

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY, JAN. 30.

Severe Injury.

Mrs. Case, of the Ninth Ward, received a severe injury yesterday morning. She was going along a plank walk near the house, when she slipped and fell, breaking her left hip bone. The injury is of such a nature that surgeons can give no relief, and she must await its recovery in the position in which the fractured bone now is. The unfortunate lady will be 72 years of age next month.

From Minnesota.

Elder Peter I. Akelun, of Fremont, Platte County, reached this city this morning from a mission to the Northwestern States. He left Utah in May, 1886, and went to Minnesota, in which State he spent most of the time of his mission, though he labored some months in Wisconsin. A feeling of great indifference characterizes the people among whom he labored, as a general thing. There are, however, in that region, a number of faithful Saints who expect to emigrate soon. Elder Akelun returned alone, and feels well in body and spirit.

Burns' Birthday.

Two correspondents send us accounts of the celebration of the anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns, the Scottish poet, which was gotten up by the Scotch people of Utah County, and held in Calpman's Hall, American Fork, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of last week. On each of those evenings a programme embracing songs, recitations, hornpipes, jigs and ball-room dances, etc., was gone through. At a reunion held after the exercises of the second evening, it was decided to have the custom of celebrating Burns' birthday continued, and the following committee were sustained for the purpose: Messrs. E. Hunter, John Peters, James Crookston, A. Miller, Peter Adamson, of American Fork, Wm. Ferguson, of Provo, and Geo. Austin, of Lehi.

The Entertainment.

The following has been issued by the Old Folks' Committee, which is composed of Bishop Wm. B. Preston, George Goddard, C. R. Savage, William Edgington, Wm. Naylor, John Kirkman, Wm. L. Binder, Nelson A. Empey and Andrew Jensen:

The committee have pleasure in being able to extend their annual invitation to all the old folks over 70, the widows, orphans, deaf mutes and convalescents from hospitals, irrespective of faith, race or color, to a free entertainment in the Salt Lake Theatre, Thursday, February 2, at 3:30 p. m. The Home Dramatic Company will have the honor of presenting the play of the "Green Lanes of England" on that occasion.

The parquette will be reserved for the old folks.

The first and second circles for the widows, deaf mutes and convalescents.

The third circle for the orphans.

To avoid confusion, doors will be open at 2:30 p. m.

It is requested on that occasion that all the old folks wear the badges indicating their ages.

We respectfully invite the citizens of Salt Lake to render all the aid possible in bringing to and taking from the Theatre all the old people on that day.

Previous to the commencement of the play, the oldest gentleman in Salt Lake City will be introduced to the audience, and a few choice selections from the Old Folks' Choir will be rendered.

Tickets for the entertainment will be given out on Wednesday, February 1st, at the hours of 10 till 12 a. m., and 2 until 4 p. m., at Savage's Art Bazar.

It is desirable that those who can attend the entertainment should apply in person for tickets.

The friends of old people and others unable to call in person for tickets, can procure them by giving the names of all such to the committee. But such tickets are not transferable.

About two weeks ago an attempt was made to wreck a Union Pacific express train, between Sherman and Buford, in Wyoming, by placing an oak tie on the track. The pilot of the lead engine fortunately knocked it off without injury to the train. The second section—a heavy passenger train, passing the same point 15 minutes later found the same obstruction replaced, which was again thrown from the rails by the engine without accident. A third attempt was subsequently made by placing a heavy pinecone stump and a stone on the track, about a mile from the dangerous point on the road where the ties had been laid, so adjusted as to throw a train bound eastward off the track, but fortunately for the company and the passengers, a west bound train passed first and easily avoided the wreck which would inevitably have followed had the train been going east. A horseman had been seen riding rapidly away on the last occasion and Roadmaster Delaney accompanied by two or three others next morning took the plain trail made by the horse through the deep snow and followed it seven miles until they arrived at Ladder's Ranch, where they found a boy named Harry Brower, a stepson of Ladder, aged about fifteen years, whom they arrested. Young Brower at first denied all knowledge of the matter, but subsequently with tears, confessed his guilt, giving full details of his three several attempts to wreck the trains. He said he had thought it would be great fun to see them jump the track. This was apparently his sole motive for the ghastly joke he had attempted to play on the road. The Laramie Boomerang says that the boy has lived exclusively on Ladder's ranch for the last eleven years and is therefore comparatively ignorant of the ways of civilization.

