OF JOHN'S REVELATION DESCRIBING

Nov. 16, 1885. The writer has just laid down a paer containing a description of the gaudy and imposing funeral rites of the late Cardinal McCloskey, Such an occa-

ion enables one to get a glimpse of he meaningless pomp and cerem that forms the warp and woof of this SYSTEM OF PRIESTCRAFT. Without attempting to repeat the description here, it may be well enough to note down a few features for comparison with the Revelations of St. After being reviewed by 200,000 peaole, while lying in state, "the remains were transferred to a violet plushined coffin of San Domingo mahogany, with heavy gold trimmings and soli-silver gold-plated handles. The colliwas then placed upon the cloth-of-gold ewered bier, with the cardinal's coat I arms at each corner, and the laborate cardinal's hat at the feet." Flarty enormous, pure wax candles placed around the catafulque enhanced the splendor of this gaudy array. For a long distance from the altar the news on the centre aisle were occupied by innumerable white-robed priests, who assisted in the conduct of the ser-mary the black, red and purple clothed olytes and altar boys, and the briliant, variegated colors of the officiat-ng priests and bishops, glittering with hold, silver and all the colors of the ambow, combined to make the scene
