FRAGMENTS.

"UNION TOM'S CABIN" will hold the boards at the Theatre tomorrow and Wednesday evening.

HYREM NORDBERG, of Grantsville, Tooele County, was admitted to citizenship in the Third District Court today.

JOHN E. A. WING, the young man who shot himself last Thursday, was buried from his mother's residence yesterday afternoon.

A CONCERT will be given in the Twentieth Ward schoolhouse tomorrow (Tuesday) evening, March 27th, for the benefit of the Theological Class. Doors open at 7:30, concert at 8.

THE City Marshal has ordered a number of new straws for the western part of the city opened by April 6th. Read the official notice in another column.

MILANDO PRATT, Daniel Harrington, George W. Jones and A. W. Winn, of Salt Lake County, and Peter Sandwell, of Sanpete County, have been appointed notaries public.

A FREE entertainment will be given in the Second Ward, on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, consisting of readings, songs and recitations from J. H. Ward's "Ballads of Life." All are invited.

A. J. STEWART, Esq., goes to Denver today with the stock delegation, via the D. & R. G. He will go from Denver to Mexico, in the interest of the Utah-Mexican Colonization Company.

J. H. GIBBONS and W. F. ALLEN, who were convicted about a year ago of grand larceny, is stealing some cloth from a D. & R. G. W. box car, were released from the penitentiary today, having completed their term of imprisonment.

DYER has the latest issues of Puck and Judge, the two great cartoon publications, each of which has some striking allegorical representations of current events. He also has the Competition, which is making its way upward among American magazines.

Released.

This morning J. H. RIDGES, of the Nineteenth Ward of this city, was released from the penitentiary. He has served a six months' term for living with two wives, and 90 days additional for the fine imposed upon him.

Plea of Not Guilty.

JOHN W. HESS, of Davis County, was arraigned in the Third District Court this morning on a charge of unlawful cohabitation, and pleaded not guilty. The indictment against him is a relic of the barbarous Dickson segregation regime, and contains three counts, one each for the years 1884, 1885, and 1886.

Postponed.

A telegram has been received stating that it will be impossible for Dr. Carter to reach this city by Thursday next, and the shooting exhibition announced to be given by him on that day is therefore postponed until a date to be duly announced.

A "Boom."

THE craze for tickets for the Booth-Barrett engagement seems to have struck some people pretty hard. The box office will not open for the sale of tickets until Thursday next, at 10 a. m., but at 10 o'clock yesterday morning—90 hours ahead of time—the first applicant for tickets took up his stand on the Theatre steps. During the day a few others fell in line, and occasionally during the night the company was augmented. This afternoon the number had increased to about 40, all of whom evidently intend to weather it out, rain or shine, until they make their purchases.

Another Meeting.

AT the meeting of persons interested in the Salt Lake State Library, held last Wednesday evening, it was not fully determined whether or not to continue that institution permanently, though a strong sentiment in favor of so doing was shown. Contributions for that purpose were promised by a number of generous persons present, among whom were the directors, and another meeting will be held, at a reading room, on next Wednesday evening, to further consider the matter. All interested should attend.

Sudden Death.

ON Saturday evening last Mrs. Elizabeth Garrett, wife of Samuel G. Garrett, was in the enjoyment of her usual health, and engaged in the performance of her household duties. During the evening, however, she was attacked with convulsions of the bowels, and died at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. She leaves a husband and two children, one aged sixteen months and the other three weeks. Her sudden demise was a great shock. She was not quite twenty-two years old, was the daughter of Robert and Sarah Mitchell, and a native of Dairy, Ayreshire, Scotland. Funeral at 12 m. tomorrow, in the Fifth Ward meeting-house. Friends of the family invited.

Mrs. Iverson Dead.

ON Friday evening Sister Eveline W. Iverson was brought to this city to receive surgical attention for the removal of a tumor which was afflicting her. Our correspondent at Pleasant Grove sends the following regarding the case: "Mrs. Eveline Walker Iverson, came in from Ashtabula, Grant County, on Monday, via the D. & R. G. W. on a journey to Price Station, where she remained—125 miles—five days, being confined on the road. Mrs. Iverson was suffering from tumor of the abdomen. Last Spring the lady underwent an operation in Salt Lake City and a large tumor was removed successfully. She recovered so far that she accompanied her husband and children to a native fall where they made a home. This winter she was attacked with the same affliction and has been steadily growing worse until it was thought best to bring her back to her former home for treatment. Doctor Price visited the patient on Thursday and advised her relatives to have her removed to Salt Lake for the operation. A second operation will be performed on the only hope of prolonging her life. The prognosis given by the doctor is that she will live a few months, and she has been married but one year and nine months."

