

DESERET EVENING NEWS

Organ of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

ICRENZO SNOW, TRUSTEE-IN-TRUST.

PUBLISHED EVERY EVENING.

(SUNDAY EXCEPTED.)

Care of Salt Temple and East Temple Streets, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Charles W. Penrose, Editor.

Horace G. Whitney, Business Manager.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICES.

	In Advance	Per Annum
One Year	$5.00	$5.00
Three Months	1.50	4.50
Six Months	2.50	7.50
One Month	.50	1.50
One Week	.15	.45
Saturday edition, per year	2.00	2.00
Semi-Weekly	1.00	1.00

Correspondence and other reading matter for publication should be addressed to the EDITOR.

Address all business communications to THE DESERET NEWS, Salt Lake City, Utah.

NEW YORK REPRESENTATIVE.

B. A. Craig, 41 Times Building.

CHICAGO REPRESENTATIVE.

Craig & Woodward, 87 Washington St.

SALT LAKE CITY, - DEC. 20, 1899.

THE CHRISTMAS NEWS.

The Deseret News invites special attention to the forthcoming Christmas edition of this paper. A prospectus has been issued announcing a number of its principal features, all of which will add to its unusual attractions. We desire now to make special mention of some articles which will prove of surpassing interest to the Latter-day Saints and be of value to the general public. They are these: President Lorenzo Snow has favored the "News" with some personal reminiscences of the Prophet Joseph Smith, which serve to show the character and power of the great Seer of the nineteenth century, and also give testimony to the divine calling and inspiration of that notable man. President George Q. Cannon furnishes an account of his experience at a trying time in his political career and in the history of the Territory of Utah. It is of great worth to the State, coming from such a source, and will make a splendid addition to the attractions of our holiday number. President Joseph F. Smith contributes a paper concerning the original manuscript of the Book of Mormon, part of which is now in his possession, showing that the reports in the press of the country concerning its being in Richmond, Mo., are entirely incorrect. A fac-simile of one page of the original manuscript will be printed with the article, and one also of a page of the petition of Lyman Wight to the Senate of the United States, which, with the manuscript of the Book of Mormon, was deposited by the Prophet Joseph Smith in the cornerstones of the Nauvoo House. These are but a few of the valuable contributions to the Christmas number of the Deseret News, as will be seen by reference to our prospectus. It will be the finest edition of this paper that has ever been issued from the press.

THE CURRENT LOCAL TOPIC.

The action taken by the Salt Lake City Board of Education, as to compulsory vaccination, is quite satisfactory and will be commended by nine-tenths of the people. As the Deseret News has already pointed out, the Board of Education is not endowed with authority to force upon the school children and teachers something that is not required by law. However, that body may recommend anything which seems desirable to the majority of its members. The recommendation to the people of this city to have their children vaccinated is open to discussion, but cannot be popularly condemned, because the virtues of vaccination are by no means a settled question. In declining to attempt that compulsion which interested persons desired the Board to exercise, that body showed wisdom and saved itself from a great deal of trouble and much litigation.

Dr. Beatty, of the State Board of Health, however, seems determined to rush in where the Board of Education feared to tread. He is reported to have forestalled the action of the State Board of Health, in the announcement that a proclamation will be issued, making vaccination compulsory among school children in small-pox infected districts, with the probability that Salt Lake will be included in that category. In that case, he states, "Teachers will be required to send home all children not vaccinated and if the parents object, their only plan to obtain redress will be through recourse to the law."

That appears, no doubt, to the Dr. a very neat little scheme to insure considerable work for the faculty, and also to make it very pleasant for parents who object to having pus from a diseased calf injected into the veins of their pure and healthy offspring. But there is a weak point in it which might as well be pointed out before extreme measures are adopted. It is this:

The law provides for compulsory education. It does not require vaccination. While parents would have recourse to the courts in the event that their unvaccinated children were for that reason excluded from the public schools, which they support by taxation, it does not follow that the burden which Dr. Beatty grimly seeks to impose upon them will be thus assumed. They can keep their children from school if turned away, and the onus of compelling them to send their children to school will rest upon the Board of Education and the Board of Health. The parents will simply be on the defense. We have no fears as to the result. Vaccination is not a requirement for admission to the public schools, and if a healthy child is excluded who has not been exposed to contagion, the officials responsible for that exclusion will have a hard time in trying to enforce the law on compulsory education. The question of damages for such exclusion will form another contest.

