Mark the Burial of Mrs. Joseph Pingree—Profuse Eulogies Of Beautiful Life.

CO. ASSESSOR'S VALUATIONS.

Substantial Increase Over Last Year's Tax Values—$20,000 Damage Suit—Sunday School Union.

Ogden, May 13.—All that was mortal of Mrs. Clara R. Pingree, wife of Joseph Pingree, was consigned to its final rest yesterday afternoon in the family burial plot in the Ogden City cemetery.

During the morning many of her friends and associates passed by the bier and looked for the last time in mortality on her face. That she was beloved by all who knew her was evidenced by the large assemblage of sympathizing relatives and friends at the fifth ward meeting at the funeral services and the great wealth of sympathy floral tributes. Members of the Young Ladies' M. I. association assembled at the home and carried the many floral designs at the head of the funeral bier to the church. The services were commenced at 2 o'clock, Bishop John Watson presiding. Members of the tabernacle choir under the direction of Prof. Ballantyne, furnished the music. The choir sang, "O My Father," and "Hark, Hark My Soul." Mrs. Mary Farley sang, "The End of the Way," Miss Myrtle Ballantyne, "Rock of Ages," and Misses Weidly and Maud Belnap sang, "Count Your Many Blessings." The speakers were Presidents C. F. Middleton and N. C. Fingate, Patriarch George W. Larkin, Elder James H. Douglass and Bishop Watson. With words of deep emotion each one spoke of his high regard for the deceased and the sorrow they felt at her death. They also spoke of her life of purity and her great love for the gospel, and the grief stricken families were given hope and faith in the glorious resurrection.

WEBER TAX VALUES.

Substantial Increase Over 1906 Assessments in County.

Ogden, May 13.—County Assessor Edwin Dix has completed the assessment of city and county property for the year 1907. The total valuation made by the county assessor is $13,454,056.

The elimination of mortgages from taxation reduces the source of revenue, as compared with 1906, about $31,000 in valuation. This, with the last legislative changes, giving to the state board of equalization the assessing of the Utah Light & Railway company and other pipe and power transmission companies, reduces the assessor's totals $218,664, the same being the assessor's loss last year on the corporations named.

BIG DAMAGE SUIT.

The Union Pacific has been made defendant in a $20,000 damage suit brought by A. I. Stone, administrator of the estate of Virgil G. Faulkner, deceased. It is alleged in the complaint: That on March 9, 1907, while Faulkner was riding on the steps of the locomotive of the train upon which he was employed as a brakeman, he was struck by the bridge over the Black Forks river and knocked to the river bed below, a distance of about 20 feet. Faulkner's injuries were fatal. The company is claimed to be at fault on account of not maintaining bridges of sufficient width to clear a man when standing upon the steps of a locomotive. Faulkner had been in the employ of the company eight days when the accident occurred. Maginlis & Corn are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING.

The regular monthly Sunday School union meeting of the Weber stake was held yesterday afternoon at the stake academy hall. The attendance numbered nearly 300 and the interest manifested by the workers indicated the great interest given to the Sunday school cause. Three members of the Sunday school board, Mrs. Winifred Woodmansee, Poulton, Mrs. Mabel Jensen and Arthur Wright, were honorably released on account of other duties. The thought contained in the hymn, "Nay, speak no ill," was developed and taught in four-part singing. Those present were divided into three groups and very instructive talks were made by W. M. McKendrick on "Discipline in Sunday School," S. D. Bradford on "Outlining," and S. G. Dye on "Respect of Seniors and Authority."

FINDS RUNAWAY WIFE.

George Jones, a resident of Weiser, Ida., spent Saturday in Ogden for the purpose of locating his erring wife, which task with the aid of the police he accomplished late in the afternoon and forgave her for the wrong she had done him and their five little children. Jones traced his wife to Pocatello, Idaho. The police learned that the man and woman wanted were located at a local roominghouse, and that the couple had been residing there as man and wife for about three weeks, during which time the woman worked in a local restaurant. The wronged husband made considerable talk about making a gun play. Before he had time to put his threats into execution the police searched and took a couple of guns from his person. The eloping couple were taken to the police station, where the man was registered as H. C. Perkins of Meadow Valley, and the woman gave her name as Mary James. Weaver, Ida. Perkins was looked up for a time, during which the husband and wife talked matters over and decided to patch up their difficulties and go back home. Perkins furnished a bond for $50 and was released. It is supposed that he left town immediately.

