

GREAT JOHN L. IS UP ON BASEBALL

Once World's Champion Would Have Made Fine Player.

HE PLAYED ON THE COMMON.

Sam Crane Tells an Interesting Story About Big Fellow and How He Started.

John L. Sullivan, the world's greatest fighter, would have made a star baseball player had his legs been thrown on the green diamond instead of in the squared circle.

The "Big Fellow," as Boston still delights to call the champion of champions, might not have gained that worldwide celebrity as a ball player that he has as a pugilist, nor would he have accumulated the stacks of coin that have found their easy way into his brawny palms and out again easier, but he would surely have made his mark as an exponent of our national game.

Sam Crane had this to say about John L. "It was my good fortune to be associated with John when we both were young, ambitious amateurs in Boston, and I know from personal experience whereof I speak. I was playing with the Explorers of Boston, a crack junior organization, who, by the way, beat the Flyaways of New York for the junior championship of the United States on August 1, 1900, at the famous grounds in Boston in 1902.

"John L. was a member of an amateur team in Roxbury, a suburb of Boston, at the time, and we all played on our match games on Boston Common and also did much of our practice on those historic old grounds. John L. was one of the best players on his team and was ambitious to get into the big league. His good work soon became known and he was being asked to join the team that had among its members John Morrill, Chub Sullivan, Lew Brown, Curry Foley, Al McKinnon and Dennis Sullivan, all of whom became famous professionals in later years.

STARTING IN AS BOXER.

"John L. was about that time just becoming known as a boxer. He was known as the 'Highland Boy' named from the district in Boston where he was born. He learned boxing from the local boxer, reputedly everyone he met, in fact, and he soon got the reputation of being a pugilist. He was a hard puncher. The man with the wallop.

"Highland Boy soon became his title and he was taken up by Father Sheppard, who was then a new arrival from England. John L. at that time, even among his friends, was thought to be a puncher and simple, with no idea of science, and that belief was fortified when he boxed two bouts with Champion Joe Goss, at the latter's benefit in Music Hall, Boston. Joe was getting old and state at the time, and the husky John L. having little idea of the wonderful hitting powers behind those enormous shoulders of his, staggered old Joe in a way that was shameful. The 'big fellow' was merely taping at that, but the immense crowd thought he was trying to pull a fast one on the champion for the purpose of 'getting a rep.' The afterward most popular of the crowd, the 'big fellow' was hit, and he was the most surprised person in the big hall at the feeling against him in his own town.

WALLOPED JOE GOSS.

"Nevertheless, John L. was allowed to go on against Goss in the wind-up, and his punching appeared to be harder than in his first bout. Father Sheppard, who was then a new arrival from England, took the fight and the crowd was very 'hot' at the 'native son' until he came to the front of the stage and made a personal explanation.

"I was only taping my old friend Goss. I wouldn't hurt him. I was only trying to guess I don't know my own strength. I was hitting as light as I possibly could," said the 'big fellow'.

"Then it dawned on the sporting public of the Hub that they had a pugilist who had been in their midst, and the 'Highland Strong Boy's' fortune was made and pugilistic history such as this country has had never dreamed of was on the way for twenty years to come.

WAS A FAST RUNNER.

"Sullivan, although his present heavy build does not warrant it, was a wonderfully fast runner. He claims he could sprint a hundred yards in a shade better than 11 seconds, and I am sure that he could. He was a good thrower, a very fast fielder and a fair batter. If he ever hit on the ball fair and square he could send it a mile, and the outfielders were always motioned back when he came to bat. John L. would surely have become famous as a ball player had he stuck to it as a business.

"By taking up pugilism John L. did not lose his love for the national game, and he still dearly loves to 'fan.' He has the name of all the most prominent players for twenty years past on his tongue, and yet his record is too long to tell of his talk of Mike Kelly, Buck Ewing, Cap Anson, Fred Pfeffer, Roger Connor, Tim Lincecum and the other stars of the past, and he also has kept in close touch with the doing of the players of the present.

"You can't fool John L. Sullivan on baseball."

LEAGUE MEETINGS.

National and American Organizations' Sessions Come to an End.

New York, Feb. 27.—The meetings of the National and American Organizations held here this week were concluded in record time. It took just two days to finish the business which the league of the 1907 schedules and a few minor changes in the playing rules.

