MAUDE ADAMS SCORES A TRIUMPH

A Memorable Night for the Famous Young
Actress.

SHE IS GIVEN A LOVING CUP.

Old Theatrical Friends of Herself and Her Mother Unite in a Rare Testimonial.

PLAY ADMIRABLY PRESENTED.

Tremendous Audience Almost Sweeps The Young Actress Off Her Feet by The Warmth of Its Welcome.

Maude Adams, for the first time since she became a star, placed her foot upon her native Utah last night, and made her bow from the same historic boards across which she was carried as a babe, and from which her mother before her had made her first essay as an actress.

A young queen, coming into her own, and making a triumphal entry through loved you, and some of whom acted with you on this very stage when you were but a little child and your genius was only beginning to twinkle.

These friends have watched with eager and affectionate regard your brilliant progress along the path of greatness, which has led to world renown.

We welcome you back to your earliest home, the place of your birth, to this old theater so dear to us all, because of its hallowed memories, not the least of which is that of your own and your estimable mother's first appearance on any stage, and we welcome you back to these early associations with the consciousness of our misfortune in that your visits, like those of angels, are so few and far between.

In remembrance, however, of this, your first visit since the world lay at your feet, and as a simple token of our affection and esteem, I am requested to present to you this cup—truly a loving cup we choose to call it—for we wish it to represent the feeling toward you with which our hearts are overflowing.

Our hope is that it may remind you, wherever fame and fortune may lead you, and whatever new glories await you, that no one in all this world will wish more earnestly for your welfare or more exultantly rejoice in your victories than those who in the past have been and in the future will be happy to remember as your very warm friends in Salt Lake.

Miss Adams was plainly overcome and tried in vain to make a reply. "I can't speak," she began. "Don't try," the governor kindly interrupted. "We don't expect it."

"But I must say," said the young actress, throwing back her head and struggling against her tears, "how much I thank you all for this remembrance, and how dearly I appreciate it, and so much more for the motive which prompted it, for I know that deep down Mrs. A. A. Adams and her daughter Maude, as each looked at about the same age, Mrs. Adams in 1877, Miss Adams in 1901.

her subjects, could not have been acclaimed with more enthusiastic acclai-mation and with a more royal burst of welcome.

Small wonder is it that Miss Adams, in writing ahead to relatives and friends in Salt Lake, should say she was more nervous over the engagement here, than in any other place marked down on the itinerary. That her nerves were strained up to the highest tension was evident from the first moment she faced that tremendous audience, and tried to speak the lines of her part. All day, previous to the performance, her experiences had been of a nature designed to stir her feelings to the utmost. Friends began sending flowers and greetings to her early in the afternoon. Her mother, and others had taken upon themselves the task of decorating her dressing room at the theater, but when they arrived there early in the afternoon, they found the rooms in possession of the members of "The Little Minister" company, who transformed the two little chambers, known as the "star's rooms," into a veritable fairy bower of pink and blue, with flowers hanging down every shaft and monopolizing every corner. This was the first thing to upset the equilibrium of the young star when she arrived at the theater, and the sight of the cheery salutations of her companions enabled her to recover herself, and to go on with her preparations. Her feelings, as she saw the grand audience pouring in, and the sight of the parquet gradually fill up with ladies and gentlemen standing, as she realized that in front of the curtain were the playmates of her childhood, the early associates of her mother in the same playhouse, her own grandmother, many relatives who had come from all over the world for the event, old time friends of her father, all assembled to pay her tribute—her feelings may be imagined. When the curtain came for her to dance upon the stage, in the witching garb of the Egyptian Babble, it was all she could do to summon strength to utter the notes of the song that proclaimed her coming, and to find her way out in front of the footlights. Probably it was fortunate that the scene was one of semi-darkness, and that the situation called for a rapidly of entrance and action. As it was, the thronging reception of the audience sent up almost swept her off her feet, and all attempts to continue the action of the play had to be abandoned for the time being, while she bowed again and again in appreciation of the welcome. Only for a little while, however, was she allowed a respite; at the end of every act she was called for again and again, and the result she obtained after the famous third act, when she battles with her feelings over the prospect of becoming the minister's wife, was of the same kind. With characteristic modesty, she brought on the members of her company to share her welcome at each recess.

