GEMS PICKED UP ON CITY STREETS.

Young Lady and Lad Make Easy Money Returning Diamonds to Salt Lakers.

LOST PROPERTY ADS. DID IT.

Mrs. Twining and L. L. Downing Made Happy Over Return of Valuable Jewelry Today.

That there are plenty of honest people in Salt Lake, that honesty is rewarded, and that it pays to advertise were exemplified in a striking manner this morning. In two cases diamonds were lost and in both the loss was advertised in the "News" and the gems promptly returned.

In one case Mrs. H. S. Twining lost four valuable rings whose total value is nearly $450; in the other L. L. Downing lost a diamond ring. Both have been returned to their owners.

Mrs. Twining, who is the wife of the superintendent of the Pullman company here, placed her rings in a chamois leather bag for safe keeping on Sunday last. Instead of tying the ribbons around her neck she tucked the bag and its contents into the bosom of her waist. Upon arriving home she discovered that she had lost her jewels. Then it was that advertising was resorted to. The sequel was that Miss Jessie Chase, who resides at 342 east Tenth South, appeared at the Pullman offices this morning and handed in the rings, stating that she picked them up near the Templeton building. The bag had evidently been trodden on by some passer by before it had been picked up by the young lady, for one of the rings was badly bent and the diamond crushed from its setting. Mr. Twining promptly handed the young lady $25 and thanked her. She in turn was overwhelmed at her good fortune and after mutual congratulations the incident closed.

The missing rings consisted of two solitaires each of a carat and a quarter diamond, one opal ring and one of unique design set with pearls.

MORE HAPPINESS.

A want ad in the "News" made everybody happy, at least that is the way Landon L. Downing, the well-known wool buyer, put it this morning. Mr. Downing is the proud possessor of a handsome fraternity diamond ring, which he prizes even above his pet dog —which is saying something. The other evening he was playing with this aforesaid canine on the lawn when he missed his ring. All sport was suspended instanter, and the former railroad man promptly started a search for his lost jewel. The wife and the hired girl, the neighbors and their offspring joined in the search, and every available rake on the block was pressed into service. The lawn was raked and reraked, swept and counter-swept. Matches were burned and candles guttered in the evening breeze, but no sparkler developed. Never before had the lawn been so thoroughly overhauled. The next morning as Downing came down town he remembered that little story which has as its motto, "It Pays to Advertise." Downing promptly hied to the "News" and inserted a t. f. ad in the lost property column.

This is how he tells the story:

"Honest, the 'News' had not been on the street five minutes before a kid came into the office and says to me, 'Say, boss, are you der guy what lost a ring?' 'That's me, son,' I answered. Then the lad produced my property and handed it over.

"Then I put on my best fatherly air and said, 'Son, I am glad to see that you are honest; here's something to help you to remember always so to be.' With that I pulled out a $10 bill and handed it to him. My, but you should have seen that youngster fall over the furniture in his anxiety to get to the door. When he got there he yelled, 'Tanks, boss,' jumped into his wagon, hit his pony a lick, and went sailing down the street. After thinking the matter over I came to the conclusion that the boy when he saw the X on the corner of that bill was anxious to make a getaway before I changed my mind.

"I had pulled the ring off my finger while wiping may hands in the office, and it had fallen in the fold of the towel. When the boy changed the towels he threw the dirty one into his wagon and drove off. He found the ring in the bottom of his wagon when he got back to the supply house."

THE JOLLY MUSKETEER.

Salt Lake Opera Company to Have a Reunion Before Miss Gates Leaves.

The regular theatrical season at the Theater will be opened in notable fashion on Sept. 18, the attraction being nothing less than the Salt Lake Opera company in a revival of their locally famous "Jolly Musketeer."

For some time past the members of the company have been talking of a reunion prior to the departure of Emma Lucy Gates for Europe and the Theater management, believing that the local company was as strong as any ordinary foreign attraction that could be secured, offered it the dates for the opening of the regular season, and arrangements have already been concluded. Telegrams have been sent to New York for the books, libretto and orchestration, the Salt Lake Costuming House is at work on new outfits complete, and rehearsals will be begun immediately Prof. Mechem and Miss Gates return from Portland.

