AMONG THE LADIES

The brilliant, fascinating tints of Complexion for which ladies strive are chiefly artificial, and all who will take the trouble may secure them. These roseate, bewitching hues follow the use of Hagan's Magnolia Balm—a delicate, harmless and always reliable article. Sold by all druggists.

The Magnolia Balm conceals every blemish, removes Sallowness, Tan, Redness, Eruptions, all evidences of excitement and every imperfection.

Its effects are immediate and so natural that no human being can detect its application.

The Manitoba Indians.

NEW YORK, 1.—A World's Ottawa special gives an intelligent and concise account of the situation among the Manitoba Indians and of the movement for the suppression of the threatened revolt. From one end of the country to the other they are suffering from the buffalo famine, and the region is so vast, and generally so difficult of access that it is impossible for the government to meet the demand for provisions. Great quantities of food have been distributed by Lieutenant-Governor Laird at Battle Fort, and mounted police have left nothing undone to relieve the wants of the sufferers. The disaffection of the tribes on account of the disappearance of buffalo and the innovation of Sioux and other Indians, is wide spread. How far westward and northward it has penetrated, it is impossible to say. Battle Fort lies 300 miles north of Big Bear's territory, yet bad feeling is as rife there as in his own camp, and it is believed that even the Indians in Northern Athabaska district have been tampered with. There are large numbers of Indians in the northwest, estimated at 40,000, and, across the Rocky Mountains, in British Columbia, there are 36,000 more. To this add the fugitive Sioux and Nez Perces bands and the Indian population between Lake Manitoba and the Pacific Ocean, will not fall far short of 90,000.

Arms and equipments for the new force Col. Smith will organize, were dispatched from Battle Fort some time ago, and stores are being forwarded from Winnipeg. The six companies will muster 450 rank and file, which, with the mounted police, will bring an available fighting force at the disposal of the government up to 900 men. In case the outbreaks should prove serious, our government will organize an expedition similar to the Canadian contingent, which accompanied Wolseley and the Imperial troops to Fort Garry in 1870.

Decrease in Shipping Business.

The dullness in California trade via Cape Horn, is clearly reflected by the tonnage movement during the past month, which amounts to two vessels from this port and one from Philadelphia, together registered 6,153 tons, against four vessels of 5,856 tons in the corresponding month last year. The quietness is more apparent when it is remembered that only one line at this port has a vessel on berth, all other lines being unable to take a vessel at the rate asked. The total movement thus far this year, amounts to 38 vessels, registering 64,133 tons, against 45 vessels of 75,281 tons last year. Decrease, eight vessels, or 11,147 registered tons.

Big Races.

QUINCY, Ills., 1.—It having been decided that Rarus will not be here next week, the Quincy Fair Association has declared the race off, and substituted for it a free-for-all purse of $12,000, the entries for which are to close on Saturday night next. Hopeful, Sleepy Tom, Mattie Hunter, Rowdy Boy and Lucy, and 75 other fast horses, will compete for the purses, amounting to $12,000.

The Chisholm Murderers.

SOOBA, Miss., 1.—The September term of the circuit court of Kemper County began at De Kalb, the county seat, to-day, Judge Hamm presiding. The State docket was set for to-morrow, when will commence the trial of the cases of the State vs. Henry J. Gully, Virgil Gully, Houston Gully and Slocum Gully, indicted for the murder of A. W. Chisholm, Miss Chisholm and J. F. Gilmore, on the 29th of April, 1879.

The prosecution will be conducted by District Attorney Thomas S. Ford, assisted by Stewart L. Woodford, of New York, ex-Attorney General Morris, of Vicksburg, and ex-Chancellor Ware, of Jackson, Mississippi. Over 500 persons, mostly white, are in attendance. While there is no excitement, great interest is taken in the trial.

W. H. Gully, one of the defendants, has died since he was indicted.

The Sprague Affair.

BOSTON, 1.—A dispatch to the Boston Herald from Providence denies that Mrs. Sprague left Newport in a steam yacht on Saturday, and adds, "The governor denies in toto that he left any watch over his wife, or that he intercepted any of her letters or messages."

