

The City Council of Oakland, Cal., have adopted the Moffet bell punch, and topped in the beautiful city by the bay, will hereafter "smile" only at the thinking of the bell.

The czar of Russia wants to borrow a little cash. Here is a chance for the money lenders. But as that ambitious monarch already owes the snug little sum of $5,000,000,000 perhaps professional lenders will not rush forward very hastily with their money-bags.

Yosburgh, the pastor of Bergen Baptist Church, Jersey City, who was tried and acquitted for the attempted murder of his wife by poison, has been separated from his other half and has resigned his position in the church under the plea of "impaired health." Thinking that people will tolerate that to mean "impaired reputation."

How careful how you handle matches. A young man in Paris lit a match by scratching it with his thumb-nail. A particle of burning phosphorus lodged under the nail, and, though instantly quenched, communicated poison, which soon extended to the arm. Amputation was advised, but delayed until it was useless, and the young man died in great agony twenty-seven hours after the burn.

Two French chemists have discovered a process for the manufacture of rubies, sapphires and emeralds, from clay and red lead, the crystals developed by heat being colored with mineral combinations, as required for each kind of gem. Are we approaching the time when the baser metals will be transmuted into gold? Perhaps the alchemists hope was not altogether a dream. Who knows?

A newspaper is about to be started in the British metropolis, in the interest of the socialist movement. It will be printed in French and Italian, and called, La Quercia Sociale. Its prospectus declares its mission as "revolutionary," and the overthrow of wages, inheritance and usury—the three elements of capital. It boldly avows itself "as enemy to God," which it declares is "a monstrous metaphysical creation." It is not likely to live long in the capital of England.

The Jewish Messenger publishes a communication showing that the first white man who set foot on American soil was a Jew. It is related by Humboldt that Columbus when approaching the island of Cuba, believed himself to be opposite to two Chinese ports. Desiring to land the letters which he possessed from European monarchs to the "Great Khan of the Magin" in China and then return to Spain, he landed a Jewish Jew, Louis de Torres by name, to the shore, because he understands the Hebrew, the Chaldean and some Arabic, those languages being used in all the mercantile places in Asia. There were "white men" on the land before Judah was born. And if the genealogy of Torres was unfolded, it is more than likely he would be proven an Israelite but not a Jew.

THE "EMBRASSERY" CASE.
The Hodgson trial, with its unprecedented incident of the exposure of a juror who solicited a bribe as payment for "changing" the jury, the particulars of which we related in our issue of the 10th instant, was concluded in the Fourth District Court of California on Monday last. His honor, the learned juror, was in his seat with the rest of the panel. The Court announced that an examination of the juror had been made and the conclusion reached that the juror might be discharged, by the consent of the defendant. Judge Campbell declined giving consent, protesting against the continuance of the case, on the ground that one of the jurors was disqualified to act, and that a juror could not be brought from jail to sit on a case, he was not in free agent, and moved that the juror be dismissed and the defendant discharged. The District Attorney held that the juror could be discharged and the defendant again put on trial, on the plea could not be made that she had been placed in legal jeopardy. The Court overruled the motion to dismiss the juror and discharge the prisoner. Judge Campbell accepted, and announced that he should introduce to evidence for any plea for the defense, as he considered the whole proceeding after what had transpired concerning the juror Huseman, nothing but a mockery of justice. The jury brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree against Mrs. Dr. Cynthia L. Hodgson, whose malpractice in effecting an abortion caused the death of Mrs. Emma Downey. Judge Campbell moved for a new trial, and the time was set for hearing arguments on the motion.

This is a very singular case, and for this reason we have given so much space to its history. The crime with which the prisoner was charged is common enough; there is reason to believe that the offense of the "Embrassery" is not of great rarity, but the course of the counsel for the defense in giving information of the juror's offer to his client, and the exposure and punishment of the offender, also the trial of a prisoner by a jury one of whom was himself a prisoner, under sentences from the same court, sitting in judgment of the cause at issue, are all part of the general course of criminal jurisprudence, and interesting by way of curiosity. The motives which prompted Judge Campbell, in the light of his proceedings on Monday, look a little more like legal craft than the genuine honor which seemed to distinguish the juror. He saw that the jury would be rendered incomplete by the commitment of the offender, and, justly, incompetent to try the defendant, and that this state of affairs would be opened through which he might conduct his client to liberty.

TOPEKA, 19.—It is reported, and not improbable, that some of the Cheyennes who escaped from the territory a few days ago, have been turning up near Fort Dodge, West Kansas. The troops are capturing the Indians. A later dispatch says: Fifteen cattle drivers and Company 1, 4th Cavalry, fought their way through the Indians. One soldier was wounded. They have killed several herds and stolen many horses.

CINCINNATI, O., 19.—The Brown-corn warehouse on the corner of Cincinnati, O., with the contents were burned last evening. The loss is estimated at about $20,000, insured $10,000.

It is stated that over 2,000 acres of corn were destroyed in Scioto Valley by recent floods.

ARIZONA AND MEXICO.
A CORRESPONDENT of the Arizona Miner gives an account of a trip from Santa Fe to Prescott, in which the subject of the recent floods on the Little Colorado, and makes the following remarks in relation to one of the "Norman" camps in that locality:

"Elder Richard's camp, on the Little Colorado, is quite an inviting spot. He is very genial and hospitable. The Normans, there, live comfortably but not luxuriously, at present. They were in hopes of making a good thing out of the situation of their crops. The Elder said the present high water had convinced them they must find a high location for their permanent buildings, and that he regarded the flood as a blessing, in some respects, because they would otherwise have gone on very probably, and did many things where they were which they will not do now, and would have sustained heavy loss years hence. He does not believe in the use of tea and coffee, but is not opposed to those using them who can afford the luxury. The families in this community live separately, yet collectively, in what is called 'the fort.' Mrs. woman and children looked healthy. Their apartments were quite tidy. A community dining hall has been constructed, but probably will not be completed now, owing to contemplated changes of location."

The Miner speaks very indignantly of numerous robberies committed in that Territory, also the murder of two officers of the law by Mexicans, and advocates the annexation to the United States of the North Western portion of the country of complicity and violence. The cry raised in Tohocal school in Arizona, and it appears that Mexican bandits control the whole border line from San Diego to the Rio Grande. "Stages are stopped, the horses taken, the mails and treasure abetained, the passengers isolated, frightened, deplored and left to their own devices."

This is a very deplorable condition of things; and as Mexico seems to be incapable of restraining its lawless hordes from invading the territory belonging to this government, a lesson should be taught which will be remembered, or the United States should extend its protecting and governing rights over the territory, which cannot preserve the public peace nor decently manage its own political affairs.
