and "Aled" made an urgent request St., Ogden, opposite Godbe & Co's. Drug Store, that the constructors thereof might have a dissit gentle remander through the News. The road in question extends from the "Eagle vester up to the gravel deposit behind the machine show, near the mouth of City Creek Kanvon. For some time past teams have been hauling gravel from the pit there and in travening down they seem to have taken special pains to render the road unpleasant for pedestrians. If their operations As Macadam had been contined to the contruct grade, - sixteen feet in the centre of the road, -there would not have been much suse for complaint; but when it extends to thirty feet or even more, there is no escaping the points, and woe be to all travelers who have corns or tender feet! The gentlemen who drive said teams are respectfully requested, in future, to confine themselves to the contract grade, or to be kind enough to clear the side tracks of all mementoes of mer labors.
