Maryland Has a Severe Experience With Wind and Rain.

HEAVY LOSSES IN FRUIT.

Farm Buildings Destroyed—Number of Persons Killed—Storms Were Terrible.

New York, Aug. 21.—A special to the Times from Baltimore says: Maryland has been ravaged by terrific electric wind and rain storms within the last day or two. Several lives have been lost, five or six persons injured and the estimated aggregate loss to property is about $75,000. The storms have also effectively broken the hottest term ever known in Maryland. It will be several days before the full extent of the damage is known. The storms had their centers in Talbot, Dorchester and Caroline counties. At Eastern and throughout Talbot county the hail did great damage to fruit. Hundreds of bushels of peaches and pears were cut from the trees. Many houses in Eastern were unroofed. Two colored men were killed by heavy beams crushing them in a wrecked stable in Dorchester county. Much in the country a number of farm buildings were destroyed and it is reported that a number of people were killed and injured. In Cambridge the storm was the worst since 1876. Buildings were much damaged and shipping was lost.

WISCONSIN'S BLOW.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 20.—A special from St. Louis says: A terrific storm struck the city this afternoon. The storm came very suddenly from the north. Eight large buildings were completely wrecked and 200 small houses were blown down. The loss will be more than $100,000. At noon it was as dark as night and intensely hot. A few moments before 1 o'clock the storm broke, increasing in force until a tornado was blowing. Persons were thrown down and fences and signs hurled hundreds of feet. The storm moved for some minutes and passed off to the south. The storm started in the western part of the city, near the cemetery, and swept down on to the south side and off into the lake. It was two miles wide and wrecked everything in its path. All was over in ten minutes, although it seemed hours to the panic-stricken people. The roof of the large warehouse of the Crocker company was blown off and thrown against the large factory building. The building was wrecked and a large stock of chairs was left without protection from the rain, which fell in torrents. The street-car barns were wrecked and street cars were smashed to pieces. The electric wires were all blown down. The roof of the malt house of the Kead-Schriever Brewing company was lifted off the building, carried over 150 yards and then into the street. It was carried over the huge ventilators of the brewery. The American Folding Bed company's plant was demolished, and the steel in Kimball & Sons' brickyard was blown down and the debris scattered in every direction. The storm struck the South Side Lutheran church, and the steeple was blown down onto two residences, causing in the church in the Fourth ward school, a beautiful building, was completely wrecked, one side and the front being blown in, causing the roof to fall and crushing the floors down in the cellar. The plant of Oetgenberg & Sonnenman company was partially wrecked. That no one was killed seems almost a miracle. The wind wrecked building after building with the greatest rapidity. There were very few persons in the approach of the storm. The people, in every case, were out of their homes before the storm struck, and those who were struck by flying debris were only slightly injured. In the factories the employees were, in many cases, bruised and cut from wreckage. The five-year-old son of Mrs. Thomas Atkins had a remarkable escape. The child was torn into shreds and scattered about in the street. What was left of the house was only about three or four timbers where the building stood. The child was buried in the ruins. When found, was standing in the corner, with his head in front of him in such a manner as to shield him, and he escaped with only bruises. Four box cars in the Chicago & Northwestern yards were carried off the tracks and stood straight on end. Some of the bricks from the Crocker chair company's warehouse were thrown with such force against the adjoining buildings that they passed through the sides of the buildings, and yet no one was injured. Other portions of the building of the Crocker chair company were torn to pieces. There is scarcely a whole pane of glass left in the tornado district. Telephone, electric light and gas poles and poles are torn down, and a street car has not moved since the storm struck. Side walks and trees were carried away like chaff.

The principal sufferer is the Crocker chair company. The factory, roof and floor carried away, stock badly damaged. Loss, $250,000.

STEWART FOR MCKINLEY.
Nevada Senator Tells Why He Will Not Join Democrats.

New York, Aug. 20.—Senator William M. Stewart of Nevada called at the Republican headquarters today and said he had decided to vote for President McKinley. He made a statement in part as follows: "The United States went to war with Spain urged on by the Democratic party. The popularity of the war was such that Mr. Bryan joined the army. The war was successful, a treaty of peace was entered into whereby the United States agreed to pay Spain $20,000,000 and accept the sovereignty of public property of Spain in the Philippine archipelago. There was opposition to the ratification of the treaty. Mr. Bryan came to Washington to urge the ratification of the treaty and he was successful. It then became the duty of the United States to maintain law and order and protect the lives and property of all residents in the islands, whether native or foreign. The United States at that time had military possession of Manila and immediately after such ratification as the sovereignty of the islands, the people of the United States, particularly of the States on the Pacific, became entitled to the vast commerce of the Pacific ocean, of which the Philippines furnish the key. "One Aguinaldo had raised a rebellion in Luzon against Spain before the commencement of the Spanish war with the United States."

