LIBERTY BELL'S EXPLOSION.

The monument that both Nelson and Wellington have found a watery grave in the Arctic region, and the attempt to deliver the north pole has been abandoned. The expedition undertaken by Lieutenant Peary for the same purpose. This expedition has already gained much success in the northern region, and the expedition is now returning with valuable information based on facts he has previously ascertained.

The discovery of North Carolina, himself and Nelson, has been made. The expedition has been successful in the Arctic region, and the attempt to deliver the north pole has been abandoned. The expedition undertaken by Lieutenant Peary for the same purpose. This expedition has already gained much success in the northern region, and the expedition is now returning with valuable information based on facts he has previously ascertained.

His journey from McMillan Bay, where his winter quarters were established, commenced in May 1902. After having made an expedition of about three hundred miles, he found himself in a gradually rising, plain covered with snow and ice. On this rising plain, the expedition found a large number of seals, and the expedition was successful in the Arctic region, and the attempt to deliver the north pole has been abandoned. The expedition undertaken by Lieutenant Peary for the same purpose. This expedition has already gained much success in the northern region, and the expedition is now returning with valuable information based on facts he has previously ascertained.

Another equally important discovery was that in the part of Greenland now reached life was abundant, both the flora and fauna being represented. Flowers were climbing in the crevices of the rocks, such as yellow poppies and dandelions, while birds and bees were busy doing about and birds of much size were grazing in the valley below.

The travelers spent seven days in this northern country and then returned, having made a journey of 1,000 miles in thirty-five days. It was only natural that an expedition with so much success should be followed up by another expedition. The expedition was successful in the Arctic region, and the attempt to deliver the north pole has been abandoned. The expedition undertaken by Lieutenant Peary for the same purpose. This expedition has already gained much success in the northern region, and the expedition is now returning with valuable information based on facts he has previously ascertained.

A HEROIC DEED. There have been many instances of heroism among children reported in this paper. The little John has exhibited a courage and judgment of which it is hardly possible to form an idea. One of his friends, a boy named John, was playing with a gun. The gun was loaded with powder, and the boy was playing with it. The gun was loaded with powder, and the boy was playing with it. The gun was loaded with powder, and the boy was playing with it.
