CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 6.—Blaine moved the adoption of a resolution that Kellogg be sworn in.

Bayard asked permission to have the credentials of Morgan, Senator elect from Alabama presented. His case was the same as Lamar's.

Blaine said Kellogg's case came before either of the others.

Bayard then moved that the credentials of Kellogg be tabled until they could be referred to the elections committee.

Blaine regretted that it was necessary to detain the Senate on Kellogg's case. He had hoped that there would be no objections to his credentials. He believed that he was elected legally, and represents the legal government of Louisiana, and he did not see how any Senator who voted for the Senate to count the vote of Louisiana for Hayes and Wheeler, could doubt that Packard was equally of right the Governor of that State. There might be some keen logic that would discriminate, but he could not see how a man with nearly a thousand votes more than the electoral ticket was not elected. Nobody in the Senate, especially on the other side, was permitted to doubt that the electoral vote of Louisiana had been properly cast for Hayes and Wheeler, it having been decided by the tribunal created by that side. All of them but Eaton, who was guiltless of that tribunal, had voted for it. He believed that the high and faultless body had reached a proper conclusion.

Thurman asked if the Senate could not do what the tribunal refused to do, viz., look back of the returning board?

Blaine said he would reach that soon. The tribunal had decided not to go behind the returning board, which was constitutionally and legally competent to make the count and declare the electors and legislature. Blaine continued: I stand alone to say that the honor and credit and faith of the republican party, in so far as the election of Hayes and Wheeler is concerned, are as indissolubly united in maintaining the rightfulness of the return of that body as the illustrious house of Hanover, that sits on the throne of England to-day, is in the maintaining of the revolution of 1688. You discredit Packard and you discredit Hayes. You hold that Packard is not the legal governor of Louisiana, and President Hayes has no title to his seat, and the honored Vice-President who presides over our deliberations has no title to his chair. I say, therefore, on the action of the returning board, which the Senator from Ohio admits was held by the electoral commission to be a competent, legal and constitutional body, rests the authority of Packard to exercise the governorship of that State, and on the authority of that board rests the legislature of that State, and by the legislature of that State Wm. P. Kellogg was duly elected Senator by the government of that State; thus determined, he comes here commissioned as Senator, bearing the great seal of the State, as I maintain; and I do not, unless challenged upon that point, desire to go into the details of the election.

Thurman—Do I interrupt the Senator?

Blaine—Not at all.

Chairman—Does the Senator understand that the returning board counts the votes for governor and declares who is elected governor?

Blaine—The legislature did that.

Thurman—Then the Senator is in great error.

Blaine—No, I never said any such thing. They were based on the same returns precisely, and the same returning board counted the votes for members of the legislature and also counted and transmitted to the legislatures the votes for governor.

After some badinage between Blaine and Thurman, Blaine reiterated his point more forcibly. He continued: I know that there has been a great deal said here and there in the corridors of the Capitol, around and about, in by places and in high places, of late, that some arrangement had been made by which Packard was not to be recognized and upheld, that he was to be allowed to slide by and Nicholls accepted as governor of Louisiana. I want to know who had the authority to make any such arrangement? I wish to know if any Senator on this floor will state that any person, speaking for the administration that was coming in or that was going out, had any right to make any such arrangement. I deny it. I deny it without being authorized to speak for the administration that now exists, but I deny it on the simple, broad ground that it is an impossibility that the administration of President Hayes could do it. I deny it on the broad ground that President Hayes possesses character, common sense, self-respect, and patriotism, all of which he has in a high measure and in an eminent degree. I deny it on all grounds that can influence human action, on all grounds on which can be held to personal and political official responsibility. I deny for him, and I shall find myself grievously disappointed, wounded and humiliated, if my denial is not vindicated in the policy of the administration, but whether it be vindicated or whether it be not, I care not. It is not the duty of a senator to inquire what the policy of the administration may be, but what it ought to be, and I hope a republican Senate will say, on this point, there shall be no authority in this land large enough or adventurous enough to compromise the honor of the national administration or good name of the great republican party that called that administration into existence. (Applause in the galleries, which was promptly checked by the presiding officer.)

Bayard then took the floor, but, before proceeding with his remarks, yielded for a motion to adjourn.

EASTERN.

Gen. Sheridan and the Indians.

OMAHA, 6.—Gen. Sheridan, accompanied by Col. Sheridan of his staff, arrived here, to-day, and proceeded west on the Union Pacific train to Cheyenne, whither the General goes to perfect, with Crook, the spring campaign against the hostile Indians.

$45,000 Fire.

LANSING, Iowa, 6.—Late last night one whole business block was burned; loss $45,000, insurance small.

Kellogg, the Forger.

