Mr. Greathead's Cure for Diptheria-The now famous Mr. Greathead has been interviewed by a reporter of the Melbourne Telegraph, on the subject of his cure for diptheria, and the following is the statement made by him:
"The acid is to be used in its full strength, not diluted. [That is, it should be pure when put into the water.] I am sure that the stoppage in the throat which constitutes diptheria is not a fungus but a mass of insects. These insects emit a matter which creates a kind of film, and as they grow the film is swelled out until there is no breathing room in the would not remove it. I,in the case of one patient, obtained a portion of the matter out of the throat, and putting it under a powerful glass I discovered it to be a moving mass. I dropped some of the acid upon it, and immediately it changed color, and presented altogether a different aspect. I commenced my experi-ments about eighteen months ago, if experiments they may be termed, for my discovery was pure-ly accidental. I discovered the cure thus: I was living at Seymour, or rather a few miles from Seymour, and one of my sens was taken bad with deptheria. There was no doctor at hand. I was at the time taking sulphuric acid as a moo bw medicine for purifying the blood. I had found the acid efficacious in clearing the phlegm from my throat, and when my child was choking from diptheria I used it as a chance resource. I only gave him one dose, and in a few seconds he said, 'Ma, I can breathe as well as ever I did!' Several children as ever I did!' Several children have since been cured with one drink. Two of my boys were very bad, were in a state of strangula-tion, were nearly dying in fact, and one dose, as I have mentioned, cured them. I have never had to give more than one drink. I have cured about a dozen cases that were really bad, and am so sure of my cure that I would risk my life on it. Whatever the doctors may say, I am convinced that diptheria is an accumulation of insects, and not a vegetable growth, and I stake my life upon it, that four drops of the strongest sulphuric acid in a glass of water is a safe cure."—New Zealand Mail. about a dozen cases that were real-Zealand Mail.

Montana Exploring Expedition. The following is Secretary Del ano's letter referring to the Explor-ing Expedition into Eastern Montana, as it appears in the Helena Herald: "WASHINGTON, March 13th, 1874. "Gov. B. F. Potts,

Virginia City, M. T. "Sir—Referring to the so-called exploring expedition, which was the subject of the department's telegrams of the 10th and 13th inst. I have to say that its departure from Bozeman is much to be regretted, and stringent measures would have been adopted to prevent it had the facts been sooner known here. Although the promise made to the military authorities that the expedition would not go upon Indian reservations may not be violated, there is, neverthe-less, grave apprehension that the movement of such a formidable organization through the region of country more or less traversed by bands of Indians will provoke a collision that may culminate in a general Indian war. You are earnestly requested to use every precau-tion to avert a disaster which would render abortive the efforts now being made with every prospect of success, not only for a continuance of the friendly relations now exist-ing with the reservation Indians, but for the purpose of invoking their assistance and influence in promoting a better feeling among the more intractable Sloux. The department has never entertained a doubt of the loyalty of the Crows, and I will thank you to inform them that their friendship to the them that their friendship to the whites is duly appreciated, and that it is hoped no events will occur to render their proffered services necessary. If, however, circumstances should arise to require them, they may be made available. "Very respectfully Your obedient, C. Delano."
