

the canal built in as short a time as possible and with the least cost declaring that a few hours longer for the tripthrough the isthmus made little or no difference. One of the members gave this explanation for his way of voting: It may be that several of us will not see the sea level canal finished in our life time, as it will take considerably longer than 10 years. But then we have the satisfuction to know that for all the generations to follow we have made the shortest and most practical way of communication between the Pacific and Atlantic and as long night. as we had to decide on a quention for all time, we do not think that a few years more or less makes a very important difference. That is the way our party thought about it and whatever may be said in favor of or against it, we have, after the most careful study given an opinion as we saw our way | inated.

BUNAU-VARILLA'S VIEW.

New York, Nov. 17 .- M. Bunau-Varilla, formerly minister of Panama to this country, discussing the Panama canal before the Alliance Francaise last night, favored a wide, deep, lockless waterway. In part he said:

"Public attention has heretofore been limited to the contest between the lock canal and the sea level canal. The lock canal is easier and quicker to build than the sea level canal. According to the estimates of all those who have studied the problem, according to the old and new Panama canal company covering 20 years of practical work, and ac cording also to the first isthmian canal commission, the excavation for the sea canal by dry process of steam shoveling will necessitate 20 years or more, when a lock canal can be built in 10 years or less.

"But if we want a free open com-munication between the two oceans we must contemplate a waterway 45 feet deep at the lowest tides, 500 feet wide at the bottom, freely open on both sides to the waters of the two great oceans of our planet. In such a way, the Straits of Panama, the greatest ships of present or future times will have ample waterway and can steer easily through the straits.

'The canal can first be dug so that in four years it can be used by boats, and gradually deepened so that 3,000 men in 20 years can entirely finish it."

The chief of ordunace has adopted the practise of "targeting" every rife before issue to the troops, the purpose being to make certain that the sights of each are practically placed. It has been ascertained by extended tests that the muzzle velocity may be 100 feet per second less than originally con templated with the gratifying result that twice the number of shots may be fired out before the barrel is suf ficiently erroded to noticeably effect accuracy for target practise and this gain without loss of efficiency as a military rifle.

It has been determined, practically so, that an error was committed when the caliber of the revolver was re-duced from 45 to 38 for efficiency, the efficiency assured by the change being merely a reduction in weight of the revolver but this, as now found, at a sacrifice of actual utility, stopping power and shock effect.

WORKING CLASSES CAN BETTER THEIR CONDITION.

New York, Nov. 18 .- John Hobson, the English labor leader who is in this country to beture on the labor move-ment in England and kindred topics. addressed the People's Institute Cooper union last night.

Mr. Hobson firmly believes that the condition of the working classes can only be bettered through their active participation in the national politics as a distinct party. Among other things he said

The law courts, in disputes between employer and employe have given a series of judgments that altered the position of the labor unions. The trades unions are upt to be sued for the illegal actions of their members, and may be depleted of their funds for damages and costs, other judgments have im-paired the power of watching and besetting men during a strike, even when this is done penceably.

The result of this has been more and more to force the trades unions to enter politics that they might change the laws.
