

His features that he was very proud of them. They were wild flowers, of the western mountains, just such as grow in the waste places where he learned the work of a miner. "They gave me these in Doc's cell," he said. "Not the federation men—just engineers and mechanics"—and then he turned them over to his sister.

As the train pulled out for Salt Lake the women folk took possession of the state room, while Mr. Haywood joined the newspaper men who were gathered in berth No. 6, and said he was ready for their running fire of questions, only he hoped they would make them brief because he had already told the story of his life many times over, and had seen enough versions of it to convince him that all blue penciling city editors were of a tribe who can't let a bit of truth go past.

JOHN H. MURPHY
In the berth opposite the group of interviewers lay an interesting figure. It was the giant, worn form of John H. Murphy, who seemed to be as near to death's door as a man may be without passing through. He lay in a made down bed, with a dressing gown over him, and a physician sitting nearby. He is the man who first took up the legal battle in behalf of the Western Federation and followed its fortunes through all the conflict of lockouts, deportations, bull pen strikes, expulsions, and martial law in Idaho and Colorado. Too feeble and ill when the trial began at Boise to actively participate in the final battle of his long years he had participated in, he went to the court room, sat there day after day growing worse all the time, until he came away with Haywood a mere shadow of a man.

Mr. Murphy could take but little interest in what was going on in the car last night. He heard Haywood tell the reporters how difficult has been his fight against an adverse public opinion and forces bent on creating public opinion to destroy him and the cause for which he had been working. At Salt Lake Murphy was carried to a carriage alone and unnoticed while all eyes were fixed on Haywood and all voices cheered him as he carried his wife from the car.

WAS NOT BITTER.
Throughout his talk Haywood was never bitter, never vindictive, and cherished no grudges, apparently. Asked about President Roosevelt, he said he never would be guilty of criticizing the nation's chief executive, and said he felt no resentment on account of the letter designating him an "undesirable citizen" which was a sentence of the wish that it might have come at some time other than when he was on trial and so many forces were at work to color opinion against him. "I was willing to be misunderstood and to have our motives misstated for that is all we can expect, but I want to tell you this—that in all the writings done against me, there never was a sentence of it from anyone with whom I talk in a friendly manner, and let frankly into the desires of our organization and into my own life and plans. The reporters whom I have met and know have all been friendly, but it is the city editor in a remote office who knows but little and thinks he has to cater to a prejudiced clientele that does the damage with his blue pencil, and throws the false color over our work and our ideas."

DISTINCTLY HAPPY.
Asked about the trial he said he knew of no one who was disappointed over the outcome so far as its fairness and impartiality were concerned. Judge Wood was fair, he said, and so were all others connected with it, but he added that he would not like to discuss the merits of the case while other defendants were still to be tried. "I am mighty happy tonight," he declared, "but I wish Meyer and Pettibone were as free as I am. We still have to see them through their trials, and they will be given every bit of support that was given to me."

HOW HE KEPT HEALTHY.
"What did I do to keep myself so healthy in jail? Well boys I worked. Time never dragged on my hands I can tell you. Many of the days were too short. I studied and read most of the time. Four courses in law constitute the main part of my study. No, I am not yet ready to be admitted to the bar, but one of these days you will hear of my applying to take the examinations. After the trial started I gave my whole time to it, and before that I gave my whole time to study."

There never was a clearer demonstration of merit reaping its reward than in the case of

"How about the future?" was suggested—what are your plans? "Well Monday morning I hope to report for work at the Denver office, throw my self back in the harness, and stay there going ahead just the same as I did before the trial."

Haywood laughed softly while he talked and the suggestion of a smile seldom left his face. Once he told the reporter who was so tall that he could light the gas without a step ladder, that he deserved a raise in wages for saving the company the price of a ladder.

His smile broadened to a grin when he was asked to tell how Orchard seemed after "getting religion." "I think," he said, "that one of our lawyers expressed that pretty aptly when he said that after Orchard got religion he tried to shoulder his sins on God, and his crimes on me. He was probably absolved by McFarland before he got religion from Dean Hinks."

Mr. Haywood and his family spent the night at the home of James Killeen, at 247 South Fifth West street. Other members of his party went to the Kenyon.

The present plan is for Mr. Haywood to go on to Denver tonight, arriving in time for a big reception to-morrow night, at which Moyer will be present. He is expected to go direct to Denver over the Union Pacific leaving Boise today.

THREE BURGLARIES REPORTED

Holdup Added to List of Crimes Committed Last Night.

There were three burglaries and one hold up last night in this city. The office of Dr. J. W. Ewin, a dentist, was broken into and about $94 worth of material stolen. The thieves gained entrance by forcing open a door. Another burglary occurred at 57 East Fourth South street but so far as known nothing of any value was stolen. A room at the Wabash rooming house, occupied by Roy McKenzie was broken into and a gold watch stolen.

