BARLOW DENIES MURTIE STORY

Behind the Denial, However, Is Dr. Sundwall's Positive Assertion of Fact.

CONTROVERSY HAS ARISEN

Peculiar Conflict of Statements Regarding Disposition of Old Man's Body May be Investigated

In answer to Chief of Police Barlow's denial to the effect that the human skull and bones which decorate his office are not those of Edward Murtie. Dr. John Sundwall, professor of anatomy in the medical department of the University of Utah, stated this morning that his records show to the Prof. Sundwall said that Murtie's body had been turned over to the medical department, and that it had been kept for two months, in accordance with the requirements of the statute governing such cases, in which corpses are held that length, of time, in order to give relatives or friends of the deceased an opportunity to put in a claim.

Prof. Sundwall further stated that last September, Chief of Police Samuel Barlow, accompanied by Detective last September, Chief of Police Samuel Barlow, accompanied by Detective Harry Curran had visited the laboratory; that Chief Barlow, in the presence of Dr. H. P. Kirtley, assistant county physician, and a member of the faculty, had looked at Murtie's body as it lay on the dissection had just been started, and the features were easily recognizable by any person who had known the man; that Chief Barlow recognized the cadaver as that of Edward Murtie; and that there was some conversation between Chief of Police Barlow, Detective Harry Currain and Dr. Kirtley on the matter. The chief of police stated that he had never heard whether Murtie had been burled, or not, and that he had wondered where Murtie's body was.

BARLOW HAS THE BONES.

BARLOW HAS THE BONES.

Chief of Police Barlow was then informed that Murtie's bones would be turned over to him, after dissection. When the medical students had finished their work on the arm bones and skull a few days ago, they were turned over to Chief Barlow at his office, and are there now, says Dr. Sundwall, In contradiction of the statements of members of the faculty and numerous students in the medical department of the University of Utah to the effect that they have been dissecting Murtie's body, and that the skull and arm bones had been turned over to Chief Barlow at his own request, is the claim that George Deusch of the E. G. O'Donnell Undertaking company took charge of Murtie's body after his death on April 2 of this year at Holy Cross hospital; that Deusch burled the body in Calvary cemetery on April 12, and that Ed Murtie's body still reposes in the grave, unless it is said. "some ghould disinterred that Deusch buried the body in Calvary cemetery on April 12, and that Ed Murtie's body still reposes in the grave, unless, it is said, "some ghoul disinterred the body in which case the person who has the bones is amenable to the law and his arrest should follow."

Father Ryan of St. Mary's cathedral said this morning that at the time of Murtie's death, Mr. Deusch telephoned to him from the O'Donnell undertaking parlors, stating that he had the the body and asking what disposition should be made of it. Father Ryan said that he had told Mr. Deusch that he would give Murtie a grave, and that as far as he knew, Murtie had been buried in some spot in the unimproved section of Calvary cemetery, though no record could be produced to show it.

NOW QUESTION OF FACT.

NOW QUESTION OF FACT.

In view of the fact that Chief of Po lice Barlow asked for Murtie's bones, visited the university and looked at visited the university and looked at Murtie's cadaver, recognized the corpse as that of Murtie, talked to Dr. Kirtley, Detective Curran and Prof. Sundwall about the old man, and received the skull and bones a few days ago and put them up in his office, an interesting centroversy has developed, and the matter has been reduced to a question of fact all around.

E. G. O'Donnell has sworn to an affidavit to the effect that he himself buried Murtie, at his own expense.

It is possible that before the controversy is finished, an official investigation will be made, and Murtie's friends tion will be made, and Murtle's friends will demand that the authorities dig down into the grave in which O'Donnell claims Murtle was buried, and exhume the body, for the purpose of ascertaining whether Murtle really was buried. In Calvary cemetery, or was dissected by the students at the University of Utah.

EARN LIVING IN ODD WAYS.

Some of the Means Adopted by Salt Lakers to Make Money.

"That it takes all kinds of persons to make the world and there are nearly as many means of making a living, was never more fully demonstrated than I have seen in Salt Lake City in the past few weeks," remarked Willlam Gray, a Chicago traveling man, as he sat in the lobby at the Knuts-ford hotel this morning.
"A trip down Main street would soon make this plain to most any one. Why one day I walked down the street from the monument to the Newhouse build-one day I walked down the street from the monument to the Newhouse buildings and I saw more things of interest than most people notice. At Main and First South there was a man in the garb of a 'fra dlavolo,' with a face smeared with red paint, and he was shouting an advertising scheme. A little further I met a man with two dogs. The animals had blankets covered with advertising. One of the dogs had a pipe in his mouth and wore glasses. The other dog would stand on his hind legs and waltz. "Then a man on horseback came along with a megaphone and he shouted some announcement for the public to visit some event. It was then getting on toward evening and a band stood on the corner with a big banner waving over the heads of the men. After dispensing some of their notes they retired. Then on the street corner I drop a few nickels into a kettle where a man stood dressed as Santa Claus and rang a bunch of sleigh bells. Earlier in the day a street car passed in which a band was playing and the outside of the car was coated with advertisements. Yes, I guess there were a dozen more methods of earning a living in an odd way that I did not notice. It is strange what people will do to live. We all have to earn it, that is $5 per cent of us do, and I guess it does not make much difference in the end."