A dispatch from Limestone, Indian Territory, dated Jan. 23, says: Four masked men, all heavily armed, entered the Citizens' Bank Saturday and presenting a pistol at the head of the cashier, W. T. Reynolds, demanded that he turn over the cash on hand. While pretending to comply Reynolds slammed the door of the safe and turned the lock. He was at once laid out by a bullet from the pistol of one of the desperadoes, which struck him above the heart, killing him instantly. The bank was then ransacked, and all the money in the cash drawer, some twenty three dollars, was taken. An attempt was made to open the safe, but in this the robbers were foiled. As the sound of the pistol shot was heard several people came running towards the bank to ascertain the cause of the trouble. They were fired upon by three of the men who were on guard and retreated to get arms. In a few minutes the town was aroused and twenty or thirty armed men hurried toward the bank. The robbers were just mounting their horses. A hot fire was started, in which one of the robbers, Thomas Evans, was killed outright, being shot several times in the head and body. He was identified as a ranchman living near town. In the melee four citizens were wounded, but not fatally, two receiving shots through the arms and two others being slightly wounded in the lower extremities. The three surviving robbers then rode away with the booty captured. A posse of pursuers was soon upon the trail of the flying outlaws, who were riding rapidly in the direction of Atoka. After about an hour's hard pursuit they were surrounded, captured and taken back to Limestone, where Judge Lynch was called on to hold court. The leader was found guilty of the murder of Reynolds and forthwith strung up. The other two were placed in charge of a strong guard and started for Fort Washita, where they will be turned over to the United States authorities. The stolen money was recovered.

A freight train of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul was wrecked in a collision with a freight train of the Missouri Pacific, at the intersection of the Missouri Pacific and Belt line in the southern suburbs of Kansas City on the evening of Jan. 24th. The tracks of the Belt line cross the Missouri Pacific at right angles. Both trains were approaching the city at the highest rate of speed allowed, and it is supposed that the engineer of the Milwaukee believed he had time to pass the crossing before the other train could reach that point. No warning whistle was given by either locomotive, and just as the Milwaukee freight was half over the crossing the Missouri Pacific train crashed into it, demolishing five cars and overturning three others, and badly damaging them. The Missouri Pacific engine was badly damaged, and three of the freight cars converted into kindling wood. The remainder of the train was derailed and overturned. The damage is estimated at $25,000. None of the men were hurt. The fireman and engineer of the Missouri Pacific jumped from the engine before the shock came. Trains were delayed over five hours by the accident.

PACIFIC COAST NOTES.CULLED FROM LATEST WESTERN EXCHANGES.

A dispatch dated Placerville, Jan. 19, says: Word was received in this city today that a very distressing accident occurred last evening at the Montezuma mine, near Nashville, this county, whereby William Austin lost his life. Austin was on the night shift, and in groping around in the dark fell down a shaft 150 feet deep. He was dashed to a perfect jelly. Deceased was 18 years of age, a recent arrival from San Francisco, where his father resides, and had not been working in the mine more than two hours, this being his first shift.

Advices are received by mail from Panama to Dec. 31. The first 10% miles of the Panama canal on the Atlantic end is declared open for navigation. A contract has been let for a telegraph system to connect the more important points of Colombia. The government of Colombia has established a monopoly in the natural ice business in the department of Panama. The depreciation of paper money has led to riotous outbreaks in Peru. The Peruvian government perseveres in seizing the railroads of that country. Important railroad and steamer lines are being encouraged by the Ecuadorian government. A charter has been granted for 450 miles of railroad across the Argentine plains.

"You say Smythe's new store on the avenue is closed?" "Yes, it is shut up." "Why, I thought it was doing an immense business." "That's just what busted it. It was always so crowded that nobody could get into it."

OBITUARY.

BRUNSON.—Louis Brunson, deceased, was born January 27th, 1831, in the town of Mantua, Portage County, Ohio; crossed the plains in 1851; was captain of a company and received the warmest thanks of those over whom he presided. Arriving in Utah he settled in Provo, Utah County, but was soon called and set apart by President Geo. A. Smith to assist in forming a settlement on Chalk Creek, Millard County. When only 23 years old he was called and set apart by President B. Young as Bishop of Fillmore, which position he held 6 years. In 1861 he was released from his office as Bishop and called upon a mission to the United States. Returning from his mission he was called by the church authorities to fill the important position of High Counselor and President of High Priests of Millard Stake, which latter position he held at the time of his death.

Bro. Brunson had the respect and esteem of all good men and women and the especial love of those of his own faith who were acquainted with his sterling character. In every way he showed his love of the laws and ordinances of the Gospel. He died January 4th, 1888, from a combination of diseases mourned by a large family and by the entire community. His last days were full of suffering, which he bore with manly fortitude, and when enduring torture, spoke words of love and encouragement to his family.

