

EDITORIAL NOTES

A bogus English lord has been exposed at Saratoga. He absent-mindedly lit a match by striking it on his heel, and then everybody knew he was an American.

The supreme court of California has decided that growing grain is personal property, and that an attachment upon it will hold good against subsequent mortgage.

Paul de Cassagnac, the Bonapartist editor of the Paris Pays, has fought 110 duels in 25 years, and now feels so brave that he would not be afraid to act as umpire in a base-ball game.

The Castle Garden officials report the continuance of a great demand for help, and state that Rhode Island, New Jersey and Connecticut are urgently inquiring for weavers in silk, cotton and woolen goods.

One beauty about scientific papers is the sweet simplicity of their titles. The following were among the subjects considered by a New York association the other day: "Chloride of Potassium," "Di-bromide of Acetic Acid," and "Chloride of Acetic Acid."

At the camp-meeting at South Framingham, Mass., "the whole plan of salvation" can be learned by all sinners willing to pay twenty-five cents for admission, season tickets one dollar. This camp-meeting apparently has some of the characteristics of John Gilpin's wife, for though "on plenty 'tis bent, it has a frugal mind."

The pneumatic tramway engine company, of New York city, have had a compressed air locomotive built at the Baldwin locomotive works, Philadelphia, which has recently arrived there and will shortly be tested on the elevated railway. It is a very peculiar looking machine, but it is expected to give a good account of itself.

A cure for nervous headache has been found by Dr. Oehlschlaeger, of Denzig. He gives salicylate of sodium at the beginning of an attack, which produces drowsiness, and after a sleep of some hours the patient wakes free from pain and entirely refreshed. If, however, the patient is anemic, the drug frequently fails to produce a good result.

To appreciate a land of liberty, one ought to travel in a country governed by despotism. Clara Louise Kellogg says that while in Russia the police not only opened her letters, but what was still more annoying, cut out objectionable articles from papers sent to her before having them delivered. There was anything that will drive a woman to the verge of insanity, it is to get hold of a paper with an article cut out.

It is proposed to construct a line of railway along the Belgian sea coast, from Dunkirk, into Holland. Plans for the draining of the Zuyder Sea have been laid before the Dutch Government by prominent engineers. The cost of the project is estimated at $148,000,000, and its completion would occupy from seven to ten years. The amount of land proposed to be reclaimed is 172,970 acres, and the dam, to be built of sand and lime, will extend over 25 miles.

A recently published hand-book estimates the total number of Jews in the world at about 5,000,000. Only 180,000 of the race are to be found in Asia, 400,000 in Africa, 300,000 in America, 20,000 in Australia. The great majority of the Jews, more than 5,000,000, live in Europe. Rumania contains a larger number of Jews in proportion to its population than any other European country, namely, 7.44 per cent, while Norway contains only "individuals of the race. In some of the districts of Russian Poland from 13 to 18 per cent of the population. In Berlin the Jewish element has increased to nearly 5 per cent.

THE PRESIDENT DYING.

We are grieved to say that in all probability President Garfield will have departed from this world before we publish another number of the DESERT NEWS. It is possible that he may linger for a longer period, but his death is now a foregone conclusion even with the hopeful and mistaken Dr. Bliss. The tidings will be received with profound sorrow throughout the civilized world.

THE PLACE TO BEGIN.

The New York Independent has been drawing attention to the inconsistency of sending missionaries to Africa and other foreign nations, while there is "Mormonism" to fight and polygamy to battle against in America. The Independent outlines the work to be performed by "The American Anti-Mormon Missionary Society," which is to send missionaries to "follow in the wake of proselyting agents sent out from Salt Lake City," to print for free circulation books and tracts showing "the history and practices of the polygamous Saints in Utah," the action of Church bodies on the doings of the "Mormons" etc., etc. This is endorsed by other papers besides the Independent.

Now why do not these kind people carry out their own logic to its legitimate conclusion? It is proper to begin at home the charity which corrects evil should not this American Society commence operations in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Albany and other cities, and when they have succeeded in Christianizing them come westward gradually, calling at Chicago, St. Louis and other places which are in a similar situation to the cesspools of social filth on the shores of the Atlantic?

Take up the newspapers of those cities and read one day's account of the crime, villainy, destitution, debauchery, swindling, dirt, wretchedness, juvenile depravity, female degradation, drunkenness and corruption in high life as well as low, and then see if there is no work for an American Missionary Society, without taking the pains to travel to Utah or following the "wake" of men seeking to spread a knowledge of the gospel, though in a different form from modern orthodoxy. Is there no work for missionaries in the tenement houses, the slums and alleys, the cellars and garrets of the great "Christian" cities where those people live who will be called upon to subscribe to the "Anti-Mormon" fund? Is there nothing to be done by "following in the wake" of the systematic seducer, the professional procurer, the receivers who tempt boys to steal, the agents of gambling houses and houses of infamy? Is there no field for labor among the street Arabs, the gutter snipes, the ragged rakers of ash-bins and swill-buckets, the smug, heathenish semi-civilized of American "centres of Christian civilization?"

