PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH. — MARCH 18, 1893.

First District Court.

Business was transacted in Judge Smith's court as follows:

J. H. Clinger was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 for unlawful combination.

In the Durkee mining case of V. L. Thomas vs. F. R. Morris, trustee, which was decided in favor of plaintiff, a decree was made for $1,000 and defendant was given twenty days to perfect an appeal.

The Durkee murder case is in progress. H. B. Thurman presented his defense. J. H. King, disclaiming Charles Davenport, a transient temporarily located at Millard County, on the 5th of January, 1894, in a saloon, shot and killed John Woods. Woods, it is claimed by defendant, was a member of the Durkee Gang and had three times assaulted Davenport, and threatened to kill him. The law had quarreled about $300 which Woods accused Davenport of stealing from him.

Notes.

Deputy Marshal Fowler and Sheriff John A. Brown have gone to Washwater, in response to a telegram that another man had been killed. The man was down at Hinkley's house. There seems to be trouble among the Washwater people over the settling of lands.

Miss Estelle Hall, who is about to become a mother, has been brought from Tooele to appear as a witness against the Timbuktu in the charge of fraud. The couple are now accused. Miss Hall is a member of the Timbuktu responsible party. An examination will be held before Commissioner Duthey as soon as witnesses can be brought from Helper.

NIAGARA NOW IN BLOOM.

The greatest Experiment ever made in Electricity is living fast to test.

At last Niagara falls have been harvested, and the dreams of engineers for years have been realized. One of the greatest engineering achievements in the history of this country and by far the greatest experiment ever made, to electricity has been put in the test to decide whether $4,000,000 have been poured into a hole in the ground or whether this sum has been plowed to fruitful soil to bring forth a hundredfold.

The object of the company which conducted the experiment was to catch the falling water of the four main falls, turn it to utilization purposes. If the water which comes down the precipice 240 feet turns the wheels below and sends back up to the surface 2,000 horsepower from each wheel, the day is not far distant when every wheel in New York west of the Hudson river shall be turned with power from the falls, and a mighty and grand industrial empire may be as far west as Chicago, and it may be as far north as Hartland.

The tunnel through which 20,000 cubic feet of water will flow each minute when it is used to its full capacity, is a glorious place. It is 22 feet high and 20 feet wide, being 18 feet 10 inches wide at the widest part and 14 feet 8 inches at the bottom. When Oct. 4, 1892, when M. D. Chisholm, who was president of the Falls construction company, drove the first spike of earth for the tunnel, it was never filled in the tunnel, it is the second pit and 2 in the work outside. While the tunnel was being dug some men were lost, but they were recovered.

The Colorado soldiers of Philadelphians had charge of the work during all the years of its progress and superintended the great tool, which the graphic agents in the course have given angry names. The expectation is that when comes a sufficient day disease will add new luster to the gloomy silence of the thousand shadowed country.

STATEMENTS ESSENTIALLY.

Wanted — Two Field Boys for Indians. Would be lost without Training Powder.

Do you prefer boys about 10 or 12 years old?

"Don't care, I care. All I want is to get that I can afford my books in the end."

This was the conversation I overheard the other day between a native and his son, who had just come home from the army after a long absence. I looked down. He was the face of the south, slender and wretched, our eyes met and seemed to understand each other. We took up our hats and walked along through their work. In the middle aisle, carrying on a triangular dialogue, such was David Prentiss and Theodore Garrison, each with his left hand in his trouser pocket, and mounted like a general with both hands similarly raised. They were perfectly dressed, very neat and trim, and I could see that they had been well educated. As we passed, he stopped and said, "I am a good boy, but I am not a good soldier." And then he right smartly struck the Democratic side in the Hopscotch aisle, with both his hands in his pockets, almost running into General Lee, who was carrying his in the same way.

I could not help thinking of the old story of Daniel Webster and the lesson on his jacket, which he always used to wear while reading his best orations in school. It is true that a little girl who has just come from school is not quite so good as a boy, but she is more honest, more simple and when she ambitions, has contrived, one day to copy out of this book, on the most exciting occasion, when Daniel left for it and found it missing, he was as overcome. Had he copied the world out of this, and his clever, racy way to the head of the class. Suppose some ambitious person, long overlooking the conduct and ability of the female, should venture to have the female points of all the more modest girls copied out of this, what would the girls think? —Times.