GIVEN A LOVING CUP.

When the final curtain descended, a new trial of a very different sort awaited her. A number of her old time theatrical friends, and those of her mother, went back of the scenes to extend congratulations and greetings.

While they were in the midst of handshaking, a circle was formed around her, and Governor Heber M. Wells addressed her in the following language:

"My dear Miss Adams—or can I say my dear Maude—I am highly pleased to be chosen to represent on this occasion a few friends who knew you and in the bottom of this cup is the affection you hold for my dear mother." She and the governor were both heartily applauded. A few minutes more waiting in handshaking and exchanging old reminiscences, and then, as it was very evident that Miss Adams was almost overcome, the party allowed her to go to her dressing room.

The cup, a picture of which is shown on this page, was the gift of old time theatrical friends of Miss Adams and her mother, and was selected by a committee composed of Messrs. J. D.
Pyper, John D. Spencer and H. G.
Whitney, who gave Layson's an order to make up the handsome thing that could be turned out. It is of solid silver with gold interior, and the handles are made of polished elk horn. Engraved upon the bowl are the words:

From old Theatrical Friends, Salt Lake City, May, 1904.
There was some disappointment on the part of many in the audience, who had received an inkling that the presentation would take place, that it was not made publicly. Many thought that the curtain should have been raised at the time being, and that the whole audience, who felt so deep an interest in Miss Adams, should have been allowed to see the presentation. Her manager, however, knowing her sensitive nature, and fearing the ordeal, decided that it would be better to have the presentation take place only before her most intimate friends.

"THE LITTLE MINISTER."

It is not necessary to give an extended critique of the well known play, of Miss Adams' beautiful delineation of the main character, or of the admirable support she was accorded by her fellow players. The play, however, is a part of the history of the American stage of the current decade. In the character of the selfish Gypsy, who dances through the first three scenes, and later in the part of the heiress of Rintoul, she is never for a moment Maude Adams, but the living, breathing incarnation of Mr. Barrie's heroine.
One understands how Barrie, himself must have gasped in astonishment as he saw the creation of his fancy presented on the stage, and how he understands how deep a debt he felt he owed to the actress whose genius

RUSSIAN INFLECT DEFEAT ON JAPANESE.

Russian Consul at Chefoo Reports That in An Attack on Port Arthur, from the Land Side, the Japs Lost 15,000 Men Killed or Wounded and the Russians 3,000—Report Lacks Confirmation.

St. Petersburg, May 24, 6 p. m.—The report cabled to the Associated Press yesterday that the foreign office had received a telegram from the Russian consul at Chefoo reporting that the Japanese had made a land attack on Port Arthur and had lost 15,000 men killed or wounded and that the Russians had lost 3,000 men, is true, but as nothing confirmatory has been received from any other source the report is not given credence. The consul in his telegram said his information was obtained from the Chinese. The war office has nothing to confirm his report.

could bring her into life. The witchery with which she invested the various scenes with the minister were of the most fascinating sort. Her magnetism is tremendous. She never lets the audience escape her grasp, and the way she played upon the moods and emotions of the vast body of spectators is one of the most astonishing things possible to behold. Her rendition of the part shows how rare her talents are along the lines of comedy work.
It is in all ways regrettable that her Salt Lake friends cannot see her in "The Pretty Sister of Jose," which calls for the display of talents along the emotional lines, where she shines as distinctly as in the lighter vein.

The accompanying artists were admirable throughout. Mr. Atley in the part so long associated with Robert Edson and Orrin Johnson, more than upheld the traditions of the role and was handsome, manly and satisfying throughout. A positive treat was the Nannie of Mrs. Jones, one of the distinguished veterans of our stage, dating from the same palmy days that produced Mrs. Gillett and Mrs. Drew. She did some rare work that was heartily applauded. The others in the cast were all capable, and a special word should be said for the charming rendition of the French maid of Miss Gwynne.