It is further stated that Governor Sprague does not at present sue for a divorce, but will take immediate steps to regain possession of his daughters. Governor Sprague on Sunday sent the following letter to Mrs. Sprague's counsel:

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I.,
August 30th, 1879.

Gentlemen—Of course I have a natural desire to know of the present well-being and situation of my three children, who, without my knowledge or consent, were taken from my jurisdiction and control yesterday afternoon. My purpose is to contribute to their comfort as far as possible. The object of this note is to say that their wearing apparel and personal effects are ready to be forwarded to them in any way you, as counsel for Mrs. Sprague, will indicate. The brother of the little girls, William Sprague, is the bearer of this note. I am, etc.,

(Signed) WILLIAM SPRAGUE.

To Messrs. Hazard R. Thompson and Charles H. Parkhurst.

Deputy Marshal Killed.

WICHITA, Ks., 1.—Richard Stevenson, United States Deputy Marshal, was shot to death in Kingman County on Saturday, by a horse thief, who escaped to the Indian Territory. He had arrested the thief at Wellington, and was returning the prisoner and property to Kingman. Both men together with a "drummer" were in the carriage. In descending a sudden declivity the thief snatched Stevenson's revolver and shot him through the breast. He then disarmed the commercial traveler, mounted the best horse and fled. Stevenson is well known in the State. The family were formerly from Monmouth, Illinois. Two of his brothers met sudden deaths in this State.

Frivolous Requests.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., 1.—Letters have been received from Hanlan and Courtney relative to rowing a championship match for a purse of $5,000 here. Hanlan declines on account of the large field which a purse would attract, and Courtney because the championship is held in Australia, and because of the danger of foul in a large field. He would row Hanlan as an American representative, or row any man in the United States for that title.

Coast Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, 1.—D. W. Farquahaison, the candidate of the democrats and H. B's for mayor, having withdrawn from the contest, the committee to-day nominated Dr. W. N. Griswold to the vacancy.

Ground will be broken to-morrow on a railroad to connect Austin, Nevada, with the Central Pacific road, to be finished next February.

Charles De Young was admitted to bail to-day by Chief Justice Wallace in the sum of $25,000.

Woman's Dress a Badge of Inferiority.

As to the question of the sexes, I think that woman's love of dress is the stamp of her inferiority. It ends the discussion with me. I can't respect my sex as I do the other while we are such creatures of dress. Here a man and his wife are projecting a journey. The man is equipped in an hour, and his attention is free for the higher considerations of the occasion; but the woman must have a week for her preparations, and starts off fagged out with shopping and dress-making and packing. Go to Wilhelmj's concert. The gentlemen performers are not distinguished at all by their dress, unless it is by its simplicity. Wilhelmj's black coat is buttoned across his breast up to his collar, and his wristbands are quite inconspicuous. But the lady singer comes in dragging a peacock's tail unspread and tattooed from head to foot with colors and frills and embroidery. What is a wedding to a woman? It is a bride's satins and laces and jewels. The sentiment of the circumstances is all smothered in dress. She can can neither feel solemn nor gay—she is a spectacle of clothes. You bring me Scripture for her relief: "Can a maid forget her ornament or a bride her attire?" I don't say she can any more than a leopard can change his spots; I only say it is something which stamps her inferiority. If you quote Revelation, I will quote nature. According to nature man should be appareled in brighter colors and with more fanciful decorations than woman, and should think more of his appearance. See the peacock and gobbler and rooster, and the male bird generally. The lion cultivates a flowing mane, but the lioness wears her hair as meek as a Methodist. The human female seems to have lost her natural prestige, and is fain to make herself attractive in meretricious ways. Imagine a man compressing his ribs with stays or trameling his legs with skirts, let alone swathing them after the mummy fashion of to-day. Imagine him spending an hour every morning in fixing his hair for a day-long torment. He will have his dress subservient to health and comfort and freedom of breath and motion. You say he is in bondage to the changes of fashion as well as the women are. But he contrives to keep these conditions intact. His new styles are not allowed to intrench on his comfort and health and the highest interests of life. If he changes the cut of his hair, he still keeps the sweetness and unconsciousness of short locks; he does not let them grow inconveniently long, or canker his head with a frouzy chignon. If he changes the fashion of his coat, it is almost unnoticeable, and you may be sure it is at no sacrifice of ease. His pantaloons may be cut a little more bagging or a little more statuesque, but never with trails or any impediment to his natural gait. His hat is always the same serviceable sun-shade, and his cap the same protection from the weather, no matter what the details of style. Well, you say that the women dress to please the men, and if women are foolish, men make them so. My answer to that is, that men are as fond of pleasing women as women are of pleasing men, and more so; but they have wit enough to accomplish their object without the monstrous sacrifices women make. Whether any amount of education and opportunity will give women this will, or diminish the advantage man has gained, remains to be seen.—American Socialist.

