GOOD PROGRAM AT RESORT.

Indications Point to a Heavy Attendance Next Monday Afternoon—Eastern Horses Coming Here.

Manager Russell, of Calder's Park race track, feels assured of a record-breaking attendance next Monday afternoon on the occasion of the first horse races of the season. He has arranged a program that certainly ought to please lovers of the sport of kings, every event on the program being a hummer. The horses entered for each race are said to be in the finest form, and it is expected that considerable

TEAMS LOSE ON ROAD.

One of the Mysteries of Baseball is clearly explained.

One phase of the baseball season which always bothers the loyal fanatic is why the average team wins at home and loses everything but its franchise on the road. There must be a reason for this change of form, and one as good as any is that the players eat too much. This is not saying they are starved at home. On the contrary, they live well, but the change from home and boarding house fare, is different, and morning exercise is out of the question on the circuit. Take a player, well trained athlete away from his roast beef and vegetables, and turn him loose among the tables of these restaurants and finger bowls of a first class hotel, and his appetite runs away with him. Any one is prone to overdo the menu in a case of this kind, and doesn't realize how much food he has taken on until the waiter pulls the table away to give him room to rise. With a great many varieties—including the five-to-ten cent lunch, and eating to fit time made, the hungry, robust athlete can scarcely be blamed for up-toberating himself with watermelon, soup, ice cream, fish, pie, and deviled eggs. He feels more in the mood for liberating than going to work, and not infrequently he appears upon the field and plays ball like a sofa cushion.

BASEBALL SIGNALS ARE IMPORTANT.

The Part They Play in the Progress of the Great National Game.

"I try and remember the strong and weak points of the batters who oppose me."
"If a batter likes a high ball, I generally try to send one just below the knees."
"Don't abuse the umpire. He is trying to do his best and earn an honest living."
"In thinking you have been robbed by the umpire, remember his judgment is supposed to be as good as, if not better, than yours. He is paid for the job."
"When I retire from the major league, I am ready to retire from active baseball. No 'back to the minors' or 'umpiring' for me."
"Light farm work in the off season has helped me. It is healthier than life in a big city."
"Of course I am glad to be a world beater. Who wouldn't?"
"Don't let your head turn because the crowd cheers you."
"The 'mole' is heckle. Pitch ball and they will soon let you know that you are the wrong man to be in the box."
"Perhaps the foul strike rule helped me. I am willing to let the critics and public give their opinion."
"I never win games before they are pitched."
"I always begin a game confident of winning. If I thought I was going to lose I would ask to be excused for the day."
"Don't tell what you are going to do to the other team. The other team might do something to you."
"I like the sound of base hits better than grand opera, if my team is making them."

UTAH STATE TRACK MEET.

Question of Supremacy Will be Decided Here This Afternoon.

What educational institution in Utah has the honor of producing the best track team in the state? This is a question of great moment to students attending the state university, the L. D. S. university, the Agricultural college of Logan and the B. Y. university of Provo.

The question will not be in doubt after today. It will be decided on the university campus this afternoon, when teams from the schools named are to meet and fight it out.

What a blinding of horns and trumpets there will be! Such mad shrieking, waving of banners, and fierce challenge cries there will be on the 'variety grounds' today when the big annual event is over with, the dispute will be hurled for another year. Each team has strong hopes of carrying off enough points to win the meet, and, judging from the amount of work the young athletes have done in preparation for the battle, it is safe to say that the winning team will have no easy time of it.

There will be running events of 100, 220 and 500 yards. Then there will be a one mile run, a 120 yards hurdle and a 220 yards hurdle. These events will be followed by the pole vault, hammer throw, shot put. There will be a relay race and a high jump.

Coch Holmes of the U. of U. has decided upon the men who will represent the 'variety' in the meet. Their names, and the events in which they are expected to compete, are as follows:

100-yard dash—Whitney, Moore.
220-yard dash—Whitney, Moore.
440-yard dash—Rideout, Butler.
880-yard run—Wade, Judd, Pitt.
Mile run—Wade, Judd.
220-yard hurdles—Rideout, Parke.
120-yard hurdles—Hunt, Parke.
Pole vault—Russell, Williams.
Hammer throw—Bennion, Carlson.
Shot put—Bennion, S. Bennion.
Broad jump—Russell, Hunt.
High jump—Carlson, Reid.
Relay race—Moore, Pitt, Whitney, Rideout.
Substitutes for relay race—Parke, Bennion and Spencer.