BUSINESS MEN INSPECT LOCAL COCOA FACTORY

J. G. McDonald Initiates Party of Sixty Into Mysteries of Manufacture Of Candy and Chocolate.

A party of state and city officials rominent business men, church authorities, ministers, bankers and newspaper men were the guests of James G McDonald at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and under his pilotage inspected the big cocoa and candy factory on west Third South As practically the party of 60 to a man had never witessed the manufacture of cocoa be fore, the hour and a half spent was disfore, the hour and a half spent was disattractly educational. The almost human machinery, all of which has been imported from Germany together with the experts who turn out the product, was responsible for considerable enthusiastic comment. To watch the cocoa bean start on its long journey through mills and along elevators, into mixers and numerous other weird machines without constants. without once coming into contact with the human hand and finally come out without once coming into contact with the human hand and finally come out as chocolate dip, cocoa butter or the simon pure beverage seemed to be fascinating equally to all. From basement to garret of the big four-story building some 400 employes were as busy as bees and for some weeks past the plant has run incessantly day and night.

Among those who visited the plant were Governor Spry, Mayor Bransford, the members of the First Presidency, Bishop C W. Nibley, Rev. Peter A. Simpkin, Rev. Short, W. J. Halloran, Jos. E. Caine of the Commercial club, and numerous prominent business men. For the benefit of those present State Chemist Herman Harms volunteered the information that he had made half a dozen surprise visits to the factory during the past few months and on each occasion had found it precisely as yesterday, there apparently having been no "dress parade" inaugurated for the benefit of the visitors.

HERE FROM ALASKA,

Missionary Bishop P. T. Rowe Visiting With Bishop Spaulding.

Episcopal church in Alaska, is in town, as the guest of Bishop F. S. Spaulding, en route east. Bishop Rowe says people from the states soon become used to the six months day and six months night, and don't mind it. As to the proposition to give Alaska a territorial form of government, the bishop agrees with the president that the proper method of administration is by a commission, rather than by a regularly organized territorial form of govern-ment. He says there are too many transients, too little of permanency, too much of continual change going on, to attempt any other form of governor very slippery surfaces, for they slip, fall down and sometimes break their legs. The dogs can travel twice as fast as reindeer.

Bishop Rowe reports the Episcopalians, Presbyterians and Catholics as the strongest missionary denominations in Alaska. A pleasant feature is the amiable and harmonious relations existing between them, each having due regard for the other, and never interfering with each other's work.

SHOPPING IN SALT LAKE

Many Coming in to Prepare for Christmas Festivities.

Christmas shopping in the nearby cities, towns and hamlets is already being felt by the hotels in Salt Lake Most of those registered at the hotels today are shoppers who have early and are patronizing the come early and are patronizing the Salt Lake merchants. At each one of the hotels a long list of business men, and those engaged in other lines, could be found on the register. Overlooked by Assessor, but Sing Long Pays Taxes Anyhow

Sing Long, a Chinaman, established a record for honesty this morning when he walked into the office of County Assessor Amos Gabbott and wanted to pay his taxes. Sing lives in a hut 8x10 adjoining his barn in the rear of his vegetable garden at Roosevelt avenue and Sixth East street. The assessor missed Sing last spring when he was making assessments, and the oriental felt slighted over it. He has a horse and wagon and some tools valued at $50, and he came in and declared his property. His taxes amounted to

MEMBERSHIP LIST IS NOT YET CLOSED

Commercial Club Yields to General Demand and Continues to Receive Applications.

The Commercial club will continue o receive applications for membership fielding to a very general demand on the part of present members who have been too busy within the last week to present names of friends before the 1,000 mark had been reached. It is expected that the list will reach 1,200 before the board of governors takes some final action as to the limitation some final action as to the limitation.

The membership committee today sent out letters to the members of the club notifying them that their contemplated recommendations that the membership be limited and that the initiation fee be raised would not be presented to the board of governos until Dec. 24. All who are eligible will thus be given ample time to send in their applications. The mark now is 1,028, in increase of 203 in less than a week their applications. The mark now is 1,028, in increase of 203 in less than a week.

The feeling throughout the club has been very general that no drastic measures be taken in regard to the limitation of membership at the present time and that no boost be given the initiation fee. It seems best, it is though, in view of the near-removal to the new club house, that these contemplated actions be postponed in order that the field can be canvassed most thoroughly.

In view of the splendid work done by the members of the membership committee in the campaign, the club has extended an invitation to them to be its guests at a luncheon to be served at the club on Saturday, Dec. 18.

The nominating committee of the new board of governors held a meeting today at the club and named six members for the positions which are to be made vacant by expiration. These names will go to the board of governors for approval and will then be posted upon the bulletin board for 10 days before election. The retiring members of the board are Charles S. Burton, R. E. Miller, Joy H. Johnson, Samuel Newhouse, John S. Bransfor, and Joseph E. Caine. The new members will serve three years with the exception of the one named to succeed Joseph E. Caine, who resigned to bcome the secretary of the club.

