A Modjeska Sensation.

DENVER, 17.—A highly sensational report is in circulation to-day that an attempt was made to poison Modjeska at the Opera House last night. It now transpires that it was caused by a blunder of the property man at the theatre. When Barrett was here some months ago, a preparation of phosphorus was used to give the face of the Ghost in the play of Hamlet a luminous appearance. Last night in the play of Juliet the property man gave Modjeska this phial in mistake for one containing the sleeping potion. As soon as the cork was removed, the liquid ignited, and this of course prevented serious results. No one for a moment suspected that it was anything more than a blunder until the matter was reported to Modjeska's husband, Count Bozenta, who seemed very incredulous, and stated that several attempts had been made upon her life.

Suits Against the W. U. T.

NEW YORK, 18.—A motion was made before Judge Freedman to day in special term of the Supreme Court, to vacate the injunction obtained by Rufus Hatch and Wm. S. Williams last December against the Western Union Telegraph Company, restraining the latter from paying dividends upon $15,529,590 of stock alleged to be illegal. Wager Swayne, on behalf of the company, said an appeal had been taken from the injunction order, and that the injunction should be vacated upon the company's giving sufficient bonds to cover any losses that might arise from the payment of the dividends. On the other hand it was claimed that the Superior Court could not entertain a motion of this kind, which ought more properly to come before the Court of Appeals, before which proceedings in the case are now pending.

Snubbing the Pope.

CHICAGO, 18.—The mass meeting called for the purpose of rebuking the Pope for interference in political affairs in Ireland was well attended, 2,000 pressed into West Twelfth Street Turner Hall. A series of resolutions were adopted, which, while directed at His Highness, did not use his name; but some of the speakers did rather freely. The resolutions after recounting what Parnell had done for Ireland declared that the best answer to his traducers, in whatever quarter, would be found in swelling the funds to release his estate from debt.

Guilty of Libel.

NEW YORK, 18.—In the libel suit of August Belmont against John Devoy, editor of the Irish Nation, who charged Belmont with misappropriating funds of the Irish Society, a verdict of guilty was returned by the jury, with recommendation to mercy.

An Embezzling Book-keeper.

BOSTON, 18.—Arthur H. Blaney, cashier and head book-keeper of the Massachusetts Loan & Trust Company, confesses to embezzling $44,000 of the company's funds. The first intimation of anything wrong was Monday afternoon last week, when it was found Blaney was short in his cash accounts. His attention was called to the discrepancy, when he said he had taken it for a temporary use and would return it next morning. Tuesday he did so. On being questioned about other possible discrepancies, he assured the president of the company that his deficit did not exceed $700. It was deemed best to suspend Blaney. Experts soon discovered the defalcations. His mode of covering up the discrepancies was when a customer drew $500 to charge him as having received $1,000 or more and pocket the difference.

A Wife-Killer.

CHICAGO, 18.—This afternoon, Adolph Ehrke, bricklayer, fired two bullets into his wife's head and then blew out his own brains, dying instantly. It is thought the woman cannot recover. The deed was done because the woman on Saturday applied for a divorce.

Storms and Floods.

KANSAS CITY, 18.—The river was 20 feet and 6 inches above low water at midnight. A large portion of the bottom lands is overflowed, and serious damage done, which will be very greatly increased by the further rise in June. This rise is about due. If it comes now with the present stage of water, the loss will be very great. The water now encroaches upon Harlem, opposite the city.

Pittsburg, 18.—Shortly after 7 o'clock this evening, this section was visited by one of the heaviest rain and hail storms ever known in this city. The hail came down as large as eggs, and rain fell in torrents. No damage more severe than breaking skylights is reported. However, outside the city the storm took the nature of a cyclone. Specials to the Dispatch and Commercial Gazette state that through Washington and other southwestern counties houses and barns were unroofed, trees uprooted and cattle killed. Damages to railroads from washouts and landslides and to the telegraph wires are great, but so far no lives are lost. The storm did not last an hour. It came from the southwest. Specials say the track of the cyclone was from 100 to 400 feet wide and in many places everything was swept as if by a broom.