The attempt to make a scare in this city deserves the severest denunciation. The idea that one or two mild cases of alleged smallpox in this city warrants its designation as an infected district, is the very height of medical absurdity.

To people who have resided in either of the great cities of the world it is childish and ridiculous, and it is refuted by the very individual who has expressed it. Here is what he has stated himself, as reported in a morning paper in this city:

"The doctor says that one may with perfect safety converse with any small-pox patient if standing several feet away. He calls attention to the fact that although the entire Lindsay troupe were cooped up in that Spanish Fork hotel with the first patient for eleven days there was but one case of infection, and that was where another member of the troupe slept with the first patient."

We are aware that a very large number of reputable medical men and women have satisfied themselves that vaccination is a preventive, to some extent at least, of smallpox. Most of them have drifted with the tide of accepted theory. It is orthodox. That, however, does not prove it to be correct. In recent times a number of the very best physicians in Europe and America, after years of thorough examination into the alleged evidences and statistics in favor of that theory, have come to the certain conclusion that the medical world has been carried away by a delusion, and that the arrest of the progress of the disease is due to other causes than vaccination.

Inoculation was once as orthodox as vaccination has become. It is now viewed as a horror. There are hosts of people who look upon the fact that has succeeded it with similar aversion, and would stand with a shot-gun, as ready to use it upon a person attempting to put vile matter from a diseased bovine into the bodies of their healthy children, as if he were trying to make them swallow a dose of poison.

The Board of Health had better not be too officious in this matter, which involves the rights and liberties of American citizens. They can advise what they think best, but they had better pause before trying to force upon the people of this city something that is utterly repulsive and obnoxious to most of them, and which that board will find it has no legal authority to impose.

WHAT IS HIS WORD WORTH?

Among the witnesses before the investigating committee of the House of Representatives in the Roberts case, was E. A. McDaniel, who at one time was manager of the Salt Lake Herald. Like the other witnesses he could tell very little against the Utah Congressman from his own knowledge. Hearsay and "common report" formed the greater part of all the testimony. But there were one or two little things which he did not seem inclined to remember when cross-examined, and one statement he made does not appear to be borne out by the facts. The following, which appeared in the Salt Lake Herald of this morning as a double-headed editorial, fully explains that matter and will give to impartial persons an estimate of the value to be placed on the ex-manager's veracity:

"Mr. E. A. McDaniel, former manager of the Herald, testified before the Roberts investigation committee yesterday, and the Associated Press report of his testimony contains the following statement: 'Mr. McDaniel said his retirement from the Herald was because he did not wish to defend Roberts while living in the polygamous relation.'"

If Mr. McDaniel is correctly quoted, his statement is not only absolutely false, but actually silly. Upon the following day after the Democratic convention, in commenting on Mr. Roberts' nomination, The Herald said: "The opposition will probably be met by a personal fight upon Mr. Roberts, for which he is doubtless prepared. The Herald will defend his Democracy and the political rights of the people he represents."

This declaration of policy was made while Mr. McDaniel was manager of The Herald, and this attitude toward Mr. Roberts was the attitude of the owners of the Herald. It was not their intention or desire to defend Mr. Roberts against charges relating to his personal affairs. This policy has been consistently adhered to, as the files of this paper will show, and the course pursued has been entirely satisfactory to the owners of the paper, to Mr. Roberts and his friends and, as an expanding circulation list testifies, to the general public. Neither Mr. McDaniel, nor any one else connected with The Herald has ever been asked or expected to "defend Roberts" in the sense that the expression was used by Mr. McDaniel, at Washington, and no one knows this better than Mr. McDaniel himself.

Since an utterly false reason for Mr. McDaniel's retirement has been given, it is fair and proper that the facts be stated. Mr. McDaniel resigned his position as manager because the owners of the paper had reached the conclusion that a change in management would promote its business interests. His resignation was tendered upon request. These facts are pretty generally understood and are published now solely to correct any possible misunderstanding that might result from Mr. McDaniel's remarkable statement."