The cast will be almost identical with that of the previous presentation with two exceptions, the first being that Mrs. Luella Ferrin Sharp's part will be assumed by Emma Ramsey Morris who will make her first appearance in opera on this occasion, Mrs. Sharp being absent from the city. The second change will be the substitution of Hugh W. Dougall, in the role of the captain, in which the lamented Hobe S. Goddard appeared. Emma Lucy Gates, John D. Spencer, Geo. D. Pyper, Fred C. Graham, Mrs. Bessie Browning, and Elsie Barrow Bear will all fill their old roles. The company's fine chorus will remain almost intact, only three or four new members being added to supply the place of singers who are not now here. Prof. McClellan will put in a specially enlarged orchestra to furnish the accompaniments.

NO CRIMINAL INTENT.

In Consequence Mayor Morris Recommends Reimbursement for Deer.

The deer which was confiscated by State Game Warden John Sharp and which is now in Liberty park, is the subject of a communication from Mayor Morris to the city council. The deer was captured by a sheep herder in the canyon near Provo, and was given to his daughter. The latter sold it to John Snyder, and he brought it to this city with the intention of selling it, when it was confiscated by the game warden.

The mayor states in his communication that there was no criminal intent connected with the matter, and he recommends that the council appropriates $25 to the credit of Mr. Snyder as compensation for the animal.

FOOD AND DRUG ADULTERATIONS.

Subject of an Interesting Talk Before the State Druggists Association.

STATE CHEMIST THE SPEAKER.

Says Millions of Dollars Are Spent Annually for This Class of Goods —Poor the Victim.

The state druggists held a well attended session this morning at the Commercial club. The feature of the session was a very able paper on "Food and Drug Adulterations," by State Chemist Harms. It was listened to with the greatest attention, and President Fennemore and other officials of the association afterwards remarked that it was one of the best they had ever listened to. The essayist said in substance:

FAKE MEDICINES.

"The amount of money spent annually for adulterated foods reaches into the millions; but this sum is exceeded by the moneys expended for fraudulent medicines. The evil has grown so great that in not a few states laws have been passed regulating the sales of adulterated foods. The use of chemical preservatives or antiseptics in foods is injurious to the human system, retarding digestion; and is especially injurious when used in milk which is so universal an article of food.

CHEMICALS USED.

"Some of the chemicals used are formaldehyde, borax, boracic acid, benzoate soda, saccharine, sulphite of soda, calcium, the potassium sulphites, fluoride of sodium, beta napthol, and other equally harmful ingredients. They are to be found in milk, cream, butter, catsups, fish, jams, preserves, jellies, meats, oysters, canned goods, wines, beer, and in fact, every article of food liable to fermentation. Coal tar colorings, or analines, are to be found in many articles of food, noticeably catsups and jams and jellies; and as there are from 1,200 to 1,500 varieties of analines, the extent to which they are used may be imagined. In their manufacture, arsenic, zinc, sulphuric acid and other similar chemicals are employed, and whether these are healthful is pretty well understood. Stringent poisons, such as copper, zinc and iron salts are used in the greening of peas and in other canned goods.

A NEW ADULTERANT.

"A comparatively new and very dangerous adulterant has come into use in the shape of menthol or alcohol distilled from wood, distinguished from alcohol distilled from grain. It is a violent poison, costing only one-third as much as the grain made article, and is used in liquors and in alleged fruit extracts. Many of these so-called fruit extracts used for flavoring are entirely innocent of the orthodox ingredients that should be used in their manufacture. Saccharine is a comparatively new substitution for sugar. It is a white powder, made from coal tar, intensely sweet—550 times sweeter than sugar made from the cane, and is marketed under several fanciful names, such as glucide and dulade. Saccharine has no food value whatever, and is used largely in jellies, jams and canned goods. Some states forbid its manufacture.

FALL ON THE POOR.

"These frauds fall the most heavily on the uneducated and poorer classes. They are sold cream deprived of its butter fat and thickened with gelatine, starch preparations, viscogin, and colored with analine dyes. They are sold renovated butter that is loaded with water, and otherwise doctored to suit sight and taste. Lard is adulterated with cottonseed oil, and labeled as "Best Leaf Lard." Vinegar is made from acetic acid, caramel and oil of apples. Jellies, jams, marmalades, etc., do not contain the first suggestion of real fruits, but are made of gelatine, starchpaste, glucose, etc. Honey is sold that never saw a bee. Cream of Tartar is made from chalk, starch, phosphates, and other similar chemicals."

