SIMPLY A DOMESTIC AFFAIR.

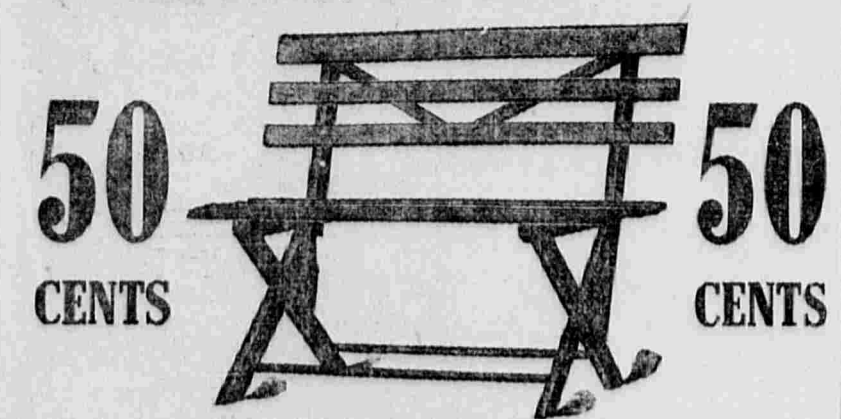

H. M. Hedges, an Engineer, Shot A. S. Whiteway, a Contractor, Presumably For Paying Attention to His Wife.

Boise, Ida., June 23.—A sensational shooting affair in one of the rooms on the first floor of the Idaho hotel here this afternoon caused great excitement, which, however, was quickly allayed when it was found that it had no connection with the Haywood trial. There was a woman in the case. H. M. Hedges, an engineer, well known in Caldwell, fired five shots at A. S. Whiteway, a building contractor, seriously wounding him. Three of the bullets took effect.

Saturday night. According to the story of the woman who accompanied Mrs. Hedges from Caldwell, there had been some jealousy between the two men in the past on account of Whiteway's attentions to Mrs. Hedges while he was visiting in Caldwell.

At about 5 o'clock this evening Whiteway and Hedges went to the room occupied by Mrs. Hedges. Within a few minutes afterwards the shooting began. Five shots were fired. William Balderston, the editor of the Idaho Statesman, who happened to be in a room on the same corridor, was the first to open the door. Just as he did so, Hedges, holding the pistol pointed upwards, came down the corridor. Whiteway lay in a corner of the room groaning. Mrs. Hedges, who had been in the room while the shooting had been going on, followed her husband. A police officer met the group and took the pistol from Hedges. It was a .32 Colt automatic. Hedges and his wife were at once taken to the police station in an automobile and a physician attended Whiteway.

The most intense excitement followed the reports of the pistol. Gov. Gooding, who has apartments on the second floor of the hotel, was one of the first on the scene. Capt. James McFarland has his room on the same floor as that on which the shooting occurred and was also on the spot within a few minutes. A dozen detectives and others were among the crowd that quickly crowded the corridor.

The better version of the affair is that Hedges brought Whiteway to the room and confronted him with Mrs. Hedges. The shooting began at once. Whiteway was sitting on a lounge and the first shot passed through his legs. He attempted to get out of a window and as he rose, Hedges fired, missing him. He fired again and the bullet struck Whiteway in the neck, passing through the outer skin and around to the right jaw. Mrs. Hedges clutched her husband's arm and begged him to stop.

Whiteway finding he could not get out of the window ran to another window looking upon a balcony and here Hedges shot again, the bullet entering the back. One other shot was fired and passed through the window and across the balcony, where three children had been playing a few minutes before. By this time Whiteway was on the floor and the pistol being empty, Hedges walked coolly from the room, meeting Mr. Balderston in the doorway. The whole thing was over in five minutes.

Physicians at St. Luke's hospital say that Whiteway will recover. Hedges and his wife are held for examination, pending the result of the Whiteway's wounds. After the shooting and while on the way to the station, Hedges said to his wife: "I had not the nerve to shoot you, but I took him up there to kill him."

A VIOLENT STORM.

Tulsa, I. T., June 23.—A violent storm swept over this section of Indian Territory early today, causing damage to property estimated at nearly half a million dollars. A terrific electrical storm accompanied the wind, and lightning struck oil tanks all over the mid-continent field. In Glenn Pool, near Tulsa, a 55,000-barrel tank of the Quaker Oil & Gas company and a dozen other small tanks were struck by lightning and are still burning fiercely. William S. Mawry of this city suffered a loss at Cooley Bluff on nine 16,000-barrel tanks, and the Standard Oil tanks at the same place were almost totally destroyed. Reports received from Ramona, Ochelata, Nowata and other points told of heavy damage by wind, but no loss of life.

SPANISH EMIGRATION.

Madrid, June 23.—Senor Lacierva, minister of the interior, yesterday read the immigration bill in the cortes. The bill provides a system of inspection and gives the government power temporarily to forbid emigration. It also forbids recruiting of emigrants by agencies.

