

SOCIAL CHAT

The week has been one of brilliant social functions, while the presence of the Los Angeles guests in the city has helped to make it a sort of gala week. The record of June weddings has been swelled by more than a half dozen affairs, and other social festivities have marked each day.

On Monday Mrs. Thomas Kearns entertained at a most elaborate luncheon given in honor of Mrs. Vincent Kerns of St. Louis. The rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers, and the dining room and hall being in white and green, and the dining room in red. The latter being a picture with its centerpieces of red peonies and the same flowers scattered about the cloth, tall silver candelabras, shaded in red, and dainty baskets of red bouquets twined with roses at each place. An orchestra was stationed in the hall and rendered delightful music during the afternoon. Besides the guest of honor, covers were laid for Mrs. Samuel Adams, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. William G. Brien, Mrs. Alexander Tarbet, Mrs. P. S. Murray, Mrs. Ezra Thompson, Mrs. Galarin, Mrs. Robert McCaskell, Mrs. Edward S. Perry, Mrs. H. G. Mrs. Samuel Woodward entertains at a luncheon next week in honor of Mrs. Baldwin.

Mrs. D. S. Murray was hostess at a pretty luncheon on Wednesday, followed by bridge, her guests numbering about 10. The decorations were exquisitely done in white and green, the centerpiece being a bowl of white carnations and ferns, with two silver candelabras at each end holding green candles and tied with green ribbon, while festoons of smilax crested the board. Dainty baskets of maidenhead fern, white sweet peas and marguerites were favors, and the place cards were in hand painted marguerites. Covers were laid for Mrs. Charles Fifield, Mrs. Lackwood of Fort Douglas, Mrs. Hubbard Reed, Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Willbur Flegg, Mrs. Downey, Mrs. Woodward, Mrs. Fitch, and Mrs. E. Daggett. After lunch bridge was played during the afternoon, prizes being won by Mrs. George Y. Wallace and Mrs. Daggett.

Among the most elaborate luncheons of the week were those given by Mrs. L. H. Rogers at the Alta club on Wednesday and Thursday. The decorations were in pink and white, peonies, roses, and sweet peas being used with artistic effect. The guests of Wednesday's function were Mrs. E. A. Wall, Mrs. Bonner X. Smith, Mrs. Alexander Tarbet, Mrs. L. C. Mrs. W. W. Riter was hostess at a lawn party on Wednesday, a number of friends enjoying her hospitality.

A number of social affairs are being planned for Mrs. John Reed during her stay in the city.

The most popular girl of the week has been Miss June Bantz, whose marriage takes place next week. Nearly every day has been marked by some function given in her honor, and these all have been amongst the prettiest affairs of the season. Among those who entertained for her were: Miss Florence Grant, Miss Della Richards, Mrs. P. R. Brown, Miss Ida Rothwell, Miss Helen Bamberger, Miss Stella Clinton and Miss Mary Berkeley.

The largest home event of the week was the reception given on Thursday night by Mrs. Bonnemort in honor of Miss Amy Erickson and Mr. John Hicks. The entire house was thrown open, and brilliantly decorated, the porch having a large electric flag, which lit it and the lawn beautifully, the porch with its palms and seats making a charming niche where punch was served. Each room was done in separate schemes, the parlors in red and white roses, the library in pink and the dining room in pink and white, the whole being most artistic. Nettleton's orchestra furnished delightful music, refreshments were served, and the entire affair was delightful. About 200 guests were present.

Miss Louise Holt entertained about twenty-five of the girl friends of her sister, Miss Virginia Holt, last Monday at a festive party. An unique idea was carried out in the matter of fortune telling, a wheel of fortune made of red roses being spun to secure a slip of paper revealing the future of each guest. A golden arrow through a heart indicated the spot.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Greenwood will give a card party this evening in honor of Mrs. Greenwood of San Francisco, who is visiting them.