The American league at a brief session yesterday discussed President John Schreder's plan to have the league headquarters at the ball parks to announce decisions made by the umpire. It was decided to send the league headquarters to the clubs to do as they see fit.

The National Commission, comprising President George W. Davis, of the Cincinnati club, chairman, and President Ben Johnson, of the American league, and Harry C. Pulliam, of the National league, will meet today at the office of the National league. The commission will pick up and settle the odds and ends of the winter business.

One deal for a player went through yesterday when the Cleveland club announced the sale of Catcher Buslow to the St. Louis club for $1000.

It developed that negotiations are on foot for the transfer of Catcher Mike Grady from the St. Louis team to the Giants, but the deal is not yet made. In the matter considered exorbitant and the deal may fall.

There was also some talk between the management of the St. Louis and New York teams regarding an exchange of players. St. Louis wants Yegor, the utility infielder of the New York team, but when New York demanded $100,000 for him, the deal was dropped. St. Louis was willing to hand over Albert Jacobson, the left-handed pitcher, for Yegor, but New York declined the offer.

the fifth floor. Brubaker weighs 200 pounds, and six firemen lowered him with ropes around his body from the window. He was revived.

Mrs. Phoebe King, a stenographer, was also taken out unconscious. Had the fire occurred at any other time than the noon hour, hundreds would have been caught in their rooms and doubtless more deaths would have resulted.

Following the principal losses by the fire:

M. L. Germain, owner of the building; the Fair Novelty store; Morley & Stephens, furnishings; Morley's billiard parlors; Don Jerrus, liquor store; the railroad offices of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy. There are many other minor losses. Among those having offices in the building and who will suffer loss from smoke and water is United States Senator Frank P. Flint, whose law office is located there. The building was an old one, having been built 17 years ago. It is valued at $200,000 and is insured for $30,000.

The fire was in the exact center of the business section of the city and traffic of every sort was tied up for hours. Scott Edwards, a horseman, was injured about the head during the fire, and removed to the receiving hospital.

$5,000 REWARD.

For Arrest of William F. Walker, Absconding Cashier.

Fresno, Cal., Feb. 26.—A telegram has been received by Chief of Police Shaw from a detective office in New York, asking that William F. Walker be apprehended and offering $5,000 for his arrest and delivery to a Pinkerton agent. Walker is the bank cashier of New Britain, Conn., who is accused of embezzling. The request to the local authorities is evidently based on information gathered by the detectives and which leads them to believe that the man whom they are seeking is located somewhere near Fresno, stated to be within a circuit of 15 miles. That is all the information that is vouchsafed here.

Strength for Women

is almost surely due to some trouble of the womanly organs, which acts unfavorably upon your whole constitution. Women are naturally weaker than men, because of the special delicacy of the womanly organs.

Wine of Cardui's success, in benefiting and curing sick women, is due to the fact that it gives women strength where they most need it.

It is composed of certain vegetable extracts and ingredients, which act gently and sympathetically upon the female organs and constitution, regulating, strengthening and rebuilding. All these are facts.

Mrs. Annie Hutton, of Colby, Okla., writes: "I suffered greatly with female pains and weakness. I was so weak I could hardly stand. I had cramps, leg aches, trembling spells and could not sleep well. I began to take Cardui and in a week I was much better. I can have no idea how much good it has done me. I feel better all over and recommend Cardui to all my friends." Sold at all drug stores in $1.00 bottles.

Strength for Women

is almost surely due to some trouble of the womanly organs, which acts unfavorably upon your whole constitution. Women are naturally weaker than men, because of the special delicacy of the womanly organs.

Wine of Cardui's success, in benefiting and curing sick women, is due to the fact that it gives women strength where they most need it.

It is composed of certain vegetable extracts and ingredients, which act gently and sympathetically upon the female organs and constitution, regulating, strengthening and rebuilding. All these are facts.

Mrs. Annie Hutton, of Colby, Okla., writes: "I suffered greatly with female pains and weakness. I was so weak I could hardly stand. I had cramps, leg aches, trembling spells and could not sleep well. I began to take Cardui and in a week I was much better. I can have no idea how much good it has done me. I feel better all over and recommend Cardui to all my friends." Sold at all drug stores in $1.00 bottles.