Gen. Gomez Appeals.
Havana, Aug. 20.—Gen. Maximo Gomez publishes a letter in La Lucha regarding the election of delegates to the forthcoming constitutional convention.

Gen. Gomez says in part: "Ideas must not be confounded with principles. Honor demands that principles should be saved even at the cost of life. The convention should consist of genuine revolutionists, and it will consist, unless the people, flattered by fine words, allow what they have conquered to be taken away from them. "Nobody should be allowed to enter the convention who formerly defamed the revolutionists, unless Cubans want to outrage honor and sacred duty. "The enemy are working hard, but let Cubans remember that those who opposed the revolution cannot be accepted at the last moment. Many rich and influential persons have shown opposition to the revolution. All these should be left out. Patriotism has the right to choose the most worthy—not the most wise—until the republic is established. "Although all parties may be outwardly harmonious, still all secret will not be forgotten. Therefore let the Spaniards stand aside until all can enter equal through the gates of the republic."

curer had sold out or settled his rebellion with Spain for $400,000 before Dewey set sail for Manila, and as a part of the bargain with Spain Aguinaldo agreed to leave the islands and never return. Dewey took the tiny Aguinaldo back to the islands, supposing, as a matter of course, that Aguinaldo would naturally be an enemy of Spain and, as a friend of the United States. In this Admiral Dewey was mistaken. Aguinaldo, as soon as he landed on his native soil, organized a rebellion against the United States, which would have been of little consequence if he had not been able to obtain comfort and aid in this country. An organization was formed in the United States called the Anti-Imperialist League, which has for the last two years co-operated with Aguinaldo's "Tugit" Junta, with headquarters at Hongkong, to supply literature and materials of war for Aguinaldo.

President McKinley had no authority to buy out Aguinaldo's rebellion against the United States, but was bound by the treaty (which was the supreme law of the land) to maintain law and order and protect life and property in the islands. It required a large army and the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars to put down Aguinaldo's rebellion. The assistance and the encouragement he received from the Anti-Imperialist league and the enemies of the United States, both at home and abroad, made his barbarous and irregular war bloody and expensive. Congress, however, made all necessary appropriations, providing for the executive men and money to maintain the authority of the United States in the Philippines.

"The so-called anti-imperialists declared that the policy pursued by the government to put down the rebellion and maintain law and order in all territories of the United States without regard to the time when such territories were acquired, as 'imperialism' and that any use of the army to maintain law and order—however necessary—was 'imperialism,' and that giving aid and comfort to rebels in arms against the United States was 'maintaining the principles of the Declaration of Independence.'"

Senator Stewart then quotes Mr. Bryan's declaration of his intention, if elected, to call an extraordinary session of Congress to give the Philippines freedom upon the same terms as Cuba. He also denounces Mr. Bryan's attitude toward the Monroe doctrine in the Philippines.

Will Attend G. A. R.

Washington, Aug. 20.—President and Mrs. McKinley will leave Washington Friday afternoon to attend the annual encampment of the G. A. R. They will arrive in Chicago Saturday afternoon and will remain until Wednesday afternoon of next week. On Sunday the President will attend union services of the Sunday schools in the morning and on Tuesday he will review parades, and on Wednesday he will go to Fort Sheridan. He will be present at a number of banquets during his stay. Late Wednesday the party will return to Canton, where the President and Mrs. McKinley will remain until September 11th, when they will go to Somerset, Pa., to attend the marriage of their niece, Miss Mabel McKinley, and Dr. Hermann Hays. The marriage will be solemnized on September 12th at the house of Abner McKinley.

The Pocatello's made another attempt yesterday to defeat the Ogden team and got a much worse licking than they did Sunday. On that day they made three runs, yesterday they were shut out entirely. The game was nevertheless one of the best ever played in Utah, and out of over an hour's playing there were only three errors, one for Ogden and two for Pocatello. Four hits each were allowed by Cochran and Lillis. The game was full of sensational fielding and every man knew his place and covered it almost perfectly. ## SPORTING NOTES.

ANGAROO Jack, as Steiner, the lanky pugilist, is sometimes called, again demonstrated his ability to throw a right hand over a left hand. He was not put to sleep, but was because he was up the sponge in the fourteenth round when it was evident that another stiff punch or two would end the contest with him. The speedless boxer has shown his pluckiness on more than one occasion the last year, but Steiner is a larger and better man from the fighter's standpoint, and of course Rowan had to go just as Steiner went down in this city before the sledge hammer blows of Jim Williams. And by the way, the big audience that saw the last named fight thought for a time that Jim was scheduled for a terrible thrashing as the "K" round Steiner's fight and, apparently had been groggy in the third. But the punishment seemed to agree with Jim, for in the fourth round he had recovered his equilibrium to an extent that was astonishing and in the sixth round Steiner's lights went out, and he was borne helplessly from the ring. Jack and Dummy are both expected in Salt Lake soon.