Cleveland, 18.—A severe storm visited Millersburg this afternoon, and tore out the corner of the court house, leaving the edifice unsafe. It tore up several trees, unroofed several houses and the accompanying hail did great damage to crops in that section.

Wheeling, W. Va., 18.—This evening about 6 o'clock a cyclone struck Steubenville, Ohio, doing damage to property in the northern part of the city to the amount of $150,000. In the path of the cyclone as it passed through the city trees were uprooted, and the scene presented this evening is one of great destruction. Eye witnesses state that when the cyclone reached the bank of the river it plunged into the water, lifting it up about 100 feet.

St. Louis, 18.—The river gauge to night marked 31 feet 11 inches, which is 23 inches above the danger line. Nearly the entire surface of the levee along the river front is submerged. Steamers find it difficult to load and discharge cargoes. All the cellars of houses along the wharf are filled with water, but so far no property has been seriously harmed. It is expected the rise will reach 35 feet at this point, which is higher than for several years.

Cincinnati, 18.—The Bellevue House, a well-known hill-top resort at the head of Elm Street, is on fire since midnight, and still burning at 1.30 a.m. The house was valued at $30,000.

Kansas City, 18.—River to-night 22 feet, rising. The village of Harlem, opposite here, is deserted. So far as known, little damage is done as yet from water in the river, although there is loss in places on account of freshets and heavy rains. Reports do not indicate any alarming rise as yet in the river above this point. There were two deaths by drowning here to-day, a colored girl and boy.

Times' Princeton, Mo.: While a public sale was in progress at the residence of R. S. Light, near Revenna, on Saturday, a heavy thunder storm came up. About 30 men took refuge in a large barn. The building was struck by lightning, and John Bowers, James Berry and George Wyatt, respected citizens, killed, and two or three others injured.

Seneca, Ks., 18.—News regarding the storm of Saturday night comes in to-day. All the big streams in the county have overflowed. There is scarcely a bridge but what is damaged or carried away. At Bakerford, Thos. Akins and family attempted to leave their home, which was threatened with destruction by water, and take Mr. Bararie and wife and children. There were eight in the wagon, which was caught in the current of Turkey Creek, upset, and seven of the party drowned, Mrs. Bararie alone escaping. She lodged in a tree, but was rescued 14 hours afterwards. Her baby was washed from her arms and drowned. Only one of the other bodies is yet found. At Cincinnati, 12 miles north, one farmer lost 100 hogs.

FOREIGN.

THE SUNDERLAND HORROR.

More Particulars of the Holocaust.

LONDON, 18.—The terrible calamity of Saturday evening is the subject of universal unhappy comment. The hall has been surrounded by distressed and excited crowds. The stairway from the gallery at the top landing, at which occurred the pressure which led to the accident, is from five to six feet wide, and the gallery door through which the children were allowed to pass is so narrow that they were obliged to pass one at a time, which circumstance is regarded as the direct cause of the calamity. It was fastened with a bolt, which was lodged in a hole of the floor, thus narrowing the passage way for the purpose of ticket taking when the audience was entering the hall. The janitor says the scene behind the gallery door was fearful. Some children were fixed upright in the heap and actually gasping for breath, so great was the pressure of the crowd upon them. The majority of the children in the hall were under 12 years of age. When the disaster happened, the janitor and wife and several hastily summoned bystanders went to work immediately to give the sufferers relief. They first sent out of the building by other exits the little ones still in the hall, by this way avoiding fears of another crush. Those who went to the rescue of the sufferers found the work of removing the heap of bruised, crushed and suffocated bodies, no easy task. Two hundred children were rescued from the pile who were partially uninjured; many others were found in an unconscious condition, but of these a number were restored at once to their homes. Those who were dead with a number whose wounds are regarded as fatal, were laid out in the hall, where the local doctors in attendance used every effort to restore those in whom a spark of life could be detected. One eyewitness stated he saw lying on the flagstones, a short distance from the bottom of the stairs, the dead bodies of seven children. Many of them who came to assist in removing the dead and rescuing the living were utterly overcome by the distressing sight of so many dead and dying children. A number of deaths have occurred since the first report, and the total list is now placed at 186. One of the persons who responded quickly to the call for help says that many who volunteered to assist in rescuing the children, sickened at the spectacle, and fled horrified from the distressing scene. The rescuers efforts were directed towards reaching the children who were apparently alive. So tightly were the victims jammed together that it was regarded dangerous to drag them out of the helpless mass, lest the effort would result in pulling off the limbs of the living children as well as mutilating the dead. They therefore proceeded steadily and systematically to lift off the topmost. A few of those beneath had survived, and their moaning and low cries of pain could be distinctly heard amid the excitement and cries of bereaved parents and friends who were thronging the adjacent streets. The disaster was referred to in all the churches at Sunderland yesterday, and by many preachers in London, prayers were offered for the parents and friends of the victims.