The essayist devoted the second part of his paper to an expose of quite a number of patent medicines which he said were fakes and frauds of the worst kind, and strongly advocated such legislation as would prove effectual in reducing the evils spoken of in his paper to a minimum. The adulteration of drugs, too, came in for a scorching not only because they were frauds, but because of the damage inflicted on an innocent public.

MR. CULLY'S PAPER.

A second paper, which was well prepared, and listened to with interest, was one prepared by John Cully, Ph.G., of Ogden, on the "Retail Druggist as a manufacturing pharmacist." Dr. Cully was a classmate of Prof. Harms at the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, in the class of 1894, and with another Utah boy, the three carried off the chief honors of the year. Dr. Cully held it was the duty of the pharmacist to manufacture all of his pharmaceutical preparations, as far as possible, rather than trust to the wholesale manufacturers. Where a man makes his own goods he is sure to a certainty what he is getting. Dr. Cully is considered one of the most successful pharmacists in the state.

ELECTION THIS AFTERNOON.

Dr. Clarence McCoy, the well known druggist and pharmacist of this city and formerly one of the shining lights of the Salt Lake Rowing club, is to read a paper at this afternoon's session, and the annual election of officers and the decision as to the organization of the proposed Inter State Druggist association will also occur later. It is understood that the inter state proposition is a sure go. A big banquet closes the day this evening.

AT THE RESORTS.

This afternoon at Saltair the Grocers and Butchers are feeding the multitude gratis, on the theory that on their day of the year, the people shall not pay for what they are charged cash for all the rest of the year. An improvement at the beach for this event has just been completed. It is a wide staircase leading down to the stand from the pavilion and will make strolling on the salt sea beach a feature of visits to the lake hereafter. This afternoon it will be used to allow the crowd to go down to witness a baseball game and other sports on the beach.

The Maccabee lodges are enjoying an outing at Lagoon today. An excursion will be run from Park City tomorrow.

WEATHER MAN IS DELIGHTED.

Storm of Last Night and Yesterday Afternoon Cause Him to Wear Expansive Smile.

PLAYED HAVOC WITH THINGS.

Street Cars Collide and Transformers Are Burned Out by Lightning.

The hot spell was broken for a time last night, by the series of thunder showers predicted by the local weather bureau, and Col. Ludhoiz, the observer in charge, is in consequence wearing a laurel wreath above his ample hirsute aureole in token of appreciation from a long suffering public, while metaphorical boquets are being fired into the weather office as fast as imaginary messenger boys can carry them.

The first shower "struck the town" out of a comparatively clear sky early in the afternoon, the favored section being restricted to this city and its immediate vicinity. The mercury, in celebration of this,immediately dropped from 90 degrees to less than 70, but hurried upstairs again to regain lost ground after the shower was over, and hung to 85 degrees. Showers fell intermittently most of the afternoon, the wind rising to a velocity of 36 miles about 4 p. m. The heated atmosphere was given a fair rinsing out, and the dust was settled. The afternoon's precipitation was .06 of an inch.

Immense masses of black clouds banked up in the northwest sky early in the evening, and later "the rains descended and the floods came" with a roaring wind, and .24 of an inch of rain fell. The lightning was incessant and the thunder equally so, and considerable confusion was occasioned in electric light circles in consequence. A trolly wire at Second South and West Temple streets went down with a flash, but it was speedily quarantined, and the hurry-up wagon of the street railway was presently on the spot to repair damages. Lightning struck the wire operating the fans at the Crystal cafe on south Main street, and tore one of them to pieces, scattering the debris all over the place with a noise like the discharge of a Gatling cannon. A stransformer at the Fourth West street plant of the Light & Railway company was burned out by lightning, which cut off the lights from a section of the city for a short time until other connections could be made, and stopped the running of street cars on several lines.

STREET CARS COLLIDE.

