

Seeks Husband in Male Attire.

MRS.
DOROTHY
CLARKE in DRESS
GARb. and as SEE
APPEARED when ARRESTED.

Mrs. Dorothy Clarke has reached New York, after a trip from Alaska and all over the United States in search of her husband. In itself this fact may not be unusual, but Mrs. Clarke may claim distinction by virtue of the fact that she has covered this great territory while disguised as a young man and her sex was never guessed until she landed on Broadway.

This woman is 32 years old; yet, in her boy's suit, looks like a maternally attired youth of 18. She tells a story of wandering which would make a great novel or a unique play. Charming wealthy relatives in San Francisco, she refuses to apply to them, but insists on visiting all sorts of places in every city she visits, to the hope of finding her errant spouse. So long as she does not wear male clothing the police have no charge against her and she will probably be permitted to continue her search unimpeded.

NEW YORK'S CONSPICUOUS POLICE CHIEF.

Theodore Bingham, retired brigadier-general, United States army, and commandant of police of the City of New York, is the most interesting character to hold this important office since the era when Theodore Roosevelt occupied that chair.

Gen. Bingham has created more reforms than any commissioner who except held the office, not excepting Mr. Roosevelt, is ordinarily rated by the "system" and feared by all who occupy office for private gain. He is outspoken to seeming rudeness. Later a close friend abhors a sneaking politician but has for his true friends the best element of the metropolitan, who realize that he is sincere in his work and no selfless asks larger nor fears criticism. He is a very personal man and his army training makes him appear something of a martinet, yet to all sincere men who have the welfare of the community at heart, he is believed to be the best head of the police department ever known in the history of New York City.

A BUTTERFLY DAM.

"As the sewage of Chicago, pouring into the Chicago river from all the houses in an area of some 200 square miles, going down the south branch into the drainage channel and down the drainage channel to the Illinois river and to the Mississippi, it will encounter, near Lockport, a new and a most difficult kind of dam, a 'butterfly' dam, a dam that will be capable of being raised around bodily the current of the stream as low as possible, and thus across the water divide of an island made up of granite, granite rock, limestone, sandstone, and shale.

It is extremely clean and clear. It is extremely safe, a thousand times safer than any dam ever made if it goes as far as one can ever dream. If they had built it in 1860, it would have been a masterpiece.

It is safe, then, and not unsafe, which will do most to encourage this dam. At the time the water of the drainage channel reaches Lockport, it is extremely clean and clear. It is extremely safe, a thousand times safer than any dam ever made if it goes as far as one can ever dream. If they had built it in 1860, it would have been a masterpiece.

It is safe, then, and not unsafe, which will do most to encourage this dam. But it will not last long. That is the caption that should enter its construction. The water will soon be so high that they will have to let it pass just as a bridge swings aside to let an ore steamer go down the Calumet river.

This remarkable dam will be one of the greatest curiosities in that not even the engineers the Chicago drainage and water works experts in the creation of natural dredging and obstructions.
