ANTI-SMOOT RESOLUTION.

Utah Women Prevent Adoption of One at the Indianopolis Convention.

Private telegrams from Indianapolis, where the National Women's convention has been held this week, state that an attempt was made to pass a iron at him, are some of the charges made by Reuben Hoover against his wife, Euretta A. Hoover, who recently filed suit for divorce against him in the district court on the ground of failure to support. Hoover, who is 61 years of age, has filed his answer and cross-complaint in which he charges that ever since their marriage his wife has heen habitually ill tempered and cross-with the charges that wife has

LANNAN RESENTED IT.

Vigorously Denies Charge Made Against Him by Perry S. Heath.

There was a lively clash in the Tribune building a few days ago between the Hon. Perry S. Heath, proprietor of the Salt Lake Tribune, and Mr. P. H. Lannan, the former owner of the journal. It appears that Mr. Lannan, who is still the owner of the building and grounds occupied by the Tribune Publishing company was on one of his regular tours of inspection. In the performance of this important duty he met Mr. Heath. The greeting was not of a Damon and Pythias cordiality and during the course of strained relationship the gentleman from Indiana charged the gentleman from Utah with having inspired the article recently published in the Descret News about secret service agents being here to serve papers on him and their inability to locate him.

And here was where the trouble com-menced. Mr. Lamnan admitted having done several things in his life that he did not care to disclose to the secretary of the Republican national committee But here was a charge that he wanted to resent, and resent he did with all the force at his command. He told Mr. Heath who ever said that was a crawling, cowardly thing, a miserable, un-measured lia". Then there was quick music and a rush to arms, interference explanation and apology on the part of Mr. Heath. And thus the difficulty was smothered over. Meanwhile the high regard the combatants have for each other has not been increased.

been habitually ill-tempered and quarrelsome and has made it impossible for him to live with her.

In the month of April, it is alleged that she hit him a violent blow over the head with an iron meat broiler and then attempted to throw a flatiron at him. On another occasion he charges that she threatened to shoot him with a revolver and tried to aggravate him into making an attack upon her so as to have an excuse to shoot him. She has repeatedly interfered with his business and has said that she did not want a divorce from him unless she could get alimony. Hoover states that his wife is in better financial condition than he is, as she is engaged in a profitable roominghouse business in Murray and has money in the bank. He asks that his wife take nothing by her action and that he be granted a decree of divorce. FRAUD ALLEGED.

Max A. Jaensch Asks That Murray Justice Be Compelled to Certify.

A petition for a w rit of review wa filed in the district court today by Max A. good government, I believe, could not Without it we would have, survive. in time, only one great denominational school. It seems to me that the law contemplates that every child shall have an opportunity to acquire a thorough education within the confines of the state. It does not compel all children to receive their education these schoools, but it does contemplate that a great many will do so. Also, that every child shall get at least a district school education. He or she shall learn enough arithmetic to carry on the ordinary business of life, enough language to speak fairly well, read and write and some knowledge of the his-tory of our country and its geography."

PLEA FOR NATURE STUDY. The speaker made a strong plea for nature studies. He pointed to Prof. Rydalch of the University of Kansas, ho was brought up among the In dians, and therefore was constantly in touch with nature. Today he is perhaps the best zoologist in the United States.

President Kingsbury made a telling point of the fact that the university and the common schools are, or should be, one. Each helps the other, he con-tended, and any person who is disloya to one is disloyal to the entire public school system.

HIGHER MORALS.

He spoke of higher morals and culture studies in our educational insti-tutions, believing that the higher institutions should instill, or cultivate, student's taste for the artistic and the moral fields of life. If the university does this, he said, it must necessarily upilft the school system, and in order to do it, the institution must have men of high talents. The speaker gave an interesting statement as to the rapi growth of the state university and the great work it is doing. Incidentally, President Kingsbury referred to the Agricultural college and expressed his pinion that it should be combined with he university. He had always favord it, but apparently the culmination the idea was as remote as ever.

PRESIDENT KERR TALKS.

After an interesting discussion, in which several superintendents partici-pated, President W. J. Kerr, was intro-duced for a talk on "How Can the Rural School be Made More Attractive to Its Pupils?"

This question itself." said President Kerr, "implies that the work in the rural schools at present is not attrac-tive to pupils. The thing is then to nd the remedy.

He quoted statistics showing that 52 per cent of the population of the United States is gural in character and occupation, and nearly 99 per cent of the people are engaged in Industrial pursuits, rather than the learned trades. He pointed out that of the 18,000,000 students in this country only about 4 per cent go beyond the common schools y per cont reach high school and only per cent of I per cent get into collèges or universities.

GREEK AND LATIN NOT DIVINE. The object of education, he argued, is to adjust a person to environment, and this being the case, Greek and Latin are no more divine than wood and po-tatoes. The spirit of observation and investigation which is found in all students should be fostered, because it is natural in child, ren. It is necessary to make the child are clearly and accurately. The interests of the children abould be studied. They should have plenty of nature study and it should be of plants and attimuls. Relds and people-of those