The engagement runs for three more performances, and the advance sale is such that it is safe to say that last night's great attendance will be equalled at each.

LANGFORD VS. MINISTERS.

Says that Preachers Mistook College Enthusiasm for Drunkenness.

Manager J. E. Langford of Salt Lake beach indignantly denies the assertions alleged to have been made at the last meeting of the Salt Lake Ministerial association to the effect that drunkenness and disorderly scenes were in evidence at the ball on Saturday night.

He says that there were two deputy sheriffs and two uniformed policemen at the beach and that the best of order prevailed. That there was considerable noise he does not deny, for the fact of the matter was that a majority of the University of Utah students were out at the resort from the theater and from the hotel. The students were celebrating, giving their college yells and otherwise making the week in character. This racket, he declares, was the cause for the arrest of the two students, and he says that there were dozens of drunken boys and girls present.

The ball on Saturday night was the best attended of the season, there being over 2,000 people present. Tomorrow night there will be another ball at Salt Lake with Christensen's orchestra in attendance. A special train will leave for the beach at 7:45.

YOUNG WIFE'S SAD DEATH.

Mrs. Blenda M. Hanford Falls a Victim to Septic Peritonitis.

An unusually sad death occurred in this city Sunday night, when Mrs.
Blenda M. Hanford, wife of Raymond C. Hanford, a clerk in the Salt Lake postoffice, passed away at the family residence, 336 G street, after an illness of eight weeks. Two months ago Mrs.
Hanford gave birth to a baby girl, and while her condition was somewhat critical at first, she later improved, and was thought to be well on the road to recovery, when complications set in and she became a victim of septic peritonitis. All that could be done for her was done for her, but she passed away about 7 o'clock Sunday night, leaving a grief-stricken husband and other relatives to mourn her untimely taking off.
The deceased was 23 years of age and was a former resident of M. Pleasant, and to which place her remains will be shipped tomorrow morning for burial.

MUST CHANGE THEIR DOORS.

Ordinance Provides That Those on Public Buildings Swing Outward.

Notices were served today by City Building Inspector Lewis upon the owners of a number of public buildings of the city requesting them to change the doors on the entrances to the buildings so that they will swing outward instead of inward. The new ordinance regulating the egress from public buildings requires all doors in the entrances to buildings to swing outward.
If the ordinance is not complied with after notice has been received from the building inspector to make the change, he proposes to proceed to prosecute some of the violators of the ordinance.

Stephens. After prayer, the trio, "Believe Me," by Verdel will be sung by Miss Olea Ship and Messrs. Leo Porter and Noel Pratt. The valedictory address will fer the diplomas. There will be sung a condition and progress of the institution.

JAPANESE AFTER PORT ARTHUR.

Russian General Staff Convinced Enemy Will Devote Himself To Its Fall.

ARE HEADING OFF KUROPATKIN.

Object is to Prevent Him Moving South—No Direct Attack Thought To Be Impending.

St. Petersburg, May 24 (2 p. m.).— The prevailing opinion at the headquarters of the general staff is that the withdrawal of the Japanese upon Feng Wang Cheng means that the enemy has decided to devote himself to operations against Port Arthur and that the present object of Gen. Kuropat-kin, with the first army, supported by Gen. Nadezhda, with the third army, now landing near Takien, is to reach Gen.
Kuropatkin and prevent a move southward which would take Gen. Kuropatkin's main force apparently is not considered to be impending. Nothing more than outpost affairs are anticipated, although some of these may be sanguinary. The Russian scouts are keeping in constant touch with the enemy and thus far the minor skirmishes of the enemy's detachments west of the Tavyang river and northward of Mouling Ling are considered to be in the nature of screws. If the two armies of the Russian commander-in-chief are trying to work a force around in the rear of the Japanese, it is a move of surprise, of course the fact is sedulously concealed here. Uneasiness is displayed at the near approach of the rainy season, which will retard not completely stop field operations, although the plan is directly into the Russian hands. The Russians will continue to hold Newchwang, Kai Chou and Tsai Chou under the command of Gen. Kuropatkin.
Cheng with the object of cutting off the retirement of the force at Kai Chou, which is sufficient to stand off an ordinary force of the enemy and discourage the leading troops of the enemy.
Hing Yu Chen. The Japanese are not in force north of Wafandian.

