Ogden, Utah, May 27, 1901.—

The special train bearing President McKinley and party arrived in Ogden last evening at 7:30 o'clock. For at least an hour before the arrival of the train the crowds began to gather at the depot and before the train arrived there were at least five thousand people gathered to greet the head of the nation, a joyful portion of the crowd being ladies. As the Southern Pacific engine pulled the special neared the depot the crowd cheered loudly, and as the train slowed up the cheering increased. The President was met at the depot by Governor Wells, Senator Kearns, Judge Miner, Judge Ritchie, and other prominent men of the state; also by Mayor Browning and other city officials of Ogden. When the train stopped, the President stepped out of the car and was greeted by the cheering crowd. He was then escorted to the hotel by a military band. Friday.

The Los Angeles Times of Friday last shows that the terrible strain of dramatic stock company work has temporarily crushed another victim within its grasp: Laura Nelson Hall, the leading woman of the Cummings stock company, playing at the Burbank theater, is seriously ill. It is believed that she has broken down under the strain of stock work.

Sunday night, after the last curtain of "Woman Against Woman," Miss Hall, her people in a carriage, she was hysterical and recovered somewhat and insisted on playing her part and direct line of Mrs. E. Oberich, who is now in charge of three physicians, and is most of the time out of her mind. She keeps begging that she be released from the company, but she is not to be released.

When she recovers sufficiently, Miss Hall will be sent to California. She may then return to the company in Philadelphia.