A Sixth street car running on the Calder's Park line was coasting down the grade on Third South street, westbound, with W. S. Ferris, an 'extra," at the helm. The lights were all out in that part of the city for a time, on account of the burning of the transformer at the Fourth West street station, and the rain was beating in heavily from thich northwest. Ferris meant all right, but he didn't know that there was a stalled car ahead of him on the same track, for the cars had no lights, the windows of the vestibule were wet, and his car was running on a gravity momentum. Presently there was a collision and a crash, as the coasting car banged into the other, smashing the former's vestibule, and decorating Ferris with broken glass. Fortunately, no one was hurt to speak of, and when the lights and order were restored, the wrecked car was hauled to the barn. Supt. Reed is investigating the accident. The loss to the company by the destruction of the transformer is from $500 to $2,000.

Lightning struck a tree in front of 232 east Seventh South street, and set it on fire, but the flames were quenched by the fire department.

Today has opened promising as to a renewal of the heated spell, but the weather office looks for more showers.

HEARD SWEET MUSIC.

Misses Peck and Davie Give Firemen a Pleasant Musicale.

There was a pleasant little musicale at fire department headquarters yesterday afternoon, when Miss Nellie Peck, a pianiste aged 16, and Miss Alice Davie, a violiniste aged 14, visited headquarters and favored the firemen with an impromptu program that was much enjoyed. Miss Peck is sister of Mrs. Jack Berry whose husband is a member of the department, and played the piano with an ease and grace that was charming. Miss Davie has a $200 violin which she is very proud of, and performed thereon with an ability which delighted the firemen. Miss Peck playing the piano accompaniment. The boys think they could stand up under such a visitation every day in the week.

Mr., can you tell me where Dr. Higgins' boulevard is? It's between Ninth and Twelfth South, on Main street.

DEATH OF MRS. BROWN.

Wife of Ex-Senator Brown Succumbs to Stomach Trouble.

Mrs. Isabel Cameron Brown, wife of Ex-Senator Arthur Brown, died at the family residence yesterday afternoon from stomach trouble. Mrs. Brown was attended through her last illness by Dr. Hosmer but despite his efforts, her condition became serious some time before her demise. The end, which was not unexpected, came with her husband, her son Max, and a number of intimate friends at the bedside. The funeral announcement is being held pending the receipt of telegrams from relatives in the east who were notified yesterday of Mrs. Brown's death.

Mrs. Brown was fifty-five years of age. As a resident of Utah she has been an ardent worker in the women's clubs of the state, and in charitable organizations. At the time of her death she was on the Orphan's Home and Day School Nursery board, a member of the Ladies' Literary club, and a member of the Utah Women's Press club. She came to Utah in 1880, and has resided here continuously since that time. In the political campaign of 1895 she was a prominent worker in the Republican forces.

TWO LIEUTENANTS ARE OUT OF GUARD

Leave the First Battery After Receiving Letters from Col. Geoghegan.

WERE CALLED TO ACCOUNT.

Personal Conspiracy Within the Service Not Considered Essential to Military Duty.

The determination of Col. Joseph Geoghegan, acting adjutant general of the National Guard of Utah, that there shall be no officer or man in the national guard who does not place loyalty to the state as the first essential of his service, is responsible for the resignations of two officers. They are both of the First battery, and have been supporters of former Capt. Wm. C. Webb in the efforts of his friends to make it appear that his resignation followed improper treatment on the part of higher officials. The men were not crowded out by Col. Geoghegan, but a demand for their unequivocal support was placed before them as an ultimatum, and their resignations were thus forced. The letter practically challenged their patriotism for the state, and demanded an immediate accounting for their conduct, which left only two possible alternatives. The officers are Lieutenant Fred Smith and Lieutenant Geo. Worthen, both of them former High school foot ball players. Their resignations were accepted without delay, as was that of the former captain, as the plan of campaign on which Col. Geoghegan appears to be building up the guard, is that a vacancy is better than a hostile officer, and that a united few, who are ambitious for the good of the service, can do more in building up the citizen soldiery than a larger divided strength.

TEXT OF LETTER.

The letter sent to the two officers preceding their resignations, read as follows:

"Sir—Please advise me immediately if I can count on your unequivocal support in my efforts to build up the battery."