NEW YORK, 6.—This afternoon detectives arrested A. Blacklock, President of the Gulf of California Oyster Canning Company, of San Francisco, who is charged with having induced James Kellogg, clerk for Coselon, Corry & Co., of San Francisco, to commit a series of forgeries, involving an aggregate of no less than $100,000. The crime with which Blacklock is charged arose out of a forgery to the amount of $11,640, which Kellogg committed for the purpose of aiding Blacklock to raise money. Simultaneously with the discovery of this forgery, other forgeries were brought to light by which Blacklock has realized over $90,000.

Vice-President Wheeler.

CHICAGO, 6. — Vice-President Wheeler will be taken into the President's councils as freely as if he was a cabinet officer. He will have control of the patronage, also, to such an extent as he can wisely distribute it in the public interest, and, as a means of illustrating the President's conciliatory purposes, he is expected to go South after the Senate adjourns, in company with General Garfield or some other equally well-known friends of the President, to study the situation in the disturbed States, and ascertain on what conditions the pending difficulty can be honorably compromised and amicably adjusted with the consent and approval of the best men of both parties.

Last Night's Dispatches.

Crook and the Hostile Indians.

CHEYENNE, 7.—Gen. Crook, who is now in this city, received intelligence, to-night, that on the third inst., a runner reached Red Cloud from the party of friendlies who left Red Cloud about six weeks ago to induce Crazy Horse to come in. The runner reports that he left Crazy Horse on Little Powder, preparing to come in with 120 lodges. Fifty lodges of other hostiles are also on the way in by another route.

Gen. Sheridan arrived here, to-day, and will go east to-morrow.

Gen. Crook will return to Fort Laramie on Friday.

On their Way to Surrender.

RED CANON, Wy., 7.—Passengers by to-night's coach, from the south, report passing a band of from twenty to thirty hostile Indians on Indian Creek, who claimed to be on their way to the agency to surrender. They say that from two hundred to three hundred more will be along in a few days for the same purpose.

Washington Gossip.

WASHINGTON, 7. — The general interest and political excitment concerning some of the cabinet nominations have been redoubled by this afternoon's indications of the coming fierce contest in the Senate against their confirmation. Conkling, Blaine, Morton, Cameron, Jones, of Nevada, and the four Southern republicans now left in the Senate, were especially prompt and decided in manifesting opposition to the nominations of Evarts, Schuiz, and Key, and probably half a dozen more republican Senators are ready to unite with them in strenuously resisting the confirmation of any one or all of these nominations, and perhaps they will be supported by a considerable number of other republicans in opposing the confirmation of Schurz. The quorum and majority of the Senate as now constituted, consists of thirty-six Senators, and thirty-two of the total number already admitted to seats are democrats. It is therefore evident that if the democratic Senators desire to defeat any one of these nominees they can readily accomplish the purpose with the aid of only five dissatisfied republicans by voting solidly against it, or by merely withholding their votes, and thus breaking the quorum. Their policy, as indicated by the interchange of views in their caucus this morning, will be, however, to sustain the president's nominations upon receiving definite assurances that he does not intend to interfere in behalf of either of the rival governments in Louisiana and South Carolina so long as the public peace be preserved.

Caucus of Democratic Senators.

After the adjournment of the Senate the democratic senators met in caucus and fully discussed the policy to be pursued by them on the cabinet nominations. From the general tenor of the debate it is believed that the southern democratic senators will use their power in the executive session of the Senate to induce the administration to refuse any recognition of Packard in Louisiana or of Chamberlain in South Carolina. They say that if they can be assured the administration will stand firmly on the policy of non-intervention in the affairs of those States, they will vote to confirm these nominations, and otherwise they maintain that to accomplish this through divisions in the republican ranks will be to win the victory for which they have long contended.

Chairmen of the Various Senate Committees.

The chairmanships of the new Senate committees, as arranged by the republican caucus committee, for approval by the caucus to-morrow, are as follows: Finance—Merrill; Appropriations—Windom; Elections—Morton; Foreign Affairs—Cameron, of Penna; Commerce—Conkling; Manufactures — Booth; Agriculture—Paddock; Military—Spencer; Naval—Sargent; Judiciary—Edmunds; Post Office—Hamlin; Public Lands—Ogle-by; Private Land Claims—Thurman; Pension—Ingalls; Claims—Dawes; District of Columbia — Dorsey; Patents—Wadleigh; Territories—Christiancy; Railroads—Mitchell; Mines—Sharon; Education—Paterson; Senate—Jones; Rules—Ferry; Printing—Anthony; Library—Howe; Public Buildings and Grounds—McMillan.

Hayes and the Hampton Government—Indian Deputation.

To-day, ex-Governor Scott, of South Carolina, and Generals McGowan and Ketchum, Judge Mackay and ex-Senator Robertson made a formal call on the President, and urged upon him the propriety of immediately recognizing the Hampton government. The President declined to indicate his future policy as regards South Carolina, preferring to leave the matter for Cabinet consideration.

