PROF. CLOYD ARRAIGNS FOES

Characterizes School Board
Hearing as a Drumhead
Court Martial.

LAST WEBER STAKE MEETING

Richard Thomas Seriously Injured in Federal Building—Suit for Damages—Divorce Granted.

Ogden, Aug. 17.—The case against Prof. David C. Cloyd, principal of the Ogden High School, who was summarily dismissed from the public schools by the board of education, promises to come up in the session of the city council this evening, when a successor to Dr. R. S. Joyce of the Second ward to serve on the school board, will be appointed by Mayor Brewer.

Owing to the fact that the meeting held on Aug. 4 and at which were present Dr. Joyce, Thomas Carr and E. W. Cloyd, and at which the first action against the dismissal was considered, is not legal, according to the opinion given by Prof. Cloyd, who claims that Dr. Joyce was not a member of the board, and that only the members of the board were present, which was not a majority.

In strong language Prof. Cloyd characterized the meeting of the board of education, which was held Friday evening, as a force and on the order of a drumhead court martial. He says that he was tried, found guilty and sentenced before he had any chance whatever to offer an explanation. No matter what he had said or done, he said that would have made no difference or changed the minds of the members of the board.

Very bitterly does Cloyd arraign William Allison, superintendent of schools, whom he blames for all the trouble, in the following terms:

"I shall undertake to demonstrate to the people of this city, if allowed to do so, the universal conviction that Supt. Allison is incompetent from an educational standpoint and unfit from a personal standpoint to be at the head of this or of any other educational institution. It is an outrage upon this city for him to be permitted to continue any longer in his long-established methods of treachery and intrigue."

The criticizing of Prof. Squire Coop by Mr. Cloyd is attributed by the latter to do with part of his removal, on account of Coop and Allison being such close friends.

The engaging of Judge W. L. Magnus and Joseph Chee, as attorneys to look after his interests, fulfills Prof. Cloyd's statement that he intends to fight the case. He has also stated that some interesting things will be brought out in the case in regard to the real story concerning the plans for the new high school of which he was charged.

LAST WEBER STAKE MEETING.
At the Weber Stake academy held yesterday afternoon, the final meeting of the old Weber stake was held, at which was a large attendance. While the presidents of the new stake were present, Prest. Lewis W. Shurtliff of the old as well as the new Weber stake was the presiding officer.

Among the speakers were the following Weber stake presidents: L. W. Shurtliff, C. F. Middleton and John Watson; Ogden stake, Presidents T. B. Evans, C. C. Richards and Thomas E. McKays; North Weber stake, Presidents James Witherspoon, John V. Bluth and Francis W. Stratford.

The speakers recited reminiscences of the old Weber stake, telling of its history from beginning to end. They also spoke of their labors in the stake. This is the last meeting of the old stake. In the future the meetings will be held in the separate stakes. Beginning next Sunday the three stakes will begin holding meetings for the purpose of dividing some of the wards, which has been considered necessary in account of the crowded condition in the present wards. It will also be necessary to re-establish the boundaries of some of the old wards as parts of some are in the Ogden stake and part in the North Weber stake. This is especially true of the Third, Mount and Lynne wards.

Henry Mauer of Los Angeles who came all the way to be present, gave the first public speech he ever made, dwelling on his days in Nauvoo and Winter Quarters.

After a clear soprano voice, Chairman Harrison and other veterans gave an Indian song with all their cries and war whoops. A dance followed in the evening for the young folks.

Votes of thanks to all who in any way contributed to the entertainment of the veterans were adopted, particularly were the people of Spanish Fork thanked for their hospitality.

The assembly then sang Auld Lang Syne, and benediction was pronounced by the chaplain.

FRONTIER DAY CELEBRATION.

Advanced Prices for Wool Cause of Better Spirits Among Sheepmen.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 15.—Among the many attractive features of this year's frontier celebration which begins next Thursday will be the "daily" parades through the business and residence sections of the city. These parades will be held at 10 o'clock each day, and will be participated in by Indians, cowboys and cowgirls, soldiers, several bands, automobiles, citizens in carriages and "prairie schooners," etc. The wild horses at a wild steer show will take part in the wild west show at the grounds will be driven in the parade by the cowboys. The troops from the Eighth and Fourth U. S. cavalry, with two regimental bands in one, and all mounted; and one mountain battery will participate in the Frontier celebration here next week. The troops will give drills and participate in maneuvers each day at the grounds. There will be hurdle racing, etc., in which the soldiers will take part.

Mrs. Kate G. Turner, sister of the wife of the late Dr. F. F. Richards, and one of Cheyenne's most highly respected citizens and business women, died suddenly last evening of heart failure.

SHEEPMEN HAPPY.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 17.—Wyoming stockmen are in better spirits now than they were a month ago, for they have advanced steadily and those who were wise enough to consign, store or hold for a later market are now enjoying the benefits of the advance. And there are many growers who feel that the top has not yet been reached, and are holding for a still further advance, and from present indications, their hopes will be realized. During the past few weeks, many Wyoming clips have been sold at from 15 to 16 1/2 cents, and one clip went for 17 cents. These same wools last year brought from 10 to 12 cents, showing that the growers of these wools have obtained within 4 and 5 cents of last year's prices, and this is not all, for this year's wool is much heavier than last season's clips, and in many instances the flockmasters, owing to the increased weight, have obtained fully as much per head for their wools as they received last year.
