As a result of the recent ruling of Land Commissioner Sparks, a writ of mandamus will be applied for in the Territorial Supreme Court to compel the land officers in this city to obey the law in opposition to the Commissioner's instructions. It will be seen by our dispatches that the Senate is also inquiring into Sparks' action.

On late, in the vicinity of Liberty Park, different parties have been indulging in fast driving, amounting to actual horse racing, very dangerous practice. With a view to stopping it yesterday Officer Main made a couple of arrests under the ordinance on the subject. In view of it being the first offense in both instances, a nominal fine of $2.50 was imposed in each case.

It has been noted that the worms which created so much havoc among fruit trees last year have been almost as numerous in this county this season, but for some reason they did but little damage. Just at the time when it was anticipated that the greatest annoyance and injury would occur, the pest seemed to be dying off from some unaccountable cause. Close investigation has shown, however, the reason for this. A small white insect which gathers on the trees in bunches has proved a deadly enemy to the worm, and on examination of the heads of the dead and dying of the latter will reveal a white speck, about one-fourth the size of an ordinary pinhead. This is the insect referred to, which bores its way into the head of the worm, causing it to swell up and die. Whether or not the newswoman will prove an enemy to the fruit trees has not yet been developed.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

LIZBIE BOYD DIES UNDER SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES. WAS IT FOUL PLAY OR ALCOHOLISM?

Last evening, shortly before 7 o'clock, a girl known as Lizzie Boyd, came to her death in such a manner as to make the occurrence one of peculiar interest, shrouded, as it is at present, in mystery. The deceased had, during the seven years since the death of her widowed mother, been living with Mr. Chadd, the green grocer, who furnished her employment in his store. She was about 20 years of age, and until a few months ago bore a good character. Some time in 1908 she made the acquaintance of George Thurgood, a butcher, who kept a shop near Chadd's store. At this time she conducted according to Mr. Chadd's statement, was such that he considered she was becoming too friendly with Thurgood, so he warned her to be more steady and careful. Thurgood continued paying his attention to the girl, and as Chadd believed it was for no good purpose, the latter frequently protested with her, and on several occasions they quarreled.

Our readers will remember that, in April last, the News gave an account of Miss Boyd being locked up as a prisoner in Thurgood's house for several hours, and being beaten by Mrs. Thurgood, for which the latter was held to answer in the police court. Since that time it is said that the girl has several times been abused by Mrs. Thurgood, and at her instance was arrested and placed under bonds as a witness against Mr. Thurgood on a pretended charge of bigamy. The result of the affair at Mrs. Thurgood's house was that Mr. Chadd told the girl to leave his place, as she was becoming the talk of the town, and from that time little was heard of her until her death last evening.

This morning a jury was summoned by Coroner Taylor to investigate the cause of death. Messrs. George P. Brooks, William M. Clark and A. C. Brien being chosen to act in that capacity. A number of witnesses were called, among them being Michael Chadd, Dr. J. M. Benedict, Wm. Stewart, Mr. Lulu Stewart, Elliott R. Burnett and Alvin Howard. These were examined this morning, but the information elicited not being satisfactory to the jury, an adjournment was taken until 6:30 o'clock this evening, when other witnesses will be called to see if any further light can be thrown on the affair.

From the evidence adduced at the inquest this morning it was learned that after leaving Mr. Chadd's, Miss Boyd went to live with Mrs. Decker, on the State Road, near the City Hall. Here she remained a few weeks, and on Tuesday, April 27th, moved to the Colorado House, kept by Mrs. Graves. The man Howard, with whom her relations have been quite intimate of late, moved her goods from place to place. This man testified to-day that he thought considerable of the girl and at one time had an idea of marrying her. That he had her entire confidence is shown by her going to him and remaining with him during the sickness which preceded her death.

On several occasions Howard visited Miss Boyd at Mrs. Decker's and at the Colorado House, and sometimes took meals with her. He also furnished her with money. On Monday, it being a holiday, she got a buggy and took Mr. Chadd out for a drive. They were out about four hours, and during that time they called at three places, at each of which both took a drink of brandy. The evening Howard saw her and says she was somewhat under the influence of liquor, as she had been on several occasions before. Tuesday evening she was seen in conversation with Mrs. Thurgood and a man who up to the present has not been found. Next morning (Wednesday), about nine o'clock, she went to Sprague & Burnett's stable, on Second South Street, between West Temple and First West, and asked for Howard. He says that she wanted a horse and buggy to go on a visit to her aunt, who lives at Sandy, 15 miles south. He told her he did not think she could have one, but suggested that she come later in the day. About 1 or 2 o'clock she again came, and Mr. Sprague told her Howard was not there. Just then, however, she saw him coming around the corner of a shed, and went to him. This time she appeared to have been drinking.

At this visit, Miss Boyd told Howard that she was sick, and requested permission to rest in one of the garages, which was granted, and she was given a drink of water. At her request Howard obtained a quart of milk, which he drank during the afternoon. He also brought some lunch from Mrs. Sprague's, across the street, and continued in attendance upon the girl until her death on Thursday evening. During the afternoon of Wednesday there was no improvement in her condition, and she was permitted to lie down with her on some blankets belonging to some of the stable employees. Howard spent his time between his work at the stable and attending the sick girl. About 11 p. m. Mrs. Sprague said she would have her come to bed to prevent this, and Howard removed her from the shed out into the orchard at the back. He says he started with the intention of taking her to Chadd's, but was unable to get there, and was prevented from sending for a doctor by the girl, who said she would be better shortly, and did not want anyone called as it would create a talk.