The holdup occurred about 9:30 last evening on First North between Sixth and Seventh West streets, the victim being Tom Morrison, a driver of an ice cream wagon. The young man was stopped by three men who said they wanted to buy some ice cream. While he was waiting on them one of the men drew a revolver and ordered Morrison to throw up his hands. He complied with the command and was relieved of $30 in cash. He at once reported the matter to the police and this morning gave a description of the three men. He said they looked like tramps.

A private safe may be rented in the fire and burglar-proof vaults of the Salt Lake Security & Trust co., 32-34 Main street, $3.50 per year.

"I WAS MISTAKEN," SAYS COL. WALL

Mining Man Gracefully Takes Back His Published Card Aimed at "News."

"I was mistaken in supposing that the "News" of Thursday evening contained the statement that a committee of American party men called on me and offered me the nomination for mayor. I was under the impression that such was the case, but I was evidently mistaken."—Col. E. A. Wall, when his attention was called to the matter today by the "News."

On account of the use of his name in connection with the mayoral nomination, Col. Wall issued the following card yesterday:
It is not true, as stated in the Herald of this morning, that a committee of the American party called upon me yesterday (or at any other time), and offered me the nomination for the office of mayor. On the contrary, the statement as published in every particular absolutely false. This, of course, applies likewise to similar publication in the Deseret News of last evening. Very respectfully,

E. A. WALL.
In reviewing the present political outlook the "News" said that a determined effort is being made to organize a boom in favor of Col. E. A. Wall, and that a big dinner was recently planned at which it was hoped to pin the nomination on him in such a way that he could not refuse.

The same people are now working to secure fusion between such town with American party leanings as Col. Wall and such Democrats and Republicans as would wish to join a "Taxpayers party" and put forth a ticket to be selected largely from Americans and Democrats of either Col. Wall or Richard P. Morris at its head. Other men mentioned for the place on such a ticket are Frank B. Stephens, John Dern and R. N. Baskin.

LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Test Case to be Made of Waterloo School Property Absorbed by City.

Owing to the fact that the city board of education does not recognize the constitutionality of the law passed by the last legislature providing for a commission to arbitrate the property differences between school districts which have been consolidated, City Supt. of Schools Christensen today at the meeting of the commission yesterday afternoon in State Supt. of Schools Nelson's office. The purpose of the meeting was to settle the value of the Waterloo school property which has been absorbed by the city. The members of the commission under the law are State Supt. Nelson, City Supt. Christensen and Supt. B. W. Ashton of the Granite district in which the Waterloo school was formerly located.

The city board has offered the Granite district $5,000 for the property by the latter for $3,000 and the commission will no doubt make the award at that figure. The board will refuse to pay it and then a test case will be filed in court to determine the constitutionality of the law. Aside from the fact that the board considers the law unconstitutional it also is of the opinion that the price offered is enough for the building in very poor condition when taken over by the board and had to be remodeled throughout, which has cost over $3,000, making the total cost of the property $5,000 at the least.

DEAD BABE DISCOVERED

Boy Finds Prematurely Born Infant in Newspaper Under Canal Bridge.

A prematurely born infant was found this morning under a bridge over a canal at Ninth South and Second West streets by Loren Nelson, aged 7 years. The lad went under the bridge in search of fish and found the body of the baby. It was wrapped in a newspaper and was in an early stage of decomposition. The police were notified and the patrol wagon with Officers Taylor and Brown went to the scene. The body was brought to police headquarters and, by order of Justice Dana T. Smith, turned over to Evans undertaking establishment. The police are investigating the case.

PASSED BOGUS CHECKS

This morning Officer Pitts arrested a young man named Thomas Freeman on the charge of forged, but it is likely that the charges will be changed to one of passing worthless checks. He was charged that Freeman passed three bogus checks at the White House bar.

NEW YORK IS TERROR STRICKEN

There Has Been No Abatement Of Remarkable Series Of Crimes.

VIGILANCE COMMITTEE TALK

Police Confess They Are Baffled—Detectives Differ as to Probable Perpetrators of Outrages.

New York, Aug. 3.—The remarkable series of crimes in this city, in which women and children are the object of attack, shows no sign of abating. During yesterday two such attacks were reported to the police and today one additional case has been brought to public notice, that of a young East Side girl who was attacked by a miscreant while passing through the hallway of the house that held her own home.

Scarcely an arrest of importance has been made, and the police confess themselves completely baffled. Detectives differ as to the probable perpetrators of the different crimes. Some incline to the belief that the assaults are the work of one man, one who has the mad animal instinct of the London and Berlin "rippers." Others combat this theory and point to the widely separated points in which the crimes occurred, and the different methods with which each fatal murder was accomplished. No one can explain, however, why there should be such an epidemic of fiendish crimes in this city at this time.