The attending physicians decided that she was too weak to allow of the operation being performed at the present time, and resorted to "tapping," in the hope that it would prolong her life and enable her to regain sufficient strength to have the tumor removed. The great suffering she has been called on to endure was too much for her, however, and yesterday she passed from this life. Her remains will be taken to Pleasant Grove, Davis County, where her parents reside, and where the funeral will be held. She was 26 years of age on the 29th of December last, and was highly respected by all who knew her."

ANOTHER SELF-MURDER.

E. F. Willman, of Leadville, Takes Morphine.

Last night added one more to the list of suicides that is rapidly lengthening out in this part of the country. E. F. Willman, a commercial man who represents a St. Louis house, arrived in the city about ten days ago and registered at the Continental. He appeared to be attending to the business in which he was engaged, until last evening, when he was discovered at the hotel in an unconscious state. It was soon ascertained that he had taken a hypodermic injection of morphine, with suicidal intent. Physicians were summoned, but he was beyond their skill. He was taken to the Catholic Hospital, where he died at 10:30 last night.

When placed in the hospital nothing was said of the cause of his condition, and when the surgeon, Dr. Pinkerton, saw him shortly after, he was dying. His papers and other articles in his clothing were taken possession of by Dr. Pinkerton, till the inquest could be held, which will be at 6 o'clock this evening.

No valuables of any kind were found in his possession, and it is probable financial troubles were one cause of the rash deed. He left the following unfinished letter, explaining his conduct. At its commencement it is written in a bold, free hand, but as it goes on shows the effects of the deadly draught on his sensibilities, and the last is in a cramped hand, and growing rather incoherent.

I am tired of trying to solve the great problem of this life's existence, and have taken hypodermic injections of morphine so that no post-mortem or autopsy is necessary. I have met sunshine and cloudy friends while journeying on this green foot-stool, and none of them have been worth the cultivation, and I, as a last resort, will try and see if the fellow man who plays his oar on the dark waters of the river Styx will tow a voyager, torn with care and misery, to the fair shore which nature tells us awaits the weary.

The only thing that I regret to leave for is that I have a good wife and little boy of whom I am not worthy. I may be called a coward by the world as I have taken this course, but I know the heartache and the hours of absolute despair I have experienced, and I would at least say, "Well, he has solved the problem; peace to his ashes, even if he is a pauper's grave."

I do not ask that I should be deeply grateful should the fraternity of traveling men, of whom I have been a confederate, give me a decent burial. It matters little, however, what becomes of this mould of clay that has housed such a turbulent spirit, while I have seen the trials and tribulations of this world, whether it is consigned to a vaulted sepulchre or is thrown to the care of the birds of the blue arch above.

We have been taught, each and every one of us, at our dear mother's knee, that there is an infinite power above who watches the fall of the sparrow and notes its resting place, but it seems to me after due consideration of the subject that it is a prolonged fairy tale, and if there is any hereafter, I imagine, however foolish it may appear to the casual reader, that it cannot contain all the scenes of this life as much as the trouble as I have had in the last few years. And if there is such a thing as spiritual existence on the other shore, and I have any influence with the spirits who dwell in the air, I shall be my duty in all after life that I shall enjoy to bless my wife and boy, and to keep a close watch on the future of J. Edgar Wilcox, of Denver, and to throw all the shades of perdition upon Joseph Elmer and one Ingersoll, of Liverpool, La. For those two pernicious and hypocritical brutes are the cause of my unhappiness in life.

My life has been an exceptional one. When I launched my trail bark upon the sea of this world, I thought everything seemed auspicious for a fair and prosperous voyage. The sun seemed to fairly embrace the billows, and the sky, and—as he—

On the back of an envelope he had written the following: "Please express my value to Mrs. E. F. Willman, 135 West Fourth Street, Leadville, Colorado."

He was about five feet ten inches in height, and apparently thirty years of age.

These Warnock Notes.

Judge Zane today rendered a decision in two suits of the Star Wagon Company vs. George Chambers, where the instruments sued on were what are generally known as the "Warnock notes." On several occasions the true inwardness of the business connected with the notes has been ventilated through the News. Quite a number of people did business with R. Warnock when he was a dealer in agricultural implements, and many gave promissory notes in payment for his merchandise. Later these notes were paid, but the unsophisticated were satisfied with a receipt for the amounts from Warnock, and failed to obtain negotiable instruments. This effectively squelches all efforts to collect second time on notes that were given to Warnock.

Another Damage Suit.

The suit of Alfred Lambourne vs. Thomas F. Mulloy and Samuel Paul, was taken up for trial today, before a jury in the Third District Court. Mr. Lambourne asks for $5000 damages from Mulloy & Paul, for injuries received on the night of the 18th of June, 1887. After a performance at the Theatre on that date, the plaintiff, with quite a number of others, started home along the east side of the Theatre. Near the stage door they encountered Mulloy & Paul's transfer wagon, drawn up across the sidewalk. After some complaint on the part of the pedestrians, the wagon was drawn away, and several persons passed on. Mr. Lambourne made an effort to get through, but the wagon coming back suddenly he was caught between it and a post close to the building, and badly injured. For the injuries thus sustained he seeks damages. The defendant claims that they were not responsible for the accident. Messrs. Rawlins are attorneys for the plaintiff and Arthur Brown for the defense.

