

"AFTER THE MORMONS."

THE Territorial Enterprise, of Virginia, tween the Mormons and Gentiles of have any. Salt Lake." But it thinks it may not result in violence. This we are glad to hear. The Enterprise has an idea that the prosperity of our Territory is nothing to our people; but the advancement and well-doing of the church everything.

On this point there is a radical difference of opinion between the Enterference of opinion between the Enter- a bill to preserve the harbors of the prise and the people of Utah. It has United States against the encroachan idea that our citizens are all the ments of the sea. The bill provides for the scheming to defeat what it officers and civilians to have the Gencalls the "Gentiles," and that, by so doing, we check the progress and make recommendations to Congress. developement of the Territory. The Joint Resolution of both houses Philadelphia and Terry to the new De-Day T developement of the Territory. On no subject have, the people of Utah been more misunderstood than of men who are not of our faith live in our midst, between whom and ourexisted; we expect there will yet be of 1812. After some discussion the live in our cities, mingle with us and be on terms of kindly intimacy. Such on terms of kindly intimacy. Such was adopted, providing that brevet ap-men make no war upon us, and we cer- pointments shall be merely honorary, tainly do not assail them. As a people we are strong in our likes. If we like a man, we can not do too of. much for him; if he is our enemy, we want nothing to do with him, and the less we see of him the better we are pleased. But we look with no friendly eye upon men who publicly and unreservedly proclaim their intention, as soon as they can get the power, life desirable and destroy us root and branch. It is not in human nature to bear such threats and then fraternize with and fondie over those who make to strip us of every right which makes what they will do; and we would be worse than idiots if we did not do all in our power, honorably, to defeat them. resident in the South and Central We would be beneath contempt if we fostered, sustained and patronized such men. Can the Enterprise, or can any asked for a new Committee of Conferperson wonder that we are exclusive un- Boutwell submitted the report from der such circumstances? In another article, published two days after the one alluded to above, the Enterprise tells us we had better begin to prepare for rough weather. It says by any State on account of race or color plainly that "Mormonism" must have an end; that the sentiment of the na-tion is clamorous for our suppression. tion is clamorous for our suppression. While we do not believe that statement, we are convinced that the Enterprise would like to have it so. But when it tells us that our enemies are pouring over our borders by thousands, and that our system cannot live where it is, and that it cannot long survive another re-moval, would it like to see us help-levely fold our arms, and supinely relessly fold our arms, and supinely re- the amendments, an amendment giv-sign ourselves to our fate, without ing female clerks in the Treasury office making an effort to avert it? This might suit its purpose admirably; but the same pay as males, when doing similiar work, was adopted 88 to 64. The House then took a recess. it does not agree with our views, who are the selected victims. We intend to use every honorable means to defeat such schemes as the Enterprise informs us are in preparation for our overthrow, and we have not a single doubt as to the result. "Mormonism," to use the term it applies to our system, has had as fierce enemies as the Enterprise and the Union service during the late war, have framers of the schemes to which it alludes to contend with, and at times, too. when circumstances appeared more favorable to their success and its over-throw than they do at present, and it has outlived them all. It flourishes when circumstances appeared more. has outlived them all. It flourishes and is gaining greater power and influ-ence every day, while they are buried In the Nevada Legislature yesterday, in oblivion, and the only record which is left, by which the world can know the Assembly by 17 to 21. that such creatures over lived, is that which is preserved in our history. The virtuous tone which the Enterprise assumes in alluding to the Latterday Saints system of marriage, even if Grant has intimated that all the southall that it assumes about us were true, ern military commanders removed by reminds a reader of the old proverb Johnson will be replaced; also that about "Satan rebuking Sin." We Senator, he expressed himself as particshould think that, in speaking about us ularly anxious for southern reconstrucas it does, if it had any sense of proprie-ty it would blush at the thought of its The Enter of all, and that when the rest ty it would blush at the thought of its own advertisements. The Enterprise claims to be a respectable journal, and it must be said in truth that it has as good grounds for claiming to be such as any paper on our exchange list; but if the people of its neighborhood would only do what it denounces the people of Utah for doing, namely, marry women only do what it denotinces the people of Utah for dolog, namely, marry women instead of debasing them, it would not sully its columns with such advertise-ments as we see in them. In the eyes of the Enterprise our people may be very rude, barbarous and even wicked; but we are not corrupt; we are physically pure. No newspaper in Utah, pub-lished by a Latter-day Saint, has ever nermitted medical advertisements of a permitted medical advertisements of a fall. Grant replied "I am not, myself, certain character to defile its columns. a representative of any political party, certain character to defile its columns. There has been no patronage for such practitioners or their nostrums. This speaks louder in behalf of the virtue and purity of our people than any number of such articles as appear in the Enterprise can do against them. We would not give a fig for high-sound-ing professions of mental excellence and purity, and pure morality, unless accompanied by clean and healthy bodies.