A delegation, representing some of the tribes of the Indian Territory, called on the President to day; Col. Ross, of the Cherokee nation, was spokesman. Besides paying their respects, they felt a natural solicitude as to his Indian policy. The President replied that he could indicate no special line until the formation of the Cabinet, but he did not think there would be any essential change in the Indian policy. His feelings were to fully recognize the just rights of the red men.

Gov. Nicholls Determined to Punish Crime.

NEW ORLEANS, 7. — Governor Nicholls issued a proclamation offering a reward of $5,000 for the apprehension and conviction of the murder of Weber, killed at Bayou Sara to-day. He expresses his determination to suppress violence and punish crime.

WESTERN.

Another Absconder.

SAN FRANCISCO, 7.—J. T. Beales, Secretary of the California Stock Exchange, has absconded, taking the books and papers of the Exchange, and stocks to the value of about $17,000, which were deposited by the members as security for loans effected from funds of the Exchange.

FOREIGN.

AUSTRIA.

The Eastern Question.

VIENNA, 7.—The Political Correspondence publishes a letter from St. Petersburg stating that Prince Gortschakoff has instructed Count Schonvalsoff to urge the British cabinet to reply to the Russian circular. Count Schonvalsoff is simultaneously instructed to explain Russia's views as follows: Either of the powers, and especially England, are to consider the treaty of 1856 as binding, notwithstanding the Porte's rejection of the decisions of the conference, or Russia will regard the Porte's right, derived from the treaty, as annulled. In the first case, Russia claims that the powers must co-operate to bring about the Porte's complete acceptance of the resolution in its original form, and thus every means will be afforded Russia of avoiding warlike complications. If, however, the seignority powers still remain inactive, Russia will consider that they renounce insisting upon the obligations of Turkey, and also the Turkish right. Russia will accordingly declare against the treaty of Paris as affecting herself, and reserve to herself the right of independent action. Similar instructions have been sent to the Russian ambassadors at Vienna, Berlin, Paris and Rome.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Y. M. M. I. A.

FARMINGTON, March 1, 1877.

Editor Deseret News:

By appointment Brothers James L. Clayton and Thomas E. Hull met with the Y. M. M. I. A. of this place on Tuesday evening, February 27, 1877. By invitation there was a general attendance of brethren and sisters. After singing and prayer, Brother Clayton, being introduced by the president, addressed the audience, speaking first of the manner in which the young people of Zion are being led away by the vanities of the world, instead of seeking the spirit of God, and the consequent necessity of such associations as these in order to instruct and improve the young men in the principles of their religion. He said that although it was not intended to conduct these meetings in the manner in which literary associations were conducted, yet, as there might be danger of their growing monotonous if confined strictly to subjects of a theological nature, other subjects would be introduced by way of variety, thus rendering the meetings attractive to those who at present take but little interest in theology.

Brother Clayton then spoke upon the Word of Wisdom, alluding to the manner in which it was disregarded by the young men and the unhealthful results. He referred briefly to the evils consequent upon backbiting and concluded by exhorting the young men to be prayerful and seek the spirit of the Lord at all times.

Brother Hull spoke of the importance of parents teaching their children the principles of their religion, that they might in their youth seek and obtain a testimony of its truth. Referring to the Word of Wisdom, he urged the young ladies to use their influence in that direction by refusing to associate with young men who habitually indulged in the use of tobacco or intoxicating liquors. The speaker then touched upon the subject of obedience to parents, and concluded by urging the young brethren to take an interest in these meetings and the older ones to use their influence to sustain them.

A letter to the association from Brother Andrew L. Rogers, of Sunset Crossing, Arizona, was then read.

President Thomas J. Steed exhorted the young men to improve by the good instructions and advice which they had received, and not spend in idleness the precious time for which God would hold them strictly accountable.

After singing by the choir, dismissed with prayer by Brother John J. Millard.

J. F. MILLER, Secretary.

MOODY ON SUDDEN CONVERSIONS.—A great many people are opposed to sudden conversions. I would like to ask you, how long did it take the Lord to convert Zaccheus? He certainly wasn't converted when he went up into the tree. He must have been converted somewhere between that time and coming down. I hope we shall have a few of these Zaccheus conversions. What did he do? He said he would give half his goods to feed the poor, and to every man from whom he had taken anything he would restore fourfold. That would take the other half. He had got all he wanted; he had got Christ, and his money began to burn in his hands. He didn't want it. I can see him going back to Jericho, and going into his office and saying to his chief clerk, "I want you to see how much I have taxed that man." "We have taxed him too much by a hundred dollars." "Make him out a check for four hundred dollars and send it to him." And when those checks began to fly around Jericho these men, you can be sure, began to have confidence in the conversion of Zaccheus. And if there is a man here who has defrauded any other man, don't you think you can come into the Kingdom of God till you have made restitution."