Why, there are millions upon millions, right within reach, who are weltering in ignorance, sensuality and crime, with scarcely a hand stretched out to lift them from their grovelling state, or a voice to point them to the path of holiness and purity. Churches there are and parsons in plenty. Tracts, books and lectures galore. But there is as wide a gulf between that lower stratum of wretchedness and the kid-gloved, scented and silken sanctity of these would-be "Mormon" regenerators or obstructionists, as between the abode of Dives and the resting place of Lazarus.

Let the good Christians of the East understand that the Latter-day Saints are living lives of peace, good order, virtue and industry. They have their faults and failings in common with general humanity. But they are not, as supposed, in "ignorance of the essentials of Christianity." They know as much about them and have a great deal more faith in them than their censurers. They are striving to live according to those essentials and teach them to others. They have a mission to proclaim these principles to all the world. They intend to fulfill it. If they are left alone by the whitened sepulchres and long-faced, snuffing Pharisees of the latter days, they will accomplish this work. If they are followed up by hireling hypocrites with lying pamphlets pretending to relate their history and tenets while only burlesquing both, they will perform their work the quicker. For truth, when it has a fair field and a good opportunity, will always make headway against error, and never suffers by contact with its rival.

Benevolent people throughout the Union who had better save their money when the greedy collectors seek to gather it in for missionary work among the "Mormons," and use it for the spread of Christian truth among the hosts of dark-minded and degraded people who live all around them, and whose ignorance and depravity are a shame and disgrace to boasting, proud, hypocritical and inconsistent Christendom.

FRIGHTFUL CALAMITY.

A DISPATCH from Stockton, just received, states that five children and the house of John A. Kimble, a soldier, five miles up the canyon, were burned last evening, through the explosion of a lamp, which was blown over by a gale of wind, and set fire to five gallons of coal oil. The mother was a short distance away, leaving the house in charge of a boy 13 years old. The youngest were twin babies in the cradle. The roof fell in. The charred remains of the five children were found. The mother is nearly insane.

BY TELEGRAPH.

AMERICAN PRESIDENT'S CONDITION.

WASHINGTON, 27.—Executive Mansion 8:30 a.m.—The President awoke from half an hour to an hour, more at times, throughout the night. He continues to retain the liquid food administered by the mouth, and stimulating enemata; nevertheless his pulse has been more frequent since midnight and he is evidently feebler this morning than he was yesterday. Pulse 120, temperature 97.4, respiration 25.

Signed Bliss, Barnes, Woodward, Reyburn and Hamilton.

Executive Mansion, 27.—Secretary Blaine sent the following telegram to Minister Lowell this morning: To Lowell, Minister, London: The President has had a bad night, and his symptoms at this hour (9 o'clock) are of the most alarming character.

Blaine, Secretary.

No Change.

Executive Mansion, 27, 8 a.m.—The physicians cannot yet be seen to obtain any direct information from the sick room. Nothing has been reported since the President awoke at 5 a.m. to indicate any unusual change since then.

den's condition was a little less encouraging than at a late hour last night, but his pulse had not yet been taken but was noticeably less firm. This feebleness of pulse was not noted until Dr. Bliss went to his bedside about 6 o'clock this morning. He then observed that although the frequency of the pulse had not materially changed, its character was weaker and more unsteady. He did not interpret this as certain evidence of the nearness of the end, but as a change calculated to narrow still more the President's chances for recovery, a painful period of suspense intervened between the receipt of this information and the appearance of the morning bulletin, and the latter was waited for with ominous foreboding that it would confirm the worst fears. One bulletin when it made its appearance with the positive statement that the President had grown feebler since yesterday, and noted a marked increase in pulse and respiration, extinguished the last ray of hope held by the general public and cast a deeper gloom over those near and dear to the President. The physicians do not yet say, however, that hope is dead.

More Comfortable.

Executive Mansion, 10:30 a.m.—Dr. Reyburn reports that the President's strength up to this hour has not perceptibly failed since the morning examination. He continues to take food about as well as heretofore, and the frequency of his pulse has not increased. He has just been sponged off and he was more comfortable.

Hoping Against Hope.

