WILL ASK BONDS TO BUILD SCHOOL

Board of Education Adopts Committee's Report Favoring Such Action.

BYRON CUMMINGS RESIGNS.

Henry V. Van Pelt Elected to Succeed Member From the First, Who Will Explore Cliff Dwellings.

Salt Lake residents will have an opportunity to vote bonds for a new high school building in the near future, the board of education at its meeting last night deciding to submit the question to the people.

A resolution, drawn from the report of the buildings and grounds committee, adopted by the board, reads as follows:

Resolved that immediate steps be taken to call an election asking the resident taxpayers of Salt Lake school district for power to issue bonds in an amount not less than $500,000 for the purpose of purchasing a site and building a high school and supplying the same with the necessary apparatus.

After the adoption of this resolution the board, the matter was referred to the laws committee to complete details and arrange for calling the bond election. The limit of indebtedness for school purposes has not been reached by $500,000, and it is thought that with this amount a high school can be erected which will be ample to accommodate the growing necessities of the city in this house for years to come, and be a credit to the city.