Apparently there is good warrant for the belief that Gen. Kuropatkin has been extending south from the Yang and west of Hal Cheng, protecting an advance upon Kai Chou and Newchwang.

Gazette insists that no body in Europe knows whether China will remain neutral until the end of the war or whether two powers, one Japan's ally and the other friendly, will remain neutral during the peace negotiations.

The Russ says China's entrance into the conflict would be the signal for an advance of the Russian forces in Central Asia.

The report circulated by the St.
Petersburg correspondent of the Central News that 10,000 men were killed by an explosion yesterday on board the Russian battleship Orel of Cronstadt, is absolutely denied.

The Novoye Vremya today prints the Paris report of last week that Germany is endeavoring to form an alliance between Russia, Germany and Austria.

Church Swindler Caught.

New York, May 24.—With the arrest of William Davidson alias Fred Hall, alias "Fred Hall," alias "Fred Hill," claim to have run to earth one of the cleverest church swindlers in the country. Officers of the society assert that reports in their hands charge a man collecting nearly $50,000 during the last few years from church members in various cities. He has even been traced to Australia.

It is alleged that Davidson would appear at a Presbyterian or Baptist church, attend services regularly for a time and then deliver a sermon, which would be a sermon on a consumptive disease. Soon he would appear to members of the congregation for aid in seeking another climate and generally most generous aid. Upon being arrested recently in Brooklyn he established a complete alibi but agents of the society immediately set to work on other clues and have now caused his arrest a second time.

OFFICIAL FLAG.

Adopted for the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

Portland, Ore., May 24.—An official flag for the Lewis and Clark exposition has been adopted by the corporation.
An order was given today for a large field of building to be made and sent to the St. Louis exposition, where it will float over the Oregon building.
The design for the flag is in four colors—red, white, blue and yellow—symbolical of England, France, Russia and Spain, the countries which first exploring expeditions to the great northwest. The yellow also brings out the official colors of the exposition.
The large field is of bright yellow, crossed by red bars, with the official symbol of the expedition, Sacajawa leading Lewis and Clark on the west, in the center.

The small field is of blue. In the center is a spray of Oregon grape, and state flower of Oregon. Around this are five stars, representing Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Wyoming and Montana, the states of old Oregon.

Assaulted By Hoodlums.

New York, May 24.—Repeated attacks on automobiles by East Side hoodlums, which culminated Sunday in the probable fatal wounding of Mrs.
William C. Gottschalk, who was struck on the head by a large stone, have brought out a plan by the police to protect motorists on their way to various points. So vicious have these attacks become that scarcely a patrol and the chauffeurs who may wish to free themselves of showers of tin cans, stones, etc., will be invited to use these routes.

Chinese Boy Graduates High.

New York, May 24.—Chao Chou, son of Wu-Tung-Fung, former Chinese minister to the United States and now vice president of the foreign board at Peking, has graduated at the head of his class in the Atlantic City high school. There were 21 scholars in the class. The young oriental will begin the study of medicine in Philadelphia next fall.

Bark Petcain Island Arrives.

San Francisco, May 24.—The British bark Petcain Island, just arrived here from Calla Buena, has been rated as overdue with insurance quoted at 35 per cent. She was 89 days on her trip up.

COLOMBIA SENDS WORD.

Does Not Want Minister Russell
Sent to Bogota.

New York, May 24.—Late advices from Bogota, forwarded by the Colombian correspondent at Colon, are to the effect that the Colombian government has notified Alton G. Snyder, United States charge d'affaires, to cable his government not to send Minister Russell or any other diplomatic representative to Bogota until further notice. Mr. Russell is now in Panama.