Executive Mansion, 10:50 a.m.—Gen. Swain interviewed by a reporter at 10:40 a.m. said: The President's pulse had varied a good deal since the morning dressing, the least exertion or any slight movement of the body was enough to increase its frequency, so although its average rate might not change a great deal, it was occasionally lighter for short periods. The swollen parotid gland he said continued to discharge through the ear and through the incision made several days ago, and this discharge seems to afford relief. The surgeons still hope that the nourishment which the patient takes will sustain his strength and keep him on the present plane of vitality until the glandular abscess becomes less threatening, when there will be, in Gen. Swain's opinion, a chance at least of recuperation. All the members of the cabinet came to the Executive Mansion at 9 a.m., and most of them are still here. They were generally more reticent than yesterday with regard to their views of the situation. Secretary Windom said, "It is useless to disguise the fact that the morning bulletin was very discouraging. I was not ready, however, to say that the case is hopeless. I entertain hope and think and believe to the end that the President will live."

Very Critical.

Executive Mansion, 11 a.m.—The condition of the President has not changed much since the early part of the morning, but continues very critical. All the members of the cabinet left here.

Gradually Failing.

Dr. Bliss reports at noon there has been no marked change in the President's condition, but that he is gradually failing in strength. The pulse when last taken was 116 to 115 and slightly better than at 7 a.m.

Reyburn Says the President Will Not Die To-day.

Chicago, Noon.—The Times' correspondent in Washington has given up sending bulletins, as he is assured by Dr. Reyburn that the President is not likely to die to-day.

Bliss Finally Admits that Death Is Not Far Off.

Executive Mansion, 12:30 p.m.—Members of the cabinet are all here, but no decisive change has taken place in the President's condition. Attorney-General MacVeagh authorizes the statement that Vice-President Arthur has not been telegraphed for, and that no decision to send for him has yet been arrived at.

Dr. Bliss said to a reporter of the Associated Press at noon, his belief is that the President cannot recover. He thinks, however, that death will not occur immediately, and he may linger several days.

Fluctuating Pulse.

Executive Mansion, 1:22 p.m.—There has been no improvement in the President's condition since the last bulletin. He continues to retain the liquid food administered by mouth, as well as enemata. At the morning dressing the parotid swelling appeared about the same as yesterday, and no material change was observed in the wound. Since morning the temperature has risen about one degree and the pulse has fluctuated somewhat. At present the pulse is 120; temperature, 99.6, respiration, 22.

Bliss, Barnes, Woodward, Reyburn, Hamilton.

General Swain's Opinion.

Executive Mansion, 2:20 p.m.—There has been no marked change in the President's condition this afternoon. General Swain, who has just come from the room, thinks he is a little better.

Prolonging Life by Stimulants.

Washington, 2:30 p.m.—Reports from the sick room say there is no change in the President's condition. The doctors continue to administer stimulants to prolong life.

The President Dying.

Everything is quiet about the White House at this writing, and everyone is waiting with anxiety for the going down of the sun, which it is believed will mark the beginning of the end. No bulletins have been issued since noon, and only Doctors Woodward and Edson are at the White House. None of the members of the cabinet have put in an appearance since the adjournment of the consultation at noon. It is reported again that the proclamation calling Congress in session is in the hands of Secretary Blaine, to be issued this evening.

Mysterious Disappearance.

New York, 27.—The Tribune says: The apparently unaccountable disappearance of John H. Davis causes some talk among business men. He is a drug broker and head of the firm of John H. Davis & Co., Maiden Lane. He left his store July 21st, telling his clerk he was going to the Catskills for a week or 10 days. Since then the clerk has heard nothing from him. Davis is a native of Missouri, and it is said is a near relative of Jefferson Davis. He is well spoken of among the drug dealers, and was major in the Confederate army upon General N. B. Forrest's staff.

Drunkard Desperadoes.

GALVESTON, Texas, 27.—A gang of desperadoes have during the past week, been committing every kind of lawlessness about Rangerfield.

A Marshal Murdered.

SILVERTON, Col., 26.—Last night D. C. Osgubury, city marshal, was killed by roughs, Bart Wilkinson and Dyson, and Eskridge. The whole town was aroused, and the murderers will be lynched if captured. Eskridge is a notorious desperado and large rewards are offered for his arrest for other crimes.

Bible Conference in Maine.

OLD ORTHARD BEACH, Me., 27.—The following dispatch was sent from here to-day by members of the Bible conference now in session, and which is composed of representatives from all parties of the United States. "It is the desire of the conference that Christians of all parts of the country may communicate to the authorities at Washington their sympathy with this suggestion."

Hon. James G. Blaine, Secretary of State, Washington.

The Christians assembled from many parts of the United States in conference at this place for Bible study, herewith express their unceasing prayerful sympathy with the President and Mrs. Garfield in their affliction, and recognizing that all human power is insufficient for our present extremity and that all our hopes are in God, respectfully ask that you will suggest as early a day as practicable for national humiliation and prayer, that Christians of every name may more perfectly unite in recognizing and entreating divine mercies.

In behalf of the convention, (Signed) JAMES H. BROOKS, St. Louis, President. W. J. EDD, Jamestown, N.Y., Secretary.