The precipitation for the past three days is more than the normal figure for the entire month.

GEN. FUNSTON TALKS OF "THE UNWHIPPED MOB."

San Francisco, June 22.—Gen. Frederick I. Funston admitted tonight that in his letter to the Fourth of July committee of this city he used the expression "unwhipped mob," but that it was not directed against any set of men except what he terms the "uncontrollable element."

It developed today that in reply to the committee's invitation to the government troops to participate in the proposed parade, Gen. Funston said that inasmuch as the men will leave on July 3 to go into camp, he did not desire to have them do so much marching on the day previous. He suggested that if the matter was referred to Col. Lundeen he might be glad to furnish three batteries of light artillery for the occasion.

Gen. Funston is quoted as saying: "But I would be loathe to have the troops parade if they were to be sneered at and jeered at by the unwhipped mob."

When asked for a statement over the telephone, Gen. Funston, who was at Monterey, replied: "My letter is written in plain English and any one who understands plain English can understand the letter."

When pressed further as to whom he referred to as an "unwhipped mob," Gen. Funston said he meant only the "uncontrollable element."

KIDNAPED AND THEN STRANGLED

Walter Lamana, an Italian Boy,
Who Was Held for $6,000
Ransom.

BODY FOUND IN A SWAMP.

Crime Committed Near New Orleans,
"Sweating" Brought Confession, and
The Confession Brought Arrests.

New Orleans, June 23.—Two miles in the interior of a big swamp, near this city, the headless body of Walter Lamana, an Italian child between 7 and 8 years old, who was kidnaped and held for $6,000 ransom two weeks ago, was found by police and vigilantes just before daybreak today. He had been strangled to death, according to the confession of several Italians held by the police.

The boy's neck is supposed to have been broken when he was strangled, causing the head to become separated from the body when decomposition set in. The head was found a short distance from the body.

Five Italians, two of them women, and another charged with being accomplices to the murder, and extra details of police and deputies are maintaining order in the excited Italian quarter. All day long small crowds have been dispersed promptly by the police, despite whose precautions a report has got out summoning a mass meeting at Elk place. Seventy armed deputies have been placed on guard at the Orleans parish prison, the strongest in the state, where three of the prisoners are held, and some apprehension has been felt over the safety of two other prisoners who were last night taken to an adjoining parish.

Seldom since the Mafia lynchings 16 years ago has New Orleans been so stirred with threats of violence as today, and some of these threats are made by those who participated in the disorders at that time. The law and order element is much stronger than it has been here since the violence of the leading citizens having pledged themselves to prevent violence.

The murdered boy was found near St. Rose, about 2 1/2 miles from New Orleans. A sweating process, during a confession from one of the Italian suspects, who was taken from his home in St. Rose about midnight last night and carried into the woods by a combined force of officials and vigilantes, who had the search in charge. This man, Ignazio Campicigiano, was kept in the woods an hour, when he confessed, charged four others with the murder. He said that about the time of a mass meeting in New Orleans more than a week ago, held for the purpose of prosecuting the search for the boy, these men, who were in a vacant house in St. Rose, became frightened and consulted about what to do with the child. The boy was crying, begging to be taken home to his parents, said Campicigiano, and one of the quartet of kidnapers grabbed the child and strangled him to death to stop his noise.

Later two of the kidnapers, he said, came to him carrying the body in a blanket, and, after threatening him with death if he told, took the body into a swamp.

Campicigiano, after relating this story, led the police through two miles of swamp, where the searchers sometimes waded in water nearly waist deep and at others crawled under canes and briars. In a shallow pool at the end of this search the body was found in the blanket in a clump of cane.

Returning to the city the police arrested Nicola Ghiblin, an Italian woman, who is alleged to have confessed that she knew of the kidnaping plot from the first from one of the four kidnapers, whom she expected to marry. Campicigiano said that these four were Stefano Monte Tony Cendusa, Angelo Cacatari and an Italian named Incantaria. The police say they expected to capture these men within two or three days. The other prisoners directly implicated by the confession are Campicigiano's wife, Frank Cendusa and Leonardo Ghiblin. The dead boy's funeral was held this afternoon. By 6 o'clock this morning the entire Italian colony appeared to have learned the details of the murder and the police feared the crowds, which would gather at the funeral if it was delayed.

OFFENSES BY SOLDIERS.

War Department Issues Special Instructions Concerning Them.

Washington, June 23.—Special instructions have been issued to the military authorities by the war department in cases where there is a possibility of civil jurisdiction over an offense committed by a soldier liable to court-martial. These instructions are the outcome of the decision of the supreme court in what is known as the "Grafton case," where it was held that when soldiers who did the shooting had been tried by court-martial for manslaughter they could not afterward be tried by a civil court for either that offense or for the greater offense of murder.
