Salt Lake City is made defendant in a suit filed in the district court today by Samuel E. Crager, doing business as the Crager Wire & Iron works, to recoved $843.60 claimed to be due the plaintiff for erecting a wire and iron fence around the city's new reservoir on Thirteenth East street.

Plaintiff alleges in his complaint that, on March 3, and April 30, 1901, he entered into a contract with the city. through its board of public works, to build the fence at a cost of $1.20 per linear foot, and that he proceeded with all due diligence to construct and did construct the fence according to the contract, excepting that a less amount of cement was used in setting the posts than was called for in the contract. In August, 1901, when he received notice of such deficiency he took steps to set posts in strict accordance with his contract but on August 22, the city en-gineer forbade him to continue said work and would not allow him to remove the fence,

He alleges that on October 14, 1901. he again attempted to repair the fault in the setting of the posts and the city engineer interfered with plaintiff's ac-tions and forbade him to continue said work. Mr. Crager contends that the by interfering with the correction of the defect in construction and not allowing him to repair the fence so as to comply with the contract, or remove same, has fully ratified and accepted the fence as constructed.

The fence vontains 703 linear feet which at a cost of $1.20 per foot makes the total amount asked for in the complaint, $843.60.