It was mailed Thursday last, and the resignations were forwarded yesterday, it is thought, as the answer of the officers.

In discussing his action in the matter today, Col. Geoghegan said that he took the step because he considered it necessary to either have the support of the officers or get rid of them. "There is no officer in the guard," he added, "who can hold his commission, and be engaged in a private conspiracy within the guard. Loyalty to the state is the only true soldierly spirit, and I don't want any personal fights to get in between an officer and his duty in this regard."

NOT AFTER SALARY.

When asked if he intended to cease his temporary position as acting adjutant general, to assume it with the rank of brigadier general,he stated that a published statement to that effect was without foundation in fact. "I have not discussed the matter, or thought of it particularly" he declared, "and if the change is ever made, it won't be from the motive assigned—that I am doing it to draw the salary that may be withheld while I am acting in the capacity. The salary will go into the guard—every cent of it, and I am not in this business for the returns it brings to me."

RESIGNATIONS NECESSARY.

"We are going right ahead with the improvement of the service, and every thing that has happened since I took charge, was necessary to clear the way for growth. I do not regret a single occurance of it, and think a year's time will justify what has been done."

BATTERY TO REMAIN.

The forcing out of the guard of two officers of the battery strengthens the probability that the muster out of the body is not contemplated. An individual discharge without honor would in most states be regarded as substantial a disgrace as a citizen could acquire from his state, and an order of discharge "for the good of the service" is not to be esteemed as much more valuable.

The signers of the petition for muster out have not been dealt with in any way as yet, but it is probable that when action is taken it will be against the signers only, and that the battery will be recruited from its remaining strength. A situation of this nature was met recently in the Pennsylvania state guard by transferring the kicking members of one organization to another and forcing them to work out their terms of enlistment, while the disabled organization was freshly recruited.

AMUSEMENTS.

Jolly May Irwin in "Mrs. Black is Back" comes to the theater tomorrow night. The sale is now going on at the box office and without doubt the company will have a big reception.

The veteran actor Harry Horseley is to have a benefit at the Salt Lake theater sometime next month, Manager Pyper having generously tendered the house to the committee having the matter in charge. Mr. Horsely is an old timer whose experiences date back to the Salt Lake Stock company and he has been associated with the theater almost from its commencement. He is also a member of the Veteran Firemen's association and one of the street car force, and his friends in these two bodies have agreed to take up the benefit and handle it vigorously.

LATE LOCALS.

The Ensign stake Relief society will hold its regular monthly meeting, Friday, Aug. 25, at 2 p. m. in the Twelfth ward chapel. Margaret A. Romney, president; Anna K. Hardy, secretary.

O. F. Peterson, who is back from the coast, says the boom in southern California, and particularly the excitement at Venice still keeps up. Over $1,000,000 has been blown in at the new Venetian resort, and the promoter says he is ready to spend $1,000,000 more.

The state board of equalization returned this morning from Beaver,where the members held a heart to heart talk with the assessors of adjoining counties. The board leaves Friday morning for Manti, where a delegation of county assessors will be found waiting for a conference there.

DISTRICT COURT MOVES TO BINGHAM

Shooting of Deputy Sheriff Chidester Being Investigated at Latter's Bedside.

TOO ILL TO APPEAR IN COURT.

With the Taking of Mr. Chidester's Testimony the Case Will be Submitted to Jury.

The great mining camp of Bingham is the scene of unusual activity today in court circles, as a session of the criminal division of the district is being held there to take the testimony of Deputy Sheriff Lafayette Chidester, who was so seriously wounded in the Austrian riot in Bingham on March 24. The deputy was unable to come to this city to attend court, so court is being held today at his bedside.

The party which went to Bingham this morning to hold court consisted of District Judge George G. Armstrong, his stenographer, County Clerk Eldredge, District Attorney Loofbourow, Attorney A. J. Weber, who represents the defendants, the eight jurors who are serving in the case, Antonio Tomyerovic, Martin Sutio, Gurgo Starcevic and Yozo Bachic, the men who are being tried for assaulting the deputy; Deputy Sheriffs Steele, Sharp, Butler and Larsen.

CHIDESTER MAY DIE.