GOOD ROADS MEETING.

Gov. William Spry is meeting this afternoon with the county commissioners of Davis county in regard to the good oads convention which will be held in January. Plans are being perfected for the building of a model piece of road in Davis county by government experts for the purpose of illustrating the method of establishing permanent roads. It is proposed to have the road completed by the time the convention meets.

NEW MOTOR-GENERATOR.

Big Machine Pulls Thirty Cars of First Day of Installation.

The second great motor-generator in stalled by the Utah Light & Railway company in its West Temple street company in its West Temple street central station, was put in commission Wednesday afternoon, and given a load right up to the limit of its capacity, 1,200 horsepower, which operated 30 cars covering three lines of the street car system. The big machine ran all right and is now in regular service. There has been some delay in getting it running as defective lathe work at the eastern shops left the bearings not exactly true, so that the machine ran hot. It had to be taken partly apart and the bearings given a filing. The company is now in prime shape for power, and will not need another motor-generator for several years, when the system is considerably larger than it is at present. Several of the old machines that have seen their day and usefulness, will be discontinued. SELECTS HIS ASSISTANTS.

Probation Officers Say Little Johnny Decker Will Turn Out Right In the End.

O! He never cares to wander from his O! He never cares to ramble or to roam. For the cops are after him,

So his chance is mighty slim, And he knows there is no place like

And he knows there is no place like home.

So singeth little Johnny Decker, champion boy runaway of the world, bar none and challenging all comers. But little Johnny's roaming days are over. He must rest on his laurels now. The Salt Lake City police, the sheriff's force, the United States marshal and his deputies, and the government secret service agents have formed a conspiracy to keep Johnny from getting away again.

Little Johnny is the very young son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Decker of 1068 Second avenue. Ever since he could toddle, he has "runned away." For several years he has given his dad many a merry chase, the latest one being a trip to Pocatello. While returning to Salt Lake City, the train stopped at Ogden a few minutes, Little Johnny's pa left his seat for a few minutes, and when he returned the young globe frotter had disappeared. The Ogden police found Johnny breaking up coal unings in the rear of a restaurant. His father nabbed him again and brought him to Salt Lake City, the was lodged in the city prison, and then turned over to the tender mercies of the Juvenile court. Probation Officer Guardello Brown became interested in the boy's case. It was learned that Johnny's home life had not been altogether ideal; that his father indulged in liquor more than moderately; and that his mother was quite ill and suffered from the effects of several operations for cancer. Guardello Brown concluded that Johnny would be benefited by a change of domestic scenery, and accordingly started Johnny on his way to the Uintah Training school, or rather sixth assistant chef. Mr. Brown, who has great faith in the ultimate good of human nature, says that Johnny is not a bad boy at all; that he merely found things unpleasant at home, and for this reason gamboiled over the landscape in search of kind companions. Johnny is all right, and will turn out to be a good man, says Mr. Brown.

Mr. Hoggan stated that he was in his store until 8 o'clock, on the night of the burglary, and that the robbers must have peeked through the front window and watched him hiding his money, as they could not otherwise have found it. The cash consisted mostly of silver coins of various denominations.

WILL BE NO TALKING AT THIS CONVENTION

Colorado Springs, Dec. 16.—A convention with all talking eliminated will be held in Colorado Springs in August, 1910, when the World's Congress of the Deaf will assemble in that city. In all the meetings not a word will be spoken. The deliberations will be in the sign language, and moving pictures will be taken for exhibition throughout the world. Among those who have been invited to attend are Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, whose invention of the telephone is said to have been the result of efforts to alleviate his wife's deafness. President Taft also will be invited to attend.

dent Taft also will be invited to attend.

Included in the program which has been announced by President George W. Veditz, will be a discussion of the following topics: "The deaf man in the business world; how best to overcome prejudice and distrust toward his employment;" "The correct method of educating the deaf;" "Independent newspapers for the deaf," "Homes for the aged and infirm deaf; a national home vs. existing state homes;" "The deaf in benevolent associations," "The evil effects upon the popular mind in classifying the deaf with the dependent and delinquent classes."

At this congress, steps will be taken to celebrate properly the first centenary of American deaf-mute education which was instituted in 1817 by Thomas Hapins Gallaudet. His only surviving son. Dr. Edward Miner Gallaudet, president of Gallaudet college, Washington, D. C., will be the honored guest of the congress.

COLORADO GOOD ROADS.

COLORADO GOOD ROADS.

Colorado Springs, Dec. 16.—A highway connecting Colorado Springs, at the foot of Pike's Peak, with the worldfamed Royal Gorge of the Arkansas river, will be completed within the next few years. Convicts are now working on a state boulevard between Colorado Springs and Canon City, and the county commissioners have authorized the construction of a road from Canon City to the top of the Royal Gorge. Canon City and Colorado Springs business men initiated the movement for these two roads which will, when completed, form one of the grandest scenic driveways in the world, extending for a distance of 50 miles and culminating in an unequalled pano-cama from the top of walls of perpendicular granite.