Iver Lawson states that he still holds the world's record for one mile competition race of 1:59. It will be remembered that soon after Iver broke the world's record from Cooper went after him with a view to lowering it. He made the mile in 1:58, but he will not be allowed the championship for the reason

BREAD DYSPEPSIA.

Bread dyspepsia is common. It effects the bowels because white bread is nearly all starch, and starch is digested in the intestines, not in the stomach proper. Under the shell of the wheat berry, Nature has provided a curious device which is turned into a diastase when it is subjected to the salivary and to the pancreatic juices in the human intestines. This diastase is absolutely necessary to digest starch and turn it into grape sugar, which is the next form, but this part of the wheat berry makes dark flour, and the modern miller cannot readily sell dark flour, so nature's valuable digester is thrown out and the human system must handle the starch as best it can, without the help that Nature intended.

Small wonder that appendicitis, peritonitis, constipation, and all sorts of trouble exist, when we go so contrary to Nature's law. The food experts that perfected Grape-Nuts Food, knowing these facts, made use, in their experiments, of the entire wheat and barley, including all the parts, and subjected them to moisture, and long continued warmth, which allows time for the proper conditions for developing the diastase, outside of the human body.

In this way the starchy part is transformed into grape sugar in a perfectly natural manner, without the use of chemicals or any outside ingredients. The little sparkling crystals of grape sugar can be seen on the pieces of Grape-Nuts. This food therefore is naturally predigested and its use in place of bread will quickly correct the troubles that have been brought about by the too free use of starch in the food, and that is very common in the human race today. The effect of eating Grape-Nuts ten days or two weeks, and the discontinuance of ordinary white bread, is very marked. The user will gain rapidly in strength and physical and mental health.

William F. King, the genial amateur of California, will endeavor tonight to lower the world's record of one mile amateur, mount race. He will ride behind the Torville motor.

There is some talk of Johnny Nelson, the Chicago wonder, coming here. He is the world's long distance champion. A match race with the terrible Swede, who holds the twenty-four hour record, might prove interesting.

The postponed game between Ogden and Pocatello will be played in the near future.

A RARE EXHIBITION.

"Battle of San Juan" and Fireworks Are Wonderful.

A Surpassing Scene of Romance at Walker Field—Battle Scene Strikingly Real.

It is a pity that such a rare exhibition as that of "The Battle of San Juan" should have been witnessed by only a meager sized audience last night. Nothing like it was ever witnessed in this city before. The great canvases on which is painted the environs of Santiago covers the entire south side of Walker's ball grounds, and is almost as fine a work of art as the cyclorama of the battle of Gettysburg, but on a much more prodigious scale. So well has the work been executed that it is impossible to tell from the grand stand where the real earth ends and the artistic earth begins. Last night's display exhibited the thrill of war as well perhaps as any artistic exhibition ever seen. The battle ground was laid out with striking realism. There were the earth works, block houses, hospitals, and all the paraphernalia of the battle ground. The scene was then shown the gallant realists were broken by the clatter notes of a bugle and the Spanish troops dressed in their red uniforms, march quickly to the foot of the hill and take up a position. The hospital corps, nurses and priests take their places. Then is given with gruesome fidelity to life, the death and burial of a soldier. Presently two Cuban spies are brought in, who are tried and summarily executed according to military custom. By way of diversion the camp is enlivened by a number of nimble acrobats, who set up numerous amusing antics, which were promptly terminated by the arrival of a courier who brings the startling word that the American troops are approaching. There was a hurried call to arms, a rapid falling in line, to the accompaniment of the cannon's boom and the sharp crack of the muskets. Then came the gallant Americans firing and charging, the din of battle grew louder and the smoke more dense. The tumult is heightened by the burning of the block house, the dashing charge of Grimes' battery, desperate hand to hand combats, and the audience, thrilled to the very center with the scene, relieves itself in loud cheers. The scene is closed with the surrender of the Spanish command, and the exit of the Spanish troops, marching to the inspiring strains of "Dixie" and the "Star Spangled Banner."

Now comes the wonder of the enterprise. Genius and money has been invested in the getting up of the fine works display, and genius is required in executing it. There seems to be no limit to the efforts that have been put forth in projecting this surpassing exhibition of fire. It is more of a delight to the small boy's heart than the Fourth of July and Christmas assimilated into one, and it is no less attractive to the adult who has an eye for the artistic. The fantastic figures arrayed in flames of shifting colors, great wheels of fire with the incandescence of balls shot into the air only to explode and break into a thousand variegated balls, spinning wheels throwing off their multicolored lights and innumerable other objects, all going to make up a bewildering, dazzling, fascinating, describing scenes that one reads about in fairy tales, all the nymphs at play together, jumping about in and out with their glistening bodies, laughing and dancing, crying and shouting, flying and kicking. Such are the scenes that are wrought upon the fancy of the one who sits amid this scene of dazzling radiance.

Society will turn out on mass tonight to witness the exhibition, and several special features will be introduced.
