EASTERN

Wool Market.

Boston, 9.—The wool demand is moderate, and full prices are sustained. Sales are made when full current rates are realized. Holders are very indifferent about selling. There has been considerable inquiry for fine fleeces. Sale of Ohio and Pennsylvania 2,500 lbs. at 42 1/2. In other fleeces very little was done. Some 50,000 lbs. of Michigan, Wisconsin and New Hampshire was sold at 35 1/2. But good average lots of Michigan are generally held at 40 1/2 and 42, and in sympathy with their fleeces have an upward tendency. Combing and delaine is in steady demand, sales 125,000 lbs. washed at 6 1/2, unwashed 5 1/2 to 5 3/4; medium combing and delaine 5 1/2 to 5 3/4; pulled is scarce and quiet, with sales of 44-600 lbs. super and 30 to 45, mostly at 10 1/2 to 11; choice is very scarce and readily commands 45.

California is dull and sales of fall difficult to make, except at concession. Most of the wool received lately are not very desirable, sales 22,000 lbs., spring 32; full 18 to 27.

The Brooklyn Calamity—Funeral

Procession, Etc.

New York, 9.—The curtain rose this morning upon the last act of the fearful tragedy which began with the fire in the Brooklyn theater on Tuesday evening, and the burial of the bodies of the victims this afternoon was a fitting end to one of the most dreadful histories of modern times.

This morning all bodies in the Morgue were removed to the temporary dead house in the old market, where there were in all one hundred charred corpses. One hundred coffins, with German iron mountings, were brought and placed upon the floor, and into them the unidentified and destitute dead were placed. Fifty-six hearse and undertaker's wagons drew up at the entrance in Adams street, and the remains were lifted in. There were two coffins each in a number of vehicles. The throng about the market was very large, and the utmost excitement pre-valled.

Shortly after one o'clock the ghostly cortege started through Broadway, and then entered Schermerhorn street. Hundreds of men, women and children followed, rushing along the sidewalk in a state of great agitation. When the hearse and wagon reached Schermerhorn street they were formed in a parallel line, and there was a delay of nearly three-quarters of an hour. Although the weather was bitterly cold and cutting, the wind blowing a gale, the neighborhood of Schermerhorn and Flat-busch avenue was crowded with partisans, and the sympathy and spectators and sadness in the faces of the women waiting on the pavements was very marked.

The procession moved from the head of Schermerhorn street to Flatbusch avenue and general mourning, and timed by the measure roll of the drums, and by the flute sobbing of almost broken hearts. Within the houses and windows, far along the wide avenuce and across the broad streets many an eye was moist and many a lip quivering as the dead were borne to Greenwood, leaving behind them the sacred memories and cruel poverty, too, which will not be effaced, and by their very porting to be his resignation as elector.

Cartwright moved the acceptance of the pretended resignation, and it was declared carried, and immediately thereafter, by vote of two, Watts was declared elected to fill the vacancy.

These proceedings were interrupted throughout by dialogue which had the character of altercation, between Cronin on one side and Cartwright and Odell on the other, Cronin insisting that the matter should act with him, and proceed with the business of the college, they refusing to do so.

After the pretended appointment of Watts, Cronin arose, and addressing Cartwright and Odell, said in effect, if not in these precise words, "Gentlemen, do you refuse to act with me in proceeding with the business of the electoral college?" One of both of them replied, signifying their unwillingness to act.

Cronin then said this refusal to act created vacancies in the electoral college, and that he appointed

J. N. T. Miller, of Jackson county, to fill one of said vacancies. Miller having been introduced into the room, and informed of what had been done, asked Cartwright and Odell if they had refused to act with Cronin in casting the vote of the State.

Cartwright, answering, said they had not, and that he had appointed Miller to accept the appointment. The two then appointed John Parker secretary, and the votes were taken by ballot for President and Vice President, and the business formally proceeded with to the end. Pending these proceedings, Cartwright, Watts and Odell were engaged in side conversations.

Russia and Roumania—The Eastern

Question.

LONDON, 9.—The Pall Mall Gazette's Berlin special says: It is announced that in the event of the Russian passing through Roumania, the Roumanian army will neither join nor oppose them, but will retire into a portion of the principality not touched by Russia.

The Roumanian government will at the same time, record a formal protest against such breach of neutrality.