The alarm is widespread and there has been a marked decrease of the number of women and children upon the streets at night. Every little street incident is magnified and a mob quickly assembles.

In several instances men have been attacked by the crowds and, whether rightly or wrongly, have been severely beaten by the people. The temper of the feeling is shown by letters which have been received by the newspapers suggesting vigilance committees and protective associations. Some adverse comment has been caused by the fact that Police Commissioner Bingham has gone away on a vacation at this time, but he has explained that he has done all he could to catch the fiend or fiends, and that he will return to the city in case his presence is required.

The list of victims who have met death in this wake of crime has reached five, three young girls and two women. A score or more have been attacked.

BEFORE JUDGE DIEHL

Colored Woman Fined $10—Irishman Was Discharged—Larriba to Jail.

In Judge Diehl's court this morning John Connors was tried on the charge of drunkenness. He pleaded guilty and might have been discharged but for the fact that he was recently released from a jail sentence for vagrancy and was then caught at the rear of the jail passing alcohol into the prisoners. For his offense he will serve the next 15 days in jail.

Maggie Moultrie, a colored woman, created considerable amusement in court this morning while being tried on the charge of immoral conduct. Officer Taylor was sworn and gave testimony against the woman. At the conclusion of his testimony, Judge Diehl asked the woman if she wanted to ask the witness any questions:

"Ah does not, yo' honah," said the woman. "Oh! my goodness-sakes-alive, he has done said 'nough ter fix me. No, 'deed ah doan wan' ter ask him nuffin." The woman was found guilty and fined $10. After sentence was imposed she said: "Dat doan hurt me none, ernot er bit for de reason dat I doan get er man dat will pay hit."

Henry Needham, a typical Irishman, was charged with vagrancy because he went to sleep on a bench in the City and County building grounds. He was arrested by Officer Uter. Needham made a statement to the court in which he said: "Ah sure, yer honor, this same mon said I wuz a gintleman. I hiv bin in th' army 'r fourteen yrs an' hov split a thousand dollars in th' town. If ye'll let me go I'll be in th' twinty-first infantry." Needham was discharged.

John Smith, charged with indecent conduct, was found not guilty and discharged.

Domingo Larriba, the young Peruvian accused of a grave crime in company with a number of young white girls, appeared before Judge Diehl this morning for pleading on statutory charge. A plea of not guilty was entered and preliminary examination was waived. In default of $2,000 bail he was committed to the county jail. Complaints against three white boys for a similar offense were filed this morning.

SCHOLARSHIP FOR SCHOOL OF MINES

For the past five years the University of Utah has been trying hard to raise its level from that of a high school to the standard of undergraduate rank, and to eliminate the preparatory departments through which it evolved its regular college courses.

Now the institution is leading out in an effort to still further develop itself by adding a post graduate school, and establishing regular work in advanced research. The aim of all universities is to lead its students to the extreme of what is known and understood, and then turn them with the scholar's attitude to the solution of problems yet vital to the nation or the community.

In Utah mining presents such a problem, and to meet it, post graduate work is to begin on a regular plan in mining experimentation. Col. E. A. Wall has taken the initial step which opens this new field for mining students. Dr. Merrill, principal of the mining school, today confirmed the report that Col. Wall had given the university a scholarship worth $500 annually to its holder, which is to be devoted to furthering experiments in Utah mining problems.

FOR GRADUATES ONLY

"This scholarship," said Dr. Merrill, "will be open to able young men who have completed a college course and are so far advanced that they are ready for research work."

"Its establishment marks the dawn of a new era at the school of mines—an era in which the facilities of the institution will be systematically employed in experiments and investigations, designed to solve some of the many problems in the mining, milling and smelting of the ores of our productive mines."

MANY UNSOLVED PROBLEMS

"None of the ore-reducing processes are perfect. Wide differences of opinion exist in many cases as to the best methods of treatment. Thorough, scientific investigation will settle many points in dispute. The authorities of the mining school desire to aid the mining industry as the agricultural experiment stations are aiding the farmers."

TO AID THE MINERS

"Our own mining school has now become so well equipped with apparatus, machinery, etc., that the work of investigation can be undertaken with promising results. Col. Wall now generously leads out with what is equivalent to an endowment of at least $10,000 to aid in this work. His action testifies as to his public spirit and to his loyalty to the institutions of this state.

FIRST EVER GIVEN.
"This fellowship is the first of several that it is confidently expected will be established in the near future. In the meantime Col. Wall is deserving of all the honor of a pioneer in a new field of public service."

This scholarship is the first to be offered in the mining school. A state scholarship in the normal school pays the tuition fees to the holders, 200 of whom may be admitted each year.
