Newspaper Witticisms.

The witty paragraphers will have their fun at the expense of their bro-ther journalists Ell Perkins and George Alfred Townsend who, being known to every reader in the country, become handy pins for the par-agrapher to hang his jokes on. In-deed, Perkins and Townsend are used by the press as lay figures a-round which a great deal of newspaper fun is draped. For instance, the witty Chicago

"We see Ell Perkins has written long letter in the New York Sun on the Pennsylvania gas wells. He speaks very favorably of them, which is very generous on the part of El, when we come to think that these gas wells are only the real rivals he

Then Gregory, the wit of the Buffalo Express, says:

"The evidence came out in the trial of Robert Smith, of Frankfort, Herkimer Country, for incendiarism, that he burnt a neighbor's house the night that Ell Perkins lectured in the town. If Mr. Smith can prove by competent witnesses that he did actually commit this great crime after hearing Ell Perkins lecture, the jury will, no doubt, bring in a verdict of justifiable incendiarism." In return for this witty assult, Eli Perkins sharpens his pen and hangs his jokes on George Alfred Town-disappeared. The cure was effected through the well-known homospath le principle that "like cares like,"

Advice to Girls Who Need It.

Girls who want husbands should take this piece of advice: Do not be fond of promenading the business streets at all hours of the day. That is, do not make a regular thing of it. Do not go about so that people will know for certain that you will be "down town" when you have no business, and do not let the impresfoud of pror business, and do not let the impres-sion go abroad that you go on the beat as regularly as clock work. It does not look well. It appears as if you preferred to be on the hunt rather than improving your mind or darning your stockings. It looks as if being gazed at was your highest ambition, and seeing men stare at you more in harmony with your tas es than making your home hap-py and your surroundings coay and