All those connected with the case are said to be coming to Ogden, where the towns in Idaho in which they reside.

BURGLARS GET $350.

Denver Roominghouse Entered and Jacob Bert Robbed.

Ogden, May 13.—Jacob Bert reported to the police this morning that during his absence from the Denver rooming house this morning, his room was entered and $350 in currency belonging to him was taken. Bert arose early this morning and thoughtlessly left his vest, containing the roll of greenbacks and his watch, hanging over the back of a chair. On his return the money was gone. The police have no clue to work on. Of the money taken $200 was in $20 bills, the remainder being in fractional currency.

Mrs. Etherington was born in Sunderland, Dunhamshire, England, Sept. 27, 1833. She became a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in 1856, and came to Utah ten years later, and has resided at West Weber continuously until the time of her death. She is survived by two daughters and one son, namely, Mrs. Margaret Dances, Mrs. Isabel E. Montgomery and John M. Etherington. Her husband preceded her to the grave at about four months ago. PILGRIMAGE OF THE UTAH PIONEERS

SIXTY YEARS AGO TODAY.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 12, 1847.

About 5 o'clock in the morning the thermometer stood at 44 degrees Fahrenheit. A detached thermometer at 4 degrees, giving for the height of this place, above the level of the sea, 2,634 feet. The wind blew moderately from the east; the sky was clear. The wind changed during the day to the south. William Clayton, with the assistance of Appleton Harmon, a mechanic, had constructed a machine and he attached it to the wagon to indicate the number of miles traveled. It was constructed upon the principle of the endless screw. According to this mile-measuring machine the pioneers traveled about six miles when Oron Pratt took a meridian altitude of the sun, and determined the latitude of the camp of the pioneers to be 41 degrees 9 minutes 44 seconds. By various signs it was ascertained that a large party of Indians had recently been in this vicinity, which accounts for the immense herds of buffalo leaving this place and going down the river; buffalo had been scarce for two days past. The tract of land on the opposite side, between the two forks, appeared to be very low and level from the point at the junction to some 30 miles west. The breadth of the bottoms vary between one and two miles; the timber upon the banks and islands was very scarce, consisting of willow and cottonwood. The company traveled during the day 11½ miles, and encamped by the side of a clear stream of running water, about 15 feet wide. A number of small islands were caught with hooks in this stream. The Indian horses and buffalo had left the grass rather short.

THURSDAY, MAY 13, 1847.

At 5 o'clock in the morning the thermometer stood at 49 degrees. A brisk cold wind was blowing and the sky was overcast with thick clouds. The wind soon changed to the northeast, accompanied with a depression of temperature, rendering it cold during the day. The camp left about 8 o'clock, traveled four miles and halted to let the teams feed. The course this day was nearly west. In the afternoon they crossed a clear stream of running water, sandy bottom, six and three-quarters miles from their noon halt; and five miles from the last stream they crossed a river about 12 rods in width. At the place of fording the deepest place did not exceed two feet. The bottom was composed of quicksand, in which several teams were set; other teams were sent to their assistance, and they soon all passed over.

This stream, not being mentioned in any of the guide books up to that time, President Brigham named it North Bluff Fork, by which name it was known for years. It is now called Birdwood creek.

The pioneers in fording streams with quicksand bottoms found it necessary to keep the wagons all the time in motion, for the moment they were stopped the quicksand began to sink in the sand, and required considerable force to extricate them.

The pioneers camped on the right side of North Bluff fork about 150 rods from its entrance into the north fork of the Platte. The general course of this river for two or three miles from its confluence with the north fork, is nearly north, but south of the confluence bear the same willy muddly appearance as the Platte. It proceeds from between the bluffs about one mile from its mouth. About one mile west of encampment the bluffs made the pioneers go up to the river, producing a high, precipitous bank.

evening and organized a local merchants' association. The public schools are preparing an opera, entitled "The Enchanted Wood," to be presented at the closing of schools, May 31.