The Mormon Battalion.

There are thousands of people here who are ignorant of the fact that during the progress of the Mexican war there was organized at Council Bluffs a battalion for service against Mexico, and that one of the most perilous marches ever made by men was by those of that battalion. General Sterling Price and Colonel Doniphan, of Missouri, were the chiefs of the expedition, and their line of march was from Independence to Santa Fe, and thence into the heart of Northern Mexico. The story of the march, as written by General P. St. George Cooke, reads like a romance, and revives the memories of the wonderful tales of the hardships, hazard and sufferings of Ponce de Leon and his enthusiastic Spanish followers, through the everglades of Florida: The conquest of New Mexico and the wide expanse of territory now known as Colorado, Utah, Nevada and Arizona, with their immense mineral treasures was the gleaming price to the nation by this heroism and devotion, yet many of the men in thirty three years of waiting have not yet received one cent of pay. "Uncle Billy" Garner, one of Pottawatomie County's honorable, upright public spirited citizens, served gallantly in that battalion and throughout the expedition. The nation obtained his services, but never has repaid them. Truly republics are ungrateful. To form some idea of the march, and comprehend it from the Missouri River to Santa Fe the vast expanse was a waste in countless places, arid, treeless and waterless. There was scant food for beasts, none for man, and the trail through a savage Indian country. The Mormon battalion that formed one detachment of this forlorn column was organized at Council Bluffs. The saints had made their escape from Nauvoo, and were destined for the far west, beyond the reach of further persecution. Very many were resting here and getting ready to move forward, when Captain James Allen, of the United States dragoons was ordered to this point from Fort Leavenworth to enlist a battalion for the Price expedition. The corps was organized July 16, 1846, and moved down the river. Capt. Allen, its commander, died at Fort Leavenworth, August 23, 1846, and Philip St. George Cooke, then a captain in the United States dragoons, was detailed for that service on October 13, 1846. After performing the arduous duties assigned them and already referred to, the battalion was mustered out at Los Angeles, California, in July, 1847, just one year from the date it was organized at Council Bluffs. Bugle.

No Evolution.

When we study this fossil man of the quaternary period, who must, of course, have stood comparatively near to our primitive ancestors in the order of descent, or rather of ascent, we always find a man, just such as men are now. As recently as 10 years ago, whenever a skull was found in a peat bog, or in pile dwellings, or in ancient caves, people fancied they saw in it a wonderful token of an inferior state, still quite undeveloped. They smelled out the very scent of the ape; only this has continually been more and more lost. The old troglodytes, pile-villagers, and bog-people, prove to be quite a respectable society. They have heads so large that many a living person would be only too happy to possess such. Our French neighbors, indeed, have warned us against inferring too much from these big heads. It may have been that their contents were not merely nerve substance, but that the ancient brains may have had more interstitial tissue than is now usual, and that, in spite of the size of the brain their nerve substance may have remained at a lower stage of development. This, however, is but the sort of familiar talk which is brought in as a kind of prop for weak minds. On the whole, we must really acknowledge that there is a complete absence of any fossil type of lower stage in the development of man. Nay, if we gather together the whole sum of the fossil men hitherto known, and put them parallel with those of the present time, we can decidedly pronounce that there are among living men a much greater number of individuals who show a relative inferior type than there are among the fossils known up to this time.—Virchow.