Conference Theatricals.

The Walker Opera House will be opened on Friday and Saturday evenings, April 5th and 6th, by Phil Margette and J. E. Evans, who, anxious to cater for friends from the country, and not being able to secure dates at the Theatre, will present Boucault's great five act play of "The Willow Grove," replete with sensation, pathos and fun. They will be assisted by members of the old stock company and other dramatic talent.

Prof. E. W. Kent's grand orchestra and military band will furnish the music for the occasion, outside and inside the house.

Mr. C. R. Bayless has just returned from a trip to the Pacific Coast.

ELDER LEWIS' LECTURE.

An Able Treatise on Moral Science.

The commodious meeting-house in the Twentieth Ward was well filled last evening by a very attentive and appreciative audience, to hear the third lecture of the series provided by the Twentieth Ward Institute. Prof. T. B. Lewis was the speaker, and his address on the subject of "Moral Science, or Ethics," was a masterly effort.

He commenced by referring to his former association in the ward, and expressing kind feelings toward his old friends, many of whom were present. He then referred to Rand the murderer, who, speaking from his grating to the multitude outside, had cried out, "I'm a Bob Lugsoll man!" "And," said Elder Lewis, "the people believed him." His life had been so destitute of the higher morality inculcated by Gospel teaching and influence, that it confirmed his atheistic tendencies and his declaration of infidel principles.

He (the speaker) took the ground that no man could develop all of his attributes and possibilities unless aided by something broader and deeper than anything which had its origin in the mind of man. That there must be a linking of the great life hereafter with the life that is now, in order to draw man up to the standard of righteousness, which is the goal of the human living of which he is capable. He would never reach that goal without Christ's religion and morality. He showed the absolute among the youth, and of a sound practical morality to render religion what the great Author had designed it to be, the means of introducing a millennium of happiness to the world. He dilated in an original and eloquent manner on the commandment reiterated by the Savior to his disciples, "Love thy neighbor as thyself," and defined some of its constituent elements—moral and otherwise, showing that it was largely the lack of this great principle in the ancient Jews, that caused their rejection of the Messiah, and the fall of the control and desired to rule, regardless of who might have to be overthrown.

The choir, led by Brother Joseph J. Daynes, sang some suitable selections during the evening.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REVIEW.

An Interesting and Enjoyable Occasion.

Last evening the Fourteenth Ward Sabbath School occupied the time of the regular meeting in carrying out the first part of the programme of their annual review. After singing and prayer, each member of a class of boys, who have been studying the New Testament under the direction of Brother H. B. Elder, gave a portion of the life of the Savior, the whole forming a brief and connected history, and after each speaker the class recited in concert one of Christ's sayings.

A class of little girls led by Sister Sarah H. Taylor, recited the Articles of Faith. "Songs of Zion" was then sung by the school, after which Brother E. W. Taylor's class of boys repeated the blessings on the Sacrament. The 10th chapter of Acts, giving an account of the conversion of Cornelius, was then reviewed by Sister M. E. Kimball's class.

Superintendent H. P. Richards gave an interesting review of the school from its organization by Brother Richard Billantyne in 1849 to the present.

A part song was rendered in a pleasing manner by the juveniles, when the boys belonging to Brother J. B. Elder's class recounted a number of accidents connected with the hand-cart company.

The answers given by Sister Anne Campbell's class of young ladies to her questions on Faith and Theology showed them to have an excellent knowledge of the subjects.

The school sang "Rock of My Refuge." The Theological Class, with Counselor T. E. Taylor as teacher, was represented by Brother Clarence W. Taylor, who gave an intelligent review of the life of Joseph Smith, and the coming forth of the Book of Mormon, and Brother F. W. Taylor, who spoke on the subject of baptism, showing its necessity, form and object.

A quartette by H. Gardner, E. E. Wilcox and Annie and Aggie Campbell was an enjoyable feature of the evening.

President A. M. Cannon and State Superintendent John C. Cutler spoke encouragingly to the school, and expressed themselves as highly pleased with the exercises.

H. P. Richards announced that but half the school had been represented, and that the rest of the programme would be carried out the following Sunday evening.

Singing, "When shall we meet Thee?"

Benediction by Elder Joseph Horne.

Mr. Burt—I have nothing to say, your honor.

Court—Well, you will be sentenced to imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term of six months and pay the costs of prosecution; you will stand committed till the costs are paid.