She remained in the orchard until next morning, and a neighborly neighbor, who happened to be in the neighborhood, called on her and found her dead. Among other things she said that her sickness was not her fault, and declared that Thurgood had betrayed her. She said she had been out with some deputies the evening before, but did not say who they were, or for what purpose they were together.

Howard applied to Mr. Burnett for advice as to what course to pursue, and the result was that Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, a young couple who keep a lodging house at 176 W. Second South Street, agreed to give her a room in their house. Mrs. Stewart was not willing at first, but owing to the girl's distressed condition finally consented, and provided her a bed.

Miss Boyd was lifted into a carriage and taken to Mrs. Stewart's about 6 a. m. As she continued to grow worse, at 2 p. m. Howard called in Dr. Nesbitt, who pronounced it a case of bilious fever, and prescribed a preparation of 30 gr. calomel and 10 gr. jalap, in two powders, and 25 gr. each of opium, castor oil and sugar, and a small amount of sugar and water, and enough water to make the whole four ounces. One powder was mixed with sugar and given the patient, who blew out of it off her tongue. A dose of the liquid was also forced down her throat. From this time she began to rave and cry rapidly worse. At Howard's request, Mrs. Stewart and another lady gave her a bath and changed her clothing. She was attended with blood; the change of clothing was brought by Howard from Miss Boyd's room. About 6 o'clock her mouth filled up with phlegm, which was wiped off. She had also vomited a little during the sickness.

Mrs. Stewart saw that the girl was dying and at 6:30 p. m. telephoned for Dr. Benedict, who came immediately. Just as he arrived at the gate, however, he found the girl dead. At the inquest the doctor could not suggest any satisfactory theory of the cause of death. There were no evidences of poisoning, except perhaps, the rapid discoloration, which was easily otherwise accounted for this warm weather. Nor was there anything to indicate that an abortion had been attempted, nor any marks of violence on her body. She had with her a bottle in which was a small quantity of gin. The doctor thought that possibly it was a case of acute alcoholism, but could not state positively.

The body of the deceased was taken to the office of undertaker Jos. Wm. Taylor, where the inquest was held. A brother, sister and brother-in-law of Miss Boyd's reside at Brigham, and were telephoned to last night. One of her sisters, Katie, died a couple of years ago, it was supposed from accidental poisoning, though the truth was never definitely ascertained. Lizzie Boyd told Howard, before her death, that she had a handkerchief containing some articles and papers at the place where she obtained the liquor, but it has not been found, as she had forgotten the name of the parties and did not know the number of the street. Whether or not any further can be learned by the coroner's jury will be developed this evening. It is apparent that some of the witnesses know more of the case than they feel willing to make public.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

HENRY, SUMMIT CO., June 2, 1909.

Editor Desert News:

A sad accident occurred here on Monday last, which resulted in the death of the youngest child of Brother Thomas Harris, (the mother has been dead a number of years). The child was not living with his father, having been reared by Sister Francis until her demise, which occurred a little more than a year ago, when her sister, Mary Ann Beard, assumed charge of him. He had reached the age of four years. On the day mentioned he was walking near the edge of a cellar that was about nine or ten feet, as the cellar is on the edge of an elevated site where the houses are built level with the surface of the high ground. It is thought he must have been walking backwards and forgotten about the bank being so deep and struck on his head and shoulders. Mr. Kohler, of Morgan, was sent for and did all he could medically, and it was thought the child was recovering, being sent up to the house, but he died this morning. Brother Harris has the sympathy of a great number of friends and relatives, as he has a large family of small children when this same child was born, and although not having the immediate care of him he still feels the loss severely.

The health of the people is generally good. The crops are looking moderately well for this region and promise to be fruitful.

Both were highly respected and loved for their integrity to the Gospel, which they embraced in foreign lands. The former leaves a wife and one child; the latter, a husband and five children.

THE FISHERY TROUBLE.

There is trouble brewing between the United States and Canada over the seizure of a Maine Schooner and her crew of fishermen, on a charge of fishing in Canadian waters for the purpose of procuring fish bait, and there is strong talk of war. Gen. Blaine, of Maine, has already expressed a desire to arm himself with a frozen codfish, and has said that he would die in the last ditch. The American fishermen are evidently in the right. The ancient document upon which we live, guaranteeing "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," means, it means any people and on that basis we have the privilege of procuring fish bait wherever they please. When our people are prohibited from doing so, a baking powder can full of anileworms, for bait, our boasted liberties are no good. As an American citizen, I am restricted in his liberties in regard to fishing, he is ruled down under the more generosity than to arrest our people for digging fish bait, when we send them thousands of our most successful and wealthy defaulting bank cashiers. Every default that we send them is more than the Dominion that all fish bait we ever draw from them. There should be a treaty of exchange, providing that each default that Canada receives, shall be an equivalent for so much fish bait. This country is willing enough to exchange defaulters for fish bait, and why should not Canada meet us half way? It is a terrible thing, if it must come, let Maine arm herself with fish bait from Canada, and let the world know that she will not be outwitted by the "angleworms" of death, particularly anileworms. —Peck's Sun.