UNREST IN ABYSSINIA.

Rumors are rife about some trouble brewing in Abyssinia. It appears the King, or Negus, of that country has suddenly remembered that he has a boundary dispute with Great Britain, and that the present time is favorable for the settlement of that controversy. King Menelik is thought to have a fighting force of about 200,000 men, well equipped with modern arms of every description, and his former experience with the Italian troops naturally leads him to put a little more emphasis on his demands for his rights, than his importance would seem to warrant.

The chief significance, however, of an armed rising in Abyssinia at this time is the fact that it probably will not take place except on the instigation of some foreign power. Menelik is known to have looked to St. Petersburg for advice, ever since the aggressive policy of Great Britain in Upper Egypt, and the suspicion is not ill-founded that the machinations of Russian statesmen are to be seen in the rumored restlessness of the Abyssinians.

At all events, it would be a calamity to Great Britain at this time, to have to carry on military operations in East Africa, as well as South Africa. As long as the war is confined to one country, Great Britain must in all human probability, win in the end, but were she compelled to divide her forces, an entirely different aspect would be placed on the present events.

It would evidently be entirely unsafe to make any forecasts, at this time, as to the future of Europe. For years the powers have made preparations for a final and gigantic struggle. Great Britain had it in her power, in the early fifties to stop the progress of militarism and imperialism, which then took shape in the expansion of Prussia at the expense of her weaker neighbors. She might then, according to all appearances, have arrested the Bismarckian policy that, unchecked, developed and became a menace to the peace of the world. But she failed to grasp the situation and to perceive the future consequences.

Last year, again, a heroic effort was made for the unseating of militarism and the enthroning of peace as the supreme ruler of nations. But with few exceptions the efforts were but formally supported.

In the history of the world it appears that warnings and premonitions frequently occur before great calamities. The fall of Jerusalem and the end of the Moslem dispensation are well known illustrations of this truth. The thoughtful reader of present events can hardly refrain from asking himself what the signs of the times portend.

Only this much can be said with safety, that in the general Ragnarok of nations, Great Britain has as fair a chance of holding her own, as any other nation. She has stood for liberty and civilization and progress. And the performance of that mission cannot but be placed to her everlasting credit at the final closing of the accounts.

AS TO ROBERTS.

There are so many comments adverse to the action of the House in the Roberts case, that we have not space for a title of them. We append here an editorial from the New York Post, and a letter to the Denver Post, which touch the same matter from different standpoints, and are samples of others to the same effect:

The New York Evening Post remarks:

"It is already evident that the more sensible and candid among those members of the House who refused to take Representative Roberts of Utah take the oath on Tuesday regret that they were swept off their feet by the wave of popular clamor. The pleas which were made for this hasty and revolutionary action do not stand examination, while the arguments in favor of following both the precedents and the obvious dictates of justice, by admitting Roberts and then expelling him if a fair investigation should warrant the step, grow stronger the more carefully they are examined. The situation is made the worse by the fact that the investigation which has been ordered is to be made by a packed committee, and is always the custom in a legislative body, as it is in the executive branch of justice, that the minority should be allowed representation on every committee. Nearly sixty members voted with Mr. Richardson of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, to let Roberts take his seat and refer the charges against him to the judiciary committee for investigation, but not one of these men was given a place on the special committee, which was finally ordered. This unfairness on the part of Speaker Henderson is only another illustration of the way in which one false step leads to another, in a legislative body as in every other relation of life."

"A great deal has been said in the talk concerning this case about the necessity of 'preserving the sanctity of the American home,' the loudest voices raised being those of editors who have done most to demoralize family life by their newspapers. The truth is that the sanctity of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no more to do with the issue involved in this case than had that of Jay Gould years ago, when he represented the maintenance of the rights of property in this city. Investigation may show that the man who took the oath of the home, as of everything else worth preserving, depends upon the maintenance of justice. Every sensible person appreciates this when it is a case of such magnitude as that of the shocking one at Maysville, Ky., last week. It is equally true when the principles of Lynch law are accepted by Congress as happened in the House on Tuesday. The consequence of Roberts has no