Workmen Accept Old Terms.

New York, May 24.—Workmen who suech a few weeks ago in the various shipyards of New York and vicinity are returning under the old terms, according to a statement issued by the secretary of the New York Metal Trades association, a statement whose members strike is aimed. So far about 200 men have resumed their labors.

To Curtail Pig Iron Output.

New York, May 24.—Within the next 30 days the production of pig iron will, it is stated, by the leading districts here, be greatly curtailed at the furnace.
The furnaces at the United States (The proposed reduction, which is not by united action, is variously estimated to 40 to 50 per cent of the present output. The furnace to be most quickly affected are those which have been in operation the longest, as the new furnaces have more modern machinery and equipment and can turn out iron at a lower cost than their older competitors.

On a Murderer's Trail.

Boone, Ia., May 24.—A sheriff's posse, with a brace of bloodhounds is searching for the assassin of Curtis Gilpin, aged 24, who is lying at the point of death from a bullet through the lungs. The strange man who lay in wait in Gil-pin's barn for his victim. The cause of the murder is not known. Gilpin is a member of a prominent family.

A RESOLUTION ON MORMONISM.

Methodist Conference Will Ask Congress to Amend The Constitution.

TO PROHIBIT CERTAIN PRACTISES

Will Also Ask Congress for Another Amendment Affecting Roman Catholics.

HAS TO DO WITH PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Would Have It Made Impossible for Them to Secure Division of School Money Along Sectarian Lines.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 24.—Several methods of material importance to Mormonism have been passed upon by the standing committee on state of the church, and its recommendations on the subject will be reported to the conference, where in all probability they will be fully sanctioned by a majority of the delegates. Most important of these many matters are those of divorce, Romanism, "Mormonism," the Bible in the public schools, and regulations of church membership. The question as to what shall constitute the recognized grounds for divorce was the cause of a spirited contest in the committee, in which some of the ablest delegates in the conference took active part. After hours of discussion during which arguments were every day urged, the sanctioning of two or three distinct causes as legitimate grounds for divorce the committee finally voted to make the crime of adultery the sole legal reason for separation in the federal Constitution. Final desertion and extreme cruelty were the additional grounds which were urged for adoption as a part of the discipline, but which a majority of the committee opposed.

The resolution on "Mormonism," which will be presented to the conference for passage in brief and asks Congress to enact a constitutional amendment that will make impossible certain practices of "Mormonism" in any part of the United States or in any country subject to its jurisdiction.

Another resolution denied the charge that the teaching of the Bible in the public schools without note or comment was a sectarian act and deplored the extensive efforts of the Roman Catholic church to secure a division of the public school fund along sectarian lines as a menace to the public school system, and called upon Congress to provide an amendment to the federal Constitution which would forever make impossible the accomplishment of such an object.

The resolution also provided for the Methodist missionaries engaged in the propagation of the Protestant faith in Roman Catholic countries.

A resolution regulating the membership of the church was also adopted, providing that those who fall in their duties of attending services and paying their share toward church expenses may be dropped from the roll of membership by the pastor of the church, after he has made due investigation, with the provision that on demand they may receive a regular trial. The latter resolution was the subject of a heated debate, but was finally accepted.

TO OPEN THIRD STREET.

Scheme to Push it Through from State Street to Canyon Road.

In connection with the proposition to widen Canyon road and make it more accessible to property owners than it is at present, is the scheme to open up Third street, pushing it right through from State street to Canyon road. The scheme is not a new one by any means, but received the consideration of the council some time last year when the committee reported recommending that such work be done at once. In order to carry it out, however, it is necessary to purchase a strip of ground which is thought can be had at a figure which will be nothing in comparison with the advantages to be derived.

The matter was about to be presented at last night's council meeting, but on the suggestion by a hold-over member that it had already received favorable consideration at the hands of the committee, it was deemed unnecessary to again present it in the form of a report, hence nothing was done.