The staircase from the gallery was a winding one. Both audience and officials in the hall at the time of the disaster were unaware for some time of the terrible tragedy being enacted at the door. They were not informed till Graham, the hall keeper, who strolling near by the scene of the calamity, was attracted by the groans and gave the alarm. Mr. Fay, who gave the entertainment, was busy packing up his apparatus to depart, when a man rushed up to him and informed him of the disaster, and he immediately fell down speechless in a fit. Some of the families whose homes were so suddenly darkened, lost over three children. One man and wife pushed their way into the hall in which lay the bodies of the victims, and without betraying any emotion began to scan the faces of the dead. Recognizing the face of one of his children the father, pointing with his finger, exclaimed, "That's one," passing on again he recognized another, and then a third; staggering in a fit of agony he cried, "My God! all my family gone!" and overwhelmed with grief sank on the floor. In some homes there are five children dead. Queen Victoria sent a telegram to the Mayor of Sunderland expressing her grief at the disaster. Children of various Sunday schools sent telegrams of sympathy. The flags are at half-mast. One Sunday school loses thirty scholars by the catastrophe. Many survivors had their arms broken in the crush; others are suffering from broken ribs or rupture of internal organs. Graham, hall-keeper, says children not twenty yards from the door came pressing forward, unaware of the tragedy, thus making matters ten times worse than they really were. The scene inside the hall, during the identification of the victims, baffles description; it was painful in the extreme. The faces of the dead children in almost every case were black and swollen from suffocation, of which many died. Many lips were cracked and bleeding. Parents rushing wildly about would fall upon the bodies of their dead children with loud wailing and weeping, clasp the unconscious forms in their arms, vainly endeavoring to note any sign of life. Many poor mother swooned away at the first sight of the dead, while others were wild, almost violent in their hysterical grief. The act of removing the dead from the hall yesterday, was the occasion for a renewal of the lamentations. In the confusion, many parents rushed through the police cordon appointed for the preservation of order, and there was a scene of great confusion. One of the witnesses of the calamity stated to-day that for the first five minutes there was a great lack of assistance, and from this cause alone there were certainly 100 lives lost. The weather was warm, and the passage way very close, so that in a short time after the catastrophe a horrible sickening stench came from the main outlet of the hall.

Latest reports figure up 183 dead. The greatest fear is felt that the number may yet be shown to have reached 200. The eagerness of the children to depart from the hall was caused by their desire to receive the prizes promised them. Graham throws the blame of the calamity upon a man connected with the entertainment, who it appears fastened the door half open in order that the prizes might be given the children one at a time while leaving the hall. One sad incident was witnessed in the vicinity of the hall. A lad was sitting on the railing near Murton street crying. A passer-by inquired the cause of his grief. "Why, sir," said he, "I was in the place there, and when I was coming out a boy that was dying bit my hands; and that's the one," he added, pointing to the corpse of a child lying near by.