HARRIS.—On the 17th of January, 1888, at the residence of her son Martin, in Louisville, Bingham County, Idaho, Mrs. Caroline Harris, widow of the late Martin Harris, the well known witness of the Book of Mormon. She was a daughter of Patriarch John Young, deceased, and Theodocia Kimball. She was born in the town of Hector, Tompkins County, State of New York, May 17th, 1816. She died full in the belief of the everlasting Gospel and in hope of a glorious resurrection. For several years past her home has been in Smithfield, but last fall she removed to Lewisville, intending to pass the winter with her son. For a year or more she has been a great sufferer. Her affliction was dropsy and heart disease. In addition to this she had a paralytic stroke, which seriously affected the limbs of the right side of her body, and even deprived her of the power of speech to that extent that for several months she was unable to articulate but a few words so as to be understood. Previous to her removal to Lewisville she received much kindness from the people of Smithfield. Her funeral services and burial took place at Lewisville on the 17th inst.—Logan Journal.

HUNTER.—James Forbes Hunter, recently deceased, son of George and Catherine F. Hunter, was born at Elphinston, Kirkcubright Parish, Lanthgoshire, Scotland, on the 22nd day of July, A. D. 1822. He lost his mother in early youth, and at the age of 9 years he was left to take care of himself as best he could. He hired out to farmers, for whom he worked until he was 20 years old, and at a plowing match, when he was 19, won the first prize, a silver medal among 30 or 40 other contestants. Wages being very low for farm work, he went to work at railroading, chiefly tunnelling. In 1846 he married Christine Cousts, by whom he had eight children two of whom died in infancy. He settled down in Bonese, where he worked in the coal and ironstone mines till 1856. He states in his own biography that he expected to be a Christian and used to go to church, but never could understand the doctrines advocated; his first two children were sprinkled. About this time he first heard the Gospel preached by some "Mormon" Elders traveling in that vicinity, and shortly after this got work in an ironstone mine where some "Mormons" were working, when he heard the principles of the Gospel often discussed, and borrowing the "Voice of Warning," which he read attentively, was soon convinced of the truth, and was baptized on the 30th day of October, 1859, by Elder Robert Brown, and confirmed by Elder John Russell. His wife was baptized the following January. He was ordained a Teacher the 23rd of June, 1860, and held the office of a priest for some time. Was ordained an Elder the 13th day of March, 1865. In 1866, he removed to Bathgate Branch, over which he presided for two years and until he removed back to Bonese in 1869, when the Branch of Bonese was reorganized and he was appointed president, which position he held till he emigrated to Utah. In June, 1864, he emigrated with his family to America on the ship Hudson from London, and landed in New York after a six weeks' and three days' passage across the Atlantic. Traveled by steamer up the Hudson to Albany, and from thence by rail to St. Joseph, and from there by steamer to the town of Wyoming, Neb., and from thence by ox team to Salt Lake. His wife's health was very poor on board the ship and she was not able to stand the fatigue of the journey, and gradually grew weaker until she died on the 30th of September, 1868. She was buried about 400 miles east of Salt Lake, near a place called Fort Halleck. She was a faithful Latter-day Saint and died in full assurance of a glorious resurrection. He was now left alone with a family of six small children on his hands that wanted the tender care of a mother, but trusting in God to open the way he knew that He would never suffer him to want. He arrived in Salt Lake City the 3rd day of October, 1864, and settled in West Weber, Weber County, where he has been an active member, officiating as a teacher in the ward till he was called to assist in the bishopric. In 1866 he married Ruth Chandler, by whom he had one child. She died in 1872. The 8th of March, 1883, he was called to preside over the Elders' quorum of the West Weber Ward, which position he held for nearly nine years with credit to himself and benefit to the quorum. January 2d, 1873, he married Mary S. Nalkemier, who died January 24th, 1874. By her he had four children. July 3rd, 1874, he married Sarah Calvert (who survives him) by whom he had three children, two living. June 12th, 1877, he was ordained to the High Priesthood and set apart as First Counselor to Bishop J. L. Hart, of the West Weber Ward, and for the last two years has been the acting Bishop in the absence of the Bishop, which position he filled with dignity and honor to himself and to the satisfaction of the Presidency of the Stake until his death, which occurred January 10, 1888, at his residence, in the midst of his sorrowing family, who had for a long time noticed with grave apprehension that he was fast failing in health. His departure was not altogether unlooked for, but through his ambition and native pluck he kept on his feet almost to the last moment.

His death was caused by diabetes and heart disease, contracted by working in the mines. He was aged 65 years, 5 months and 10 days.

The funeral services were held on the 12th of January, at the meeting-house, and the ward turned out en masse (notwithstanding the intense cold) to do honor to his remains. Consolatory addresses were delivered by James J. diatone, D. H. Peterson, President O. F. Middleton, Wm. H. Wright, James McFarland, Ammon Green, Sr., A. McFarland and H. Greenwell, who spoke in terms of the highest praise of the many virtues of the deceased. He was an affectionate husband, a kind father, a Latter-day Saint in every sense of the word, of unquestionable integrity and an indomitable will. He was punctual in the performance of every duty that was imposed upon him, and justly awaits the reward of the faithful in the morning of the first resurrection. He leaves a wife, 13 children and 37 grandchildren to mourn his loss.—Ogden Standard.
