

PROSPERITY PLACARD PLAN

Vice Presidential Candidate Kern
Writes D. M. Parry Regarding
Posting Notices in Factories

MANUFACTURER AGAINST IT.

When Man is Made to Believe His Bread and Butter Depends on His Vote, He's No Longer Free.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 31.—D. M. Parry, ex-president of the National Association of Manufacturers and a prominent Republican and manufacturer in Indiana, in reply to a letter from John W. Kern, Democratic nominee for vice president, today announced himself as opposed to the posting of so-called "prosperity placards" in factories.

MR. KERN'S LETTER.

The correspondence follows: "Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 27.—D. M. Parry, President Parry Manufacturing Co.—My Dear Parry: I am inclosing a newspaper clipping which reports the posting of so-called 'prosperity placards' in manufacturing establishments over the country, and I am interested in learning how the distinguished ex-president of the National Association of Manufacturers, David M. Parry, stands on this proposition of beguiling or coercing the workmen of the factories to vote the ticket of a party which many believe has become the party of tariffed trusts, rather than a party of the people. You will note that these placards read to the effect that 'On the day after the election of Taft and Sherman this factory will start up in full force.' The intent of the placards is obviously to frighten the public as well as the employees directly affected into a belief that the success of the Democratic party would work injury to business and industrial interests. I, of course, resent as entirely unjust an attempt to place such an imputation upon the Democratic party, and I must presume that the factory owners who post these placards are beneficiaries of the tariff tax to such an unjustifiable extent that they fear any revision of the tariff except such as may revise it upward.

"I have had much pleasure in the last year in reading several articles written by you in which you show yourself to be sincere in your opposition to the tariff bars between the nations to a reasonable extent for the benefit of our exporting industries, and I am led to believe that many other manufacturers hold like views. In the light of the fact that the present high tariff has not maintained prosperity, I would like to ask whether the posting of these 'prosperity placards' by the 'stand-patters' does not savor of a good deal of trying to obtain money under false pretenses?

"Believing that I do not sympathize with this placard scheme, and hoping to hear from you fully on the subject, I am, yours very truly,
"JOHN W. KERN."

REPLY OF MR. PARRY.

"Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 29.—John W. Kern, Indianapolis.—My Dear Mr. Kern: I have your very interesting letter concerning the prosperity placards, and to disabuse your mind at once of any doubt as to where I stand on this matter, I will say that no such placards will be posted at the plant of the Parry Manufacturing company.

"I have had a good deal to say in the past about the abuse of power by the labor union—some people tell me I have said too much on the subject—but I have yet to say a word in favor of any abuse of power by the employer. And it is an abuse of the power of the employer to intimidate the employee that his services will not be needed if he does not vote a certain way. When a man is made to believe that his bread and butter depend on how he votes, he is no longer free to exercise his judgment—he is deprived of the most important of citizenship rights. I believe it is our duty to fight against any attempt to sway the judgment of men other than by methods of proper argument.

The General Demand

of the Well-Informed of the World has always been for a simple, pleasant and efficient liquid laxative remedy of known value; a laxative which physicians could sanction for family use because its component parts are known to them to be wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, acceptable to the system and gentle, yet prompt, in action.

In supplying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along ethical lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

That is one of many reasons why Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is given the preference by the Well-Informed. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Price fifty cents per bottle.

and persuasion untintured with coercion. "I am sure that the great majority of the manufacturers of the country will refrain from posting of the objectionable placards, and that many because it would be taking an unjust and distressing advantage of the employee. There is the further reason why that the manufacturers in posting their business in accordance with the demand for their products and not in accordance with the political banner. It is poor business judgment on the face of it, to post a promise to run a factory full time in the event of any one's election, for there is a chance, you know, that the promise may have to be 'made good' in the face of adverse business conditions. Should the promise for any reason not be 'made good' the employer would be guilty of bad faith with his men, and if the employer does not keep faith with his men, he cannot expect his men to keep faith with him.

"I think it impossible to fix a date for the return of full prosperity. You must remember that there are economic causes for business reaction, which are quite beyond the power of the political parties to control—this going on looking to the government to give us prosperity has its limitations. But the recuperative powers of the country are such that we can assert with confidence that times of industrial depression cannot long continue, and this also regardless of which of the two political parties is successful. Of course ill-considered legislation and the continued exercise of public evils obstruct the path to prosperity, and perhaps if my distinguished acquaintance, William J. Bryan, and my esteemed friend and fellow townsman, John W. Kern, were really anarchists or Socialists, enemies of individual or property rights, I might feel justified in posting up some kind of placard, but I cannot bring myself to do any such notions concerning them. I no more sympathize with the statement that Mr. Bryan is the enemy of industry, than I do with the statement that Mr. Taft is a creature of the trusts, and as for Mr. Kern's possible election being a menace, I say positively it is absurd.

