

THE CHOSEN PEOPLE'S WOES.

A Parallel Sharply Drawn by a "New" Correspondent.

To be "Fossilized" in Religion Means Much - Persecution, Expulsion and the Associated Trials of Sorrows.

Correspondence Desert News.

New York, May 14, 1906. - Alone here in the Ghetto of America and as usual reading this morning's news of the world, I read with slipping, with I incline with this sentiment at what I think.

How well I remembered the words from the lips of prematurely aged friends of mine. The week of expectancy upon the completion of a second temple erected and dedicated to the One and Only Living God, brought with the toll and tears of an honest people about to be deprived of their all in the face of an imminent calamity - they - with their "arms and prayers" such as they had, left their freedom for the shackles of slavery, their faces turned toward the setting sun. With a faith well nourished and a knowledge of the truth in their hearts they made another home in the East.

As my mind recalls it, they were still restlessly pursued and as far as possible made more and more miserable. Even the elements seemed to conspire against their steady hand. But the Star that once illumined Bethlehem was before them - a desert, was reached - "Here we will build a Temple to the Living God," the leader said.

Before I left for this part of the country I had the grand privilege of the building, and when I held that leader's hand as he "spoke" returned to find who gave it, I said "Well done." The tone of paper used on last Sunday by the New York Herald could not contain a title of this man's work.

From the "World" from which I speak significance of a great and grand gathering of God's chosen people. In this the beginning? Can we think that such a peculiar people must ever leave their friends? As hinted, will they come here to free America of their persecutions. The people of Utah were fortunate in being able to wait.

A word more to make some people think: Register Levy in this article says: "They (the Hebrews) are in the same position in which the Parthians were when they came over here to escape the persecutions of their established church or the French Huguenots fleeing from the dragonage of Louis XIV, or the 30,000 Laing's Protestants expelled by the archbishop in 1793."

Mr. Editor, pen of steel and tongue of fire could not express with the pointed process of the world my feelings upon reading the enclosed. Do you please, about printing the whole of it, but I am certain that it will be mighty entertaining reading for all Latter-day Saints.

J. M. BENDISCH.

The World's article is as follows: "The soldiers against the Hebrews led by the Russian government early in 1890 and repeated again in the two succeeding years was again repeated on Feb. 14, 1891, when all the Hebrews living in unrestricted districts in Russia were ordered to move within the pale. Russia claims, when questioned by an alien power, concerning the treatment of the Hebrews, that she does not expect them, and that the only restrictions placed upon them is that they must live within certain boundaries.

The Hebrews in this country know that the meaning of this is that the Hebrews must forsake their homes and move to a district that is already so overcrowded with members of their race that the earning of a proper living is impossible, or that they must seek some other country and begin anew. The order provides that by November 1 next the provinces of Latvia and Courland must be cleared of their Hebrew population.

In Latvia there are about twenty-five thousand Hebrews, while in Courland the Hebrew population is much larger. About eight thousand, all of whom are extremely poor, have already been ordered to leave the district. It is computed that at least 60,000 souls will be driven from these provinces into the already crowded towns of the pale.

The result will probably be that all those whose means will permit them to leave Russia will hasten away, and it is not unlikely that the country will be asked to receive a large majority of them. The dangers attending this influx may be small, but the modern score of last fall is still fresh in the minds of the people to create some fear. In viewing the winter from the standpoint of the public health, Register Ferdinand Levy said:

"As regards the status of the unfortunate Hebrews in Russia I want to say that by far the larger majority of those that will come here will be in a condition that will require no other assistance than that of friendly advice. They are both able and willing to earn their bread. Only a small number, comparatively speaking, are in need of substantial help. They are quite different from the common herd of beggars. They are the victims of circumstances and conditions beyond their own control, plunged into misery by the acts of a government which is a disgrace to our civilization. They are in the same position in which the Parthians were when they came over here to escape the persecutions of the established church, or the French Huguenots, fleeing from the dragonage of Louis XIV, or the 30,000 Laing's Protestants expelled by the archbishop in 1793.

"They deserve the sympathy not only of the American Hebrews, but of all humane and liberty-loving people, especially of every American who has in clear the fundamental principle of our institutions. America can never afford in the face of the history of the founders of our country to look on with indifference to the sufferings of a people who are struggling for liberty and the right to live peacefully as human beings."

David Adolph, M. D., the visiting physician of the New York board of Jewish ministers, said that no attempt has ever been made by the Hebrews in this country to leave their country, but he never shall unless all other countries are closed to them. When that thing happens we believe the American nation is bound to extend generous aid to the Jews in their distress. Russia claims that she does not expect the Hebrews and that she goes no further than to require them to leave the villages and go to towns. This Russian government claims, is necessary because of economic reasons. This explanation is furnished to do something to protect the Hebrews from frequent attacks of that country. The plan is from which the Hebrews are already overpopulated, because for ten years this system of driving them into certain sections has been going on. Exile is a main burden to these poor people because the heaviest labor will not yield enough to properly feed and clothe them."

Henry Rice, president of the United Hebrew Charities, in the last report of the organization makes this appeal: "I ask the American people to look kindly upon a class of people driven from their country by a government which is at least a century behind our civilization, which has done nothing in the midst of civilization, which is full of dark and ignorant superstitions, and which is driving a class of suffering and helpless people to the verge of starvation and death."

Deputy Sheriff William Rader of Douglas County has been killed near Castle, Montana, by Harry Gross while attempting to arrest William Day, a desperado wanted for arson. Rader and another man went out to the Gross brothers' ranch, about six miles from Castle, to arrest Day. William Day and Harry Gross opened fire upon the posse, and Rader, shooting Rader through the chest, the other man quickly got out of range. The murderers have not yet been apprehended. Gross is in prison and further shooting will occur if they are overtaken. Both men are hard characters from Wyoming. Day killed a man in the Hook hills some years ago.
