FLOATING FRAGMENTS.

A beautiful day after the storm.

Some parties are starting a new lumber yard in the neighborhood of the D. & R. G. depot.

James Dunn, Esq., Supt. of the Provo factory, is in town, on business.

Apostle Erastus Snow purposed leaving for St. George on to-day's 2 p.m. train.

The return of pleasant weather once more reminds us of the poet's words, that

Spring's delights are all reviving,
Welcome news, 'tis near May-day.

To those who desire to become good penmen there is no better self-instructor than Gaskell's Compendium of Penmanship, for sale by J. H. Parry. See advertisement.

"Pa," said a little boy at a theatre the other night, "I wish I would hurry up and get bald-headed." "Why, my son?" "Because then I could always sit on the front row of chairs."

This morning John Williams appeared before Justice Spiers on a charge of being intoxicated and using profane language. Being adjudged guilty, he was assessed in the sum ten dollars.

It is rumored in Washington that Secretary Teller will refuse to recognize the lease of a large section of the Indian Territory, made by the Cherokees to the cattlemen of Chicago, St. Louis, and Kansas City.

The regular monthly meeting of the Home Missionaries was held last evening, according to appointment, President A. M. Cannon presiding, there being a good attendance. The meeting adjourned to the last Wednesday in May, at 7.30 o'clock, half an hour later than the meetings have heretofore convened.

When a potato is exposed to the light in a cellar the eyes nearly all start a good healthy green sprout, but if in a pile or in darkness, only the strongest eyes grow long, white, worthless sprouts. Hence, seed-potatoes should be spread thinly in the light. The sprouts should not be broken off when cutting the seed for planting.

Cows that are soon to come in should receive careful and regular attendance. Over-feeding with rich food should be avoided, but good, sweet nutritious food should be given, that their health be kept in the best condition; nor should it be forgotten that they should have some exercise, as well as good light and air and pure water.

Never prune a tree, or at least never remove large branches, after the first warm day of spring, and before the foliage is of full size. Large branches, if cut away at that period, will be sure to "bleed" more or less during the summer, causing an unsightly, blackening of the bark below the wound, and occasioning the decay of the heart wood from the incision downward, sometimes even causing the premature decrepitude and death of the tree.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

High Council.—The High Council will meet at the Council House, to-morrow evening, April 27th, at 7.30 o'clock.

W. W. TAYLOR, Clerk.

War Horses and Equipments.—To-day we publish a statement signed by Geo. C. Douglas, Department Commander G. A. R., showing how all officers and enlisted men who lost equipments or horses while in active military service of the government, can have their claims adjudicated.

The Wind at Manti.—The Herald of this morning publishes the following dispatch from Manti:

"A wind storm, bordering on a hurricane, caused considerable damage to property in this city. A portion of the roof of the new meeting-house was carried away; several houses and barns unroofed; several thousand feet of lumber carried from the Temple Block into adjoining fields. The loss is comparatively light. No one was injured. It is reported that many houses were unroofed in towns north of here. The direction of the blizzard was south of east."

Not so Severely Injured.—We are informed that the insane asylum near Provo was not nearly so badly injured by the wind storm of Monday night as was at first supposed and reported. None of the timbers gave way, about the only injury consisting of a portion of the tin roofing, which had not yet been permanently secured at the edge, where the cornice was to be attached, was caught by the hurricane, torn off and carried about half a mile. The body of the building and timbers of the roof were, we are told, not damaged to any extent.

A Fine Building.—The fine new house of Bishop H. B. Clawson, a short distance north of the Eagle Gate, is nearly completed, being so far advanced that the furniture is being moved into some of the rooms. It is quite an imposing structure, of light colored brick, and is an ornament to the locality. It contains eleven rooms, and it would be difficult to conceive of more convenient arrangements than the interior affords. None but excellent workmen have been employed, and their skill is shown in the work, which is substantial as well as attractive to the eye. The entire construction has been under the supervision of Brother Don Carlos Young, in his capacity of architect and superintendent.

Convict Captured. — Yesterday we noted that Robert Frank, a penitentiary convict, escaped from custody the night before. Last even he was observed by Brother Thomas C. Griggs, of the Fifteenth Ward store, who assisted at his capture when he committed the burglary. Brother Griggs approached Frank, who was sitting on a ditch gate, with his hat pulled over his eyes. When recognized and spoken to he stated that he had been pardoned out of the penitentiary. The residence of the U. S. Marshal being near, Mrs. Ireland seeing Mr. Griggs speaking to Frank, she having some suspicion as to the latter's identity, made inquiries which led her to telephone to the Marshal, who sent deputy Sprague, and that officer took Frank into custody.

A Model School House.—John H. Burton, Esq., architect of this city, is getting out plans and specifications for a new district schoolhouse shortly to be erected in the Fourth Ward, of Provo city. It will be one of the finest buildings of its class in Utah, and from what we know of other structures of the kind will have no superior in point of conveniences. It will be two stories high, but practically four stories, as it will have, in addition to the two ordinary floors, a basement, and an assembly room in the roof. In the basement, besides the apparatus for heating the whole interior by steam, there will be four class rooms. The structure is nearly fireproof, having brick corridor and interior walls throughout, and will be constructed with a capacity for 520 pupils. A specially commendable feature is that each class room will be provided with a wardrobe, a great improvement on the corridor system which tends to scrambling and disorder unless special care is taken. The method adopted for ventilation is also very effective and complete, being the latest operated idea in that line, which has not yet been applied in any building in Utah. The ground measurement of the building will be 62 feet by 82 feet, and judging from the ingeniously prepared plans, which we have had an opportunity of examining, it will be a model school-house. We congratulate the people of Provo on their enterprise and advanced views on educational accommodations.