With the taking of the testimony of Deputy Sheriff Chidester, the case will be ready to be argued and submitted to the jury. The wounded officer has been in a critical condition ever since the amputation of his leg several months ago, and it is not believed that he will live. In the event of his death, Frank Devic, who fired the fatal shot, and who disappeared after being released on bail in the sum of $1,000, will be charged with murder.

NEW INTERPRETER.

At the afternoon session yesterday John Wackstein of Ogden was sworn in as interpreter to take the place of the other interpreter, removed upon request of the attorney for the defense. Wackstein is as black as a negro, but claims that he is a Turk and he soon convinced all connected with the case that he thoroughly understood the Austrian language.

The party which went to Bingham today will return tonight and the case will be concluded tomorrow.

OBJECTS TO CUTOFF.

Utah Fertilizing Company Sues Southern Pacific for $25,000.

A damage suit filed by the Utah Fertilizing company against the Southern Pacific company was today transferred from the district court of Tooele county to the federal court. The suit is for $25,000 damages, growing out of the building of the Lucin cut-off across the lake. Plaintiff alleges that the cut-off stopped the steamer route from the guano islands to the lake shore, which is the only available market.

Two Decrees of Divorce.

Two divorces were granted yesterday afternoon by Judge Armstrong, Lena Nephew was divorced from Frank Nephew on the ground of cruelty. They were married on Aug. 10, 1893.

Martha Masterman was granted a divorce from Henry J. Masterman on the ground of failure to support.

COURT NOTES.

Suit for divorce has been filed in the district court by Mary E. Jones against William E. Jones on the ground of non-support. The parties were married in this city on Aug. 16, 1906, one week ago today. Since that time defendant has refused to provide for plaintiff. She now asks for a divorce and for $25 per month alimony.

Desertion and failure to provide are the grounds upon which Ella Welch is suing James Welch for divorce in the district court. The complaint was filed today and alleges that plaintiff and defendant were married at Cheyenne, Wyo., on Dec. 27, 1897, and that in September, 1899, defendant deserted plaintiff and since March 30, 1900, has failed to support her.

Assistant County Attorney J. P. Lyon is in Murray today conducting the preliminary examinations of Carl Carlson, charged with attempted robbery, and Charles Johnson, charged with burglary in the second degree. Carlson, on Aug. 11, attempted to rob Mrs. Mary Stone of $50 at her home in Big Cottonwood, but was driven out of the house at the point of a revolver in the hands of his intended victim. Johnson is charged with entering the room of Erick Turnquist at Murray in the daytime of Aug. 13 and stealing articles of minor value.

At the conclusion of the hearing Justice Holm bound both defendants over to the district court and fixed the bond at $500 in each case.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The high favor with which sugar investments are regarded in this section, is well illustrated by the quotations on the stock of the new Sanpete & Sevier Sugar company, the certificates for which are not yet issued, and only the first 10 per cent call on which has been made on the stockholders. Brokers report the liveliest sort of demand for the stock, and options on future rights, and are bidding today $10.55 for the former and 75 cents for the options; but few sellers are found, however, as the stock is more closely held than that of any other sugar company which has been organized.

Another indication of the strength of sugar investments was shown at noon today when the Idaho Sugar company opened bids for the remainder of its treasury stock, amounting to 160 shares. The lowest bid was $13.06 per share, the highest $13.2576, at which figure the block was knocked down to Broker E. M. Ashton.

A copy of the articles of incorporation of the National Life association of Des Moines, Ia., was filed in the secretary of state's office today. Henry Pyle is president of the association; L. M. Paul, secretary; G. L. Amberg of this city, resident agent for Utah.

The demand for Waists continues. The styles which we show arouse admiration. The prices are unexpectedly low. The special prices are unmatched.

The Sale in the Basement is The Event of the Week at the Store.

The demand for Brass Beds, the greatly reduced prices, is one of the surprises. A lively response was anticipated, but the sales are larger than we expected.

Iron Beds, beautifully trimmed and in all shades, are being sold lower in price this week than at any previous sale.

Carpets can always be sold even in dull season. Reduce the prices sufficiently and the people will do the rest. Carpets are sold close, and such genuine reductions as ours naturally bring results.

Carpets and Draperies are marvelously low in price this week.