The number of deaths from the Sunderland calamity has reached 197.

A BATCH OF FALSEHOODS ABOUT THE MORMONS.

THE SALT LAKE POSTMASTER INTERVIEWED.

FOUL AND INFAMOUS SLANDER.

A correspondent of the St. Louis Republican says: I called upon several Gentiles to obtain their views, among them being John T. Lynch, Postmaster of Salt Lake, Mr. Lynch said:

"It is the greatest evil that was ever inflicted on any people. Holding the public position that I do, I know whereof I speak, and there must be legislation to stop it."

"What kind of legislation would you have?"

"Let there be a commission appointed for this Territory, with power to enforce the laws, and let them punish all who are guilty of bigamy, regardless of place or power."

"What would you do with those already the possessor of more than one wife, and how about their children?"

"I will tell you. The majority of those having a plurality of wives are middle aged or past the meridian of life. Give them to understand that they must stop where they are; that the penalty of the law will be enforced to its fullest extent should they marry again, and in a few years time will have effaced all their crime. With their children I would have them educated, compel them to go to public schools where something besides Mormonism is taught, and in a few months they could be taught to see the errors committed by their ancestors, and they would not care to carry on the so called religion."

What effect does it have on the morals of the community?"

"The worst, the very worst that could be imagined. It is a well-known fact that what the young men of Mormon parents see at home educates them to a life of licentiousness, I know from unimpeachable testimony that the majority of the young men who visit the houses of ill-fame in the city are of Mormon parentage."

"How about Mormon girls?"

"Let me relate you a little incident. A few days ago I witnessed a curious transaction, in which the leader of the demi-monde of the city was one of the parties to the sale of some land. Before the sale was consummated a discussion ensued concerning the Mormon question. The woman was asked how many girls of that faith were in her establishment. She replied that there were 19 inmates, but of these only six were Mormons; but in explaining this she said if she were to admit all those of the Mormon religion that applied, she would have no need for any others. The young men and girls of this faith are the ones to save. Let us educate them, and let those who have already committed crime go, but put such restrictions on them that they can not marry again, and time will obliterate all these infamous marriages."

"Are the Mormon women generally true to their marriage vows?"

"Yes, sir, I think they are; they are taught to obey their husbands; it is a part of their religion and I don't remember of ever hearing of a married woman among them proving untrue. As I said before it is the young girls that are being ruined, and they are the ones that should be saved."

"The Mormons say there were no brothels in Salt Lake City before the advent of the Gentiles. How do you account for that?"

"This was very likely the case, for the construction of Mormon society obviates the demand for any such establishments."

George C. Bates, an attorney, tells the following concerning a trip through the territory:

"In January 1878, I visited the southern part of the territory on business, and, stopping at a house to dine I saw five wives of an old bishop seated at the table, and in and around the ranch were some thirty-six large boys and girls from 10 to 16 years of age, and I heard that all these young Mormons slept in the same room during the winter, and in the hot weather in summer they slept in the straw in the stable; all living in promiscuous concubinage. I also know that several of these young girls were bearing children of their brothers' cousins and uncles. This was a matter of daily occurrence, the religious teachings to the females being that every woman's future happiness was enhanced by the number of children she bore, no matter who might be its father."

A thousand interviews and experiences like the above can be obtained from trustworthy citizens. I have talked with a large number, and they are all of the same opinion. No Gentile was heard to express the opinion that he wanted the Mormons to abandon that, he desired to interfere in any way with their religious proceedings provided they dropped the polygamy part of it. My observations lead me to believe that the younger portion of the community, the unmarried girls, are leading lives of shame; while the majority of them are not public prostitutes, they are made the slaves of a favored few; the same cast of countenance is to be found in nearly every face you may look at, and it is not that of a virtuous, innocent girl.

A barkeeper who lives at St. Claire, got cut on the head with a chair, the cut was a bad one, and he was a glad one, St. Jacobs Oil cured it right there.
