JAPANESE ARE VERY HUMANE.

Show Scrupulous Care for Relics And Other Effects of Russian Dead Found on Battlefield.

FIGHTING AT PORT ARTHUR

ls Terrific and Almost Without Parallel-Defense is Most Stubborn

Mukden, Nov. 14, via Tien Tsin, Nov. 11-The Manchurlan Army Vestnik, published under the sanction of the pussian officials and the only newspaper printed at the theater of war, gives details of the scrupulous care shown by the Japanese for the relics and other effects of the Russian dead found on the hattlefield, and tells how the Japanese have forwarded such effects to St. Petersburg. The paper highly commends this action and announces that Gen. Kuropatkin recom-mends that all his commanders shall cheeve a similar practise regarding the Japanese dend.

this humane practise, which was iniparently was calculated to secure coneration for their dead, has met with applause from the Russian army, and will undoubtedly be imitated whenever the Russians are in possession of the seld over which a battle has been fought. The homogeneity and discipline of the Japanese as well as their success have furnished them with faclities for the exercise of this humans conduct, the practise of which by the Russians has been rendered difficult owing to the heterogeneous elements which compose the Russian army, taken in connection with their con-sum retreats.

Owing to the fact that the Japanese have been left in possession of nearly all the battlefields these humane and henevolent offices have entirely de-volved upon them. This may have given the impression that the Russians have been inconsiderate in their treatment of the dead warriors, but such an impression would be obviously untain. In the widely separated and distant parts of the battlefieds where apportunities presented themselves for the exercise of humanity there has been, of course, no means of knowing exactly what may have happened. This recognition by both sides, how-ever, of the benevoient care of the dead still further marks the abandon-ment of primitive practises in warfare new plans for the organization of the army, indicating elaborate and thorough reconstruction and reinforcement.

FIGHTING AT PORT ARTHUR. London, Nov. 16.—The Daily Tele-graph's correspondent with the Jap-anese army before Port Arthur, de-scribing the attack of the Japanese on se eastern fortified ridges on Oct. 30,

The terrific and continuous bompractise, quite beyond criticism. With appalling rapidity countless bursting shells mingled thier smoke into a dense, oscillating mass of vapor laden with earth and gleaming with flashes of fire, the climax being reached at 1 o'clock with a tremendous fire of shraphel, across the broken breastworks of the ortresses. Suddenly every gun ceased are and the Japanese infantry rushed out from their parallels ere the hills had ceased reverberating with the thunder of the cannonade, from seven separate quarters against the Riblung, Kekwan and Panlone fortified ridges. The attack was simultaneously developed without a single premonitory feint fully 4000 troops dashing out pell mell with fixed babyonets, waving standards and rending the air with

The correspondent details how the various Japanese attacks were checked by the big roads and the terrible Rus-sian fire, which rapidly depleted their ranks, netwithstanding a clever covering fire of Japanese artillery, and says: "It was most remarkable, even inredible, but fully substantiating surmises of their ability to withstand the fire of the heaviest Japanese ordnance, nes the Russians, despite the previous hembardment, replied from their for-tress guns, although over 1,800 500-round shells had been fired that day, or counting thousands of smaller proc'let It is estimated that the day's ombardment cost the Japanese $200. 100 representing nearly 20 per cent of the total cost rince the opening days of the siege in August. capture of the main objective, they absolutely unmasked the eastern Russian positions and their strength. The casualties are relatively small, for although seven regiments were engaged not half the troops issued from the parallels owing to the attacks being so skilfully strength the Russian position was un-assaultable, and it would have been useless to endanger double the force and incur double the casualties in the

"After dusk the Russians sortled and recovered the ground lost between the east and the south Kekwan forts, They recovered the fort at 10 o'clock in the evening, but Gen. "After having captured the capon-leres (covered galleries) of the east Kekwan fort, the Japanese engaged in a bloody fight in the underground passage, slowly winning the vitals of the forts, inch by inch, despite the sians defending the casemates. On Nov. 6 the central and fort sections of the caponieres were gained.

"The work, however, is progressing slowly, owing to the nature of the ground, a combination of quartz and onglomerate limestone.

The Dally Telegraph's Chefoo correspondent gives rumors of renewed Japanese attacks on Port Arthur with 15.000 troops, between Nov. 2 and 6, with 1,200 casualties. The Daily Telegraph, however, does not credit these rumors, because of evidence that the dispatch above summarized was filed Nov. 6 or later. Nov. 6 still remains the latest date of reliable news from Port Arthur.

Owing to the repairs necessitated by the accident which terminated yesterday's flight, it was nearly dark before the airship was taken out of the aerodrome today. When released it rose easily to a height of about thirty-five feet and headed toward the north fence of the aeronautic concourse, rising slowly as it progressed.

When the airship was almost over the fence, M. Francois shouted in French, to cut loose. The English-speaking attaches of the aerodrome misunderstood him and hauled in the guide-rope. The pull on the rope ex-erted a lowering force, and although M. Francois emptied several bags of ballast, he could not counteract the effect of the pull and the airship crashed into the fence, breaking the prow of the flying machine and throwing the navigators to their knees. M. Fran-cois quickly recovered his feet and motioned for the airship to be pulled to the Rations Reduced-Ammunition Growing Short-Wounded Found by Japanese Much Emaciated.

Headquarters of the Japanese Army Before Port Arthur, Nov. 15, via Fusan. -It is reported that a wound received by Gen, Stoessel has necessitated his confinement in the hospital, that he refuses to relinquish the command of the garrison, and that he has issued orders to the troops to die at their posts rather than surrender.

It is said that the spirit of the Russlan troops has been dampened by continuous work, the lack of supplies and the hopelessness of their ability to make any successful defense of the fortress.

It is said further that many of the Russian soldiers are ready to surrender, but that they are kept at their posts by officers, who threaten them with revolvers, and that several soldiers who were suspected of a desire desert have been shot as a warning other would-be deserters.

The Japanese now believe that the garrison has almost reached the limit f human endurance.

U. S. NAVY LEAGUE.

Its Object is to Get as Big a Navy as Possible.

London, Nov. 15.—A branch of the navy league of the United States has been organized in London, with F. B. Black, chairman, and Lewis C. Hay, secretary. The objects of the league are expressed in the following letter which Capt, Stockton, the American naval attache, has written to the secretary regarding the navy league and the proposed London branch:

"The Navy league of the United States is in its infancy, but has done already a great deal to call the attention of our countrymen to the neces-sity of a strong, efficient navy for the nation. The navy question rises be-yond political lines and both parties seem in a measure to realize its necessity. Very great apathy on the subject exists, and the stimulus afforded by the sympathy and support of our countrymen abroad will add very much to the success of the league and the cause it advocates. I believe our co trymen abroad can look at such subjects from a broader, keener point of view than those at home, because they are in a position to compare naval matters and see the necessity which those who have not used or crossed the great waters can not be expected to LEWISOHN GOES TO PRISON. He Refused to Answer Questions In in a Gambling Case.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 15.—The court of appeals handed down a decision today against Jesse Lewisohn of New York, who was sentenced to prison for contempt of court in refusing to answer questions regarding the alleged gambling establishment of Richard Canfield. Lewisohn appealed from the decision of the court of general sessions on the ground that the law which practs that witnesses shall not be exnacts that witnesses shall not be exused from testifying because the tesimony might tend to convict them of crime was unconstitutional.

The specific questions that Lewisohn refused to answer were inquiries whether he had ever entered and played roulette in the alleged gambling house at East Forty-fourth street. New York, and whether he had ever seen Richard Canfield there.