"As for the tariff, I think the country is to be congratulated in that both parties promise its readjustment. I am sure that the Parry Manufacturing company is willing to see any duties imposed for the protection of the buggy business go on the trading list in negotiating with foreign countries for reciprocity treaties, and there are other manufacturers in a similarly generous mood. In a recent poll of the National Association of Manufacturers a majority of its members declared in favor of revision and since manufacturers will not be disappointed, but have no material when there is a possibility of cheaper prices for such material through a relaxation of the tariff, I believe that a specially revised tariff is normal conditions. Of course, this revision cannot be accomplished the first day after the election, no matter who is elected, and to my knowledge, the prosperity placards proposition has not received the official endorsement of the Manufacturers' association.

"I have no doubt that 'business scares' gotten up to influence elections are calculated to help legitimate business, and therefore should not be discouraged by business men.
"Sincerely yours,
"D. M. PARRY."

MURDERED WIFE, BURNED HER BODY

Had Been Buried. Was Disinterred, then Dismembered and Finally Cremated.

CONFESSES ALL BUT MURDER

Lee H. Johnston Insists That His Life Partner Committed Suicide and Requested Secret Burial.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 31.—Charged with the murder of his young wife, whose body he buried in the basement of his cabin at Nome, disinterred it in the spring, when he cut it in three parts, crated and later cremated it, Lee H. Johnston, a well-to-do mining man of Nome, Alaska, was arrested in Seattle today. Johnston admits having disinterred the body and later having burned it, but steadfastly persists that his wife committed suicide and in a note requested a secret burial and gave him all her property.

The facts directly leading up to and suggesting the alleged crime date back over a space of three years, when Johnston married Belle Gilchrist, a young society woman of Butte, Mont. In the spring of 1905 he took her to Nome. On Oct. 5 of the same year she mysteriously disappeared from Nome. Johnston said she had left for Seattle. Relatives in Butte and a Mrs. A. M. Hedges, a sister living at Port Blakely, Wash., received letters recently from Nome purporting to be dictated by Mrs. Johnston to Fred Johnston, Johnston came out from Nome on three different occasions, and each time told relatives in Butte, it is charged, that his wife was well and happy in Nome, and that he had come to Butte to dispose of the property and get the money. The suspicions of the relatives were aroused a year ago, and last June a party of three, including a detective for the department of justice for the district of Nome, was detailed on the case, together with George B. Griggs, district attorney of Nome. Johnston was in Seattle living at 1902 Fourth avenue, with a woman named Cora Tasch, who declared today that she married Johnston in Omaha in 1902. It is alleged that she, a few months ago, had been in Butte, and that she had come to Butte to dispose of the property and get the money. Later Warren learned that Johnston was in Seattle living at 1902 Fourth avenue, with a woman named Cora Tasch, who declared today that she married Johnston in Omaha in 1902. I believe it is our duty to fight against any attempt to sway the judgment of men other than by methods of proper argument.

"It was just about dusk on a cold evening in October, 1906, I was going down to an old well near our cabin to get some water. My wife was standing in the doorway and smiled at me, telling me to hurry back as supper was about due. I told her I would, and arrived with my return in about ten minutes. What met my gaze when I returned was my wife's prostrate form stretched across the doorway, her bosom heaving, and a great look of pain on her face. By her side was a half-glass of cyanide of potassium. She died about five minutes after my arrival. Near her side was a note. I lost the note, but I could write it from memory if I had some paper."

Johnston then wrote the following: "Darling Lee—I realize that I am no companion for you and never can be. Nothing but death will relieve my sufferings. I want you to have all my real and personal property and no one else. The power of attorney will be all you need. Dispose of my remains secretly and let no one know that I have sought self-destruction. Forgive me, and God bless you."

BELLE GILCHRIST, THE VICTIM. Butte, Sept. 1.—Belle Gilchrist, the victim of the Nome murder, was a resident of this city up to this morning when she was the well known matron of the mess of the engineers, foremen and bosses of the Anaconda Mining company. She was about 30 years of age and possessed a small fortune, which was all in personality, a considerable portion being left in the care of E. G. Smith, a bookkeeper of this city. Gilchrist was prominent in church circles during her residence here. Shortly after her marriage to Johnston, a miner of prepossessing appearance, they left for Alaska.