THREE NOTED OARSMEN.

Single shells are still prime favorites in the hearts of sporting men. Wherever there is water this sport is as popular as ever. Titus, Gilman and Vessey are top-notchers in the single shell.

brushed the top of Hartman's head, struck squarely in the middle of his cap and carried that piece of headgear with it clear out against left field fence. The other 17 players roared, but Hartman couldn't see the joke.

"I thought you said he would bunt," said he.

"That was a Lajoie bunt," said Van Halton. "Wait and see him hit one, with no cap to interfere with the ball."

A FEW SPORTING NOTES.

Bike races will begin on the grand circuit next week, and we will soon get reports from Iver Lawson.

Jimmy Britt's father doesn't want his boy to fight a colored man. If papa is talking about Joe Gans, little Jimmy agrees with him.

The reason the Britt-Corbett fight is scheduled seven months ahead is because Britt will not be able to fight before that time. The next time he beats Corbett he will probably almost kill himself.

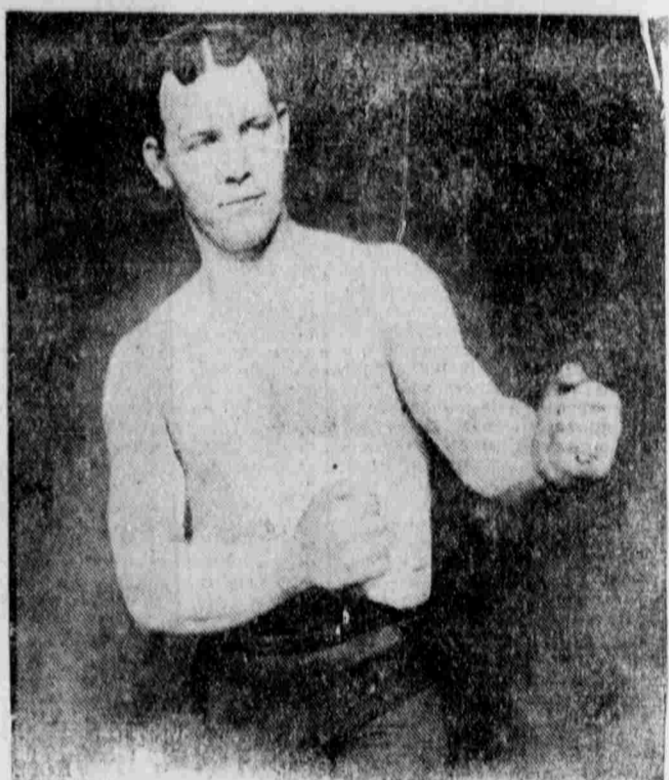

The Salt Lake golf team will go to Butte next month for a match game with the Butte team for the Layson challenge cup. The players are already rounding into good form, and word comes from Montana that the team there will be in good shape. The match should prove an interesting one.

The management of the Salt Lake ball team was certainly wise in securing the services of Elmer Mordahl to lead down the slab for the Gimlites. Elmer says he is in fine shape, and Flight fans who have been looking forward to the return match between "Ruddy" Ryan and Jimmy Gardner were given the cold shoulder by the Waverly club did not come off. Ryan's Menemé, but the club called the bout off altogether which was a wise move under the circumstances. It was claimed that Ryan was in no condition to fight and that he had practically done no training during the week before.

Reports from Harbin say Jeffries is coming around steadily, and not too fast. Billy Dolaney, who usually gives the public a square deal on the condition of his men, says he is very well satisfied with the way Jeff is working and has no fears that the big fellow will not be as good as ever when he steps into the ring late next month. Jeff is doing mountain climbing, a lot of ball playing with an indoor baseball, sprinting, a little rough wrestling and bag punching and a very little sparring, hardly caring to take any chances with his hands. Jeff and the wife live very quietly in their little cottage at Harbin, and appear to be spending their odd honeymoon pleasantly. Reports from the springs are loud in their praises of the outlet, lady, the daughter of Mrs. Jeffries amid the lovely surroundings of a training camp.

THE HEAVY-WEIGHT ASPIRANT.

JACK MUNROE

Jack Munroe, the giant miner from Montana, is soon to try conclusions with the boiler maker of 'Frisco. It will be Munroe's second appearance in a fight of any importance. The account Munroe gave of himself in his fight with Limerick entitles him to consideration.