Dull Times at the Park.—A gentleman just in from Park City describes the business situation of that camp as being as dead as a pickled mackerel. On account of the horrible weather that has prevailed there during the whole of this month, and the consequent fearfully soft situation of the road between the railroad and the Ontario mine, it has been next to impossible to haul sufficient coal to the works to keep the pumps going and the mine clear of water, let alone for any other purpose. With the best efforts that could be made the second level was filled up. The late big strike in the Apex mine is likely to improve matters shortly, although it is not anticipated that there will be any very flush times. There is some talk of an intention to build the Utah Eastern R. R. through to Salt Lake during the coming summer, but the matter has not taken definite shape yet. It would be quite an advantage to the Park, and, to a considerable extent, to this city, as much of the trade now done with Cheyenne would then be done here.

Sudden Death. — On Tuesday night a man named J. N. Barkhamer went to the Overland House and took a room. He appeared to be quite feeble, and stated to several parties that he was afflicted with heart disease. Shortly after midnight last night he was found dead in his bed.

An inquest was held over the remains this morning by Coroner Geo. J. Taylor and a jury. It appeared from the evidence that the deceased had lately been an inmate of St. Mary's Hospital, on account of having been afflicted with typhoid pneumonia, and left that institution without being discharged. The verdict of the jury was to the effect that deceased came to his death by heart disease. It appears from a letter found with his clothing that he was a blacksmith and had worked at his trade in Ophir, Utah. He was thirty-four years of age, a native of Ohio, and of Swedish parentage.

Home made Vehicles.—Yesterday we saw at the Deseret Carriage and Wagon shops, Messrs. Oblad & Knight, proprietors, a light and yet substantial family conveyance, constructed to be drawn by one horse. It was finished with the exception of painting, and is a highly creditable specimen of home manufacture in its line. It has a new contrivance connected with the axle, so that dust or grit is excluded from getting between it and the box, and other new improvements. The vehicle was made to the order of Brother Leonard G. Hardy, of the firm of Hardy Brothers & Burton.

At the same establishment a ponderous dray has just been constructed for Smith and Co. It is probably the heaviest wagon of that class ever made in Utah, and its appearance denotes that it was built to last.

A Remarkable Runaway.— A singular runaway occurred on Second South Street to day. A team with buggy attached dashed westward from East Temple Street About a block and a half along it collided with an empty dirt wagon, which it whirled around, the buggy being smashed by the force of the collision. A short distance it further west the team caught up with another dirt wagon, loaded. The animals leaped right on to the load, and the forefoot hoof of one of them actually struck the hand of the boy who was driving the wagon, cutting it rather badly. The boy was thrown forward upon his own team, which, being gentle, stopped, and he escaped without further injury. His escape, however, looked quite remarkable.

The owner of the runaway team soon arrived. He was very much excited, and talked a good deal about killing the animals.

An Expensive Meal.—This morning a young man named S. Newton was before Justice Spiers on a charge of assault under peculiar circumstances. He had obtained a meal at the restaurant of Mr. Benites, but being under the influence of intoxicants, refused to pay for it. A waiter named Lyon advised him to hand over the money, and this advice was rewarded by a blow from Newton. This aroused the sleeping Lyon, who struck his assailant, knocking him down. In his descent Newton struck with his nose on a castor, cutting quite a gash in that facial organ. The accused was fined $7.50 and costs, amounting in the aggregate to about $14. That meal turned out after all to be somewhat expensive.

Madame Janauschek.—Madame Janauschek, the celebrated tragedienne, supported by her own powerful company, will appear in this city for one week, commencing May 14th.

The Immigrants.—Brother Wm. C. Spence has received a dispatch from W. H. Stennett, Esq., General Passenger Agent of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad, that the immigrants left Chicago at 6 o'clock this morning, on a special train of eight coaches and three cars of baggage.

Present appearances indicate that the company will reach here about Sunday evening.

Theatre. — Another good house with continuous laughter at the comicalities of the Vokes' attended the Theatre last evening. "Cousin Joe" was as good as ever and "Fun in a Fog" was if possible more nonsensically humorous than anything else presented by this talented family. To-night will be their last appearance. They offer a big bill; "Ruth's Romance" and "Belles of the Kitchen" are enough to furnish food for laughter to the most exacting.

Criminal Recklessness.—Yesterday as a lady and a young girl each with a young child in her arms, were walking along the sidewalk in the Sixth Ward, they were startled by the sudden report of a shot a short distance from them, and at the same time there was the whistle of a bullet, and a noise of the striking of the fence by the leaden missile, which passed in front of them, missing their persons by a distance of only about a couple of feet. The firing was done from behind a building. They saw the man who did it, and on discovering that he was observed he withdrew to the rear of the structure. Such recklessness cannot be too strongly censured.

A Chopped Chinaman.— To-day, a couple of Chinamen, with the usual singular cognomens, were playing some sort of a game of chance, when one of the twain got an idea that the other was cheating him. He straightway seized a hatchet and commenced to reduce his fellow countryman to sausage meat. He brought the implement down upon the unfortunate man's shoulder with such force as to cut a deep and ghastly wound, from which the blood flowed copiously. The man who was hurt escaped from his fierce assailant, the latter being arrested by the police and lodged in jail.