The last letter Smith received in Mrs. Johnston's own handwriting was about 18 months ago. Since then two letters came, asking for money, in lots of $500 or $800 in each case. In the first letter Mrs. Johnston had broken her arm and was dictating the letter to her husband. The money was sent, and the drafts came back endorsed in the handwriting of the husband.

Three months ago, Johnston came here and demanded an accounting of the money belonging to Mrs. Johnston. Mr. Smith's suspicions were by this time aroused, and he hesitated about taking action without papers better than those of power of attorney. Johnston drew in a suspicious way and going to Smith's employer, told him that he had papers in his pocket that would send Smith to the penitentiary. Johnston again approached Smith with threats, but the latter told him that he would have nothing further to do with him, and Johnston desisted from further attempts to get money, and was not seen again.

Smith then communicated with Ross Neagel, general passenger agent of the Oregon Railway & Navigation company in Seattle, who immediately found that Johnston was living with a woman other than Belle Gilchrist, who represented herself as Johnston's wife. The officers were then notified and Johnston's arrest followed.

SHOOTING OF C. B. ROBERTS REMAINS A MYSTERY. Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 31.—Reports to the effect that Charles B. Roberts, Jr., of Baltimore, who was shot on the board walk last Wednesday night, having a sinking spell last night were today declared to be exaggerated. Mr. Roberts passed a comfortable night and is resting easily today.

Still baffled by elements in the case that are stranger than any they have yet encountered, the Atlantic City police today continued their investigation of the mystery surrounding the shooting. Mrs. W. S. G. Williams, also of Baltimore, who was in the rolling chair with Mr. Roberts when the attack occurred, returned to her home yesterday. It was stated at the hospital at noon today that Mr. Roberts' condition was unchanged. The doctors declared that the wounded man was holding his own, but the impression has gained ground that the patient was not as well as yesterday.

STILL INVESTIGATING. Baltimore, Md., Aug. 31.—Detective Wilson of Atlantic City, who has been in Baltimore since last Friday, making investigations in connection with the shooting of Charles B. Roberts, Jr., today for Atlantic City. Detective Captain Humphrey said that the departure of Wilson did not necessarily mean the abandonment of this end of the case. His men, he said, were still at work.

HARRY H. BREWSTER CHAMPION

Kansas City, Aug. 31.—Harry H. Brewster of St. Joseph, Mo., here today won the Missouri Valley tennis championship in singles, defeating Harold Hodge of Kansas City, winner of the 1907 challenge trophy of the association.

The score: 6-3; 6-2; 4-6; 6-6. Brewster played a masterful game, outplaying Hodge at almost every stage of the play. Hodge was nervous at times, and made some wild plays. The weather was perfect and the court was in splendid shape. This afternoon Brewster and A. E. Stirling of St. Joseph, St. Joseph, Mo., present holder of the association trophy for doubles, are playing with Drummond Jones of St. Louis and J. E. Bailey of Albion, Okla. Jones and Bailey throughout the tournament have shown real championship form.

The evidence given by Gossains reveals a widespread rebellion conspiracy which includes plans for the assassination of Lord Minto, and other high officials. The revolutionaries with which the man was killed were smuggled into the prison by relatives of the other prisoners.

SUICIDE OF UNKNOWN MAN.

Pittsburg, Aug. 31.—The authorities are at work today in an endeavor to clear up the mystery surrounding the suicide of the unknown man, who, after having destroyed his features with carbolic acid, drowner himself in the Missouri river at McKeesport, one week ago.

It is claimed here today that the body is either that of a divorced husband or a niece of the late Marshal Field of Chicago, or F. D. S. Belline, the New York attorney who has been strangely missing for about two weeks. Owing to the length of time the man has been missing, the work of identification holds forth only slight hopes of success.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Relatives of F. D. S. Belline, the missing New York lawyer, are hopeful that trace of him will be found from a clew on which detectives are now working.

Mrs. Belline is at the Auditorium Annex in a highly nervous condition. Her brother-in-law, E. T. Foote of New York, is with her and declared today that the theory that the mysterious McKeesport suicide, whose identity is unknown, might be Belline had been carefully investigated and discarded.

DON'T SPEND SO MUCH
WHILE MAKING THE START.

One man, who wanted to start a savings account, but did not want to start with less than $100.00, says he spent over $900.00 in three years while trying to get $100.00 together. He couldn't keep the first $50.00 until he got the second $50.00. He then changed his plan and opened an account with $5.00. In two years he has saved about $345.00. We invite you to open an account at this bank with $1.00 or more. Don't wait until you get $100.00.
