

JUDGE STEWART RETURNS HOME.

District Attorney Eichnor Also Back With Him From Coalville.

A LIST OF COURT CASES.

Edward Foster Given One Year in the State Prison for Housebreaking - Other Housebreaking.

Judge Stewart and Prosecutor Eichnor were back in court this morning after their four days' session in Summit county. Those who are not well acquainted with the judge will hardly recognize his appearance. His full beard and moustache have given place to a cleanly shaven face, and the transformation in his appearance is remarkable.

One Year's Imprisonment. Edward Foster was arraigned before Judge Stewart today on a charge of housebreaking. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to a year's imprisonment.

Horse Stealing Case. Bert Stone was arraigned on a charge of stealing a horse valued at $125 from S. J. Brown on May 15th. He will plead tomorrow.

Incorrigibility Cases. Three incorrigibility hearings were had before Judge Stewart today. On motion of the county attorney Ben Thomas was allowed to go on his own recognizance provided that he remain with his parents. The cases against Arthur Meyers and Joe Whitaker occupied the rest of the day. A motion by Attorney Walton for a jury trial was overruled, and the trial was proceeding when this report closed.

Bathroom Purloiners. George Gross and William Timson, the two youths who broke into both rooms at Saltair, were arraigned before Judge Stewart this morning. Both pleaded guilty. Gross waived time of sentence, and was committed to the reform school, but Timson accepted the court's offer of counsel to defend him, and Alex McMaster was named.

To Recover on a Note. William G. Heller commenced suit in the district court today to recover from James and J. W. Johnson $1,388, claimed to be due him as principal and interest on a judgment for $25 entered in his favor on April 15, 1895.

Orders by Judge Morse. Judge Morse made the following orders today: Evalina Hasbrouck vs A. W. Mountney, etc.; motion to set aside default granted. Fannie Cochran vs Don Porter; motion granted.

Probate Orders. Judge Hall made only one probate order today: Estate of Henry Anderson, deceased; final account approved, distribution of estate ordered and administratrix discharged.

JAMES STIRLING INJURED.

Thrown Into the Street by a Runaway - Receives Severe Bruises.

James Stirling, the merchant who lives at 340 East Fifth south street, figured prominently in a runaway this morning in which he played a close game with death. He was driving in his coal oil wagon on State street when his horse became frightened and started up the street at the top of his speed. Mrs. Desky, who was sitting in a light wagon in direct line of the runaway, was saved from an accident, which might have proved serious by the timely assistance of W. W. Calder, of the Calder firm, who very quickly moved her horse out of the way.

Mr. Stirling was thrown out of the wagon onto the paved street, in front of the Studabaker Implement house. He was severely cut about the face and over his right eye. His injuries are not serious unless some internal derangement has been caused, which is not thought to be the case.

AN ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM.

To be Given at the Tabernacle Tomorrow Morning.

- The following program will be rendered at the organ recital in the Tabernacle tomorrow morning: 1. March, "The Enchanted Bell," Habesberger. 2. "Intermezzo," from Cavallera. 3. "Prayer," from "Lohengrin." 4. Soprano solo, Mrs. Lottie Levy-Kahn. 5. "Andantino," from "Lohengrin." 6. "Tristan and Isolde," Wagner. 7. "Pilgrim's Song of Hope," by request. 8. The amount of $100. 9. "Star Spangled Banner." 10. Batiste. 11. Reminders - No recital next Wednesday. Doors locked at 11:30.

FIRE ON THIRD SOUTH.

Photographic Supply House Considerably Damaged This Afternoon.

This afternoon some inflammable material in the developing room of G. M. Warwick & Co., photographic supply house at No. 2 east Third south caught fire and did a great deal of damage to the contents of the place. It is said that the fire was caused by dropping a lighted cigarette on the floor which ignited some chemicals and tar paper. An alarm was sent in at once. Station No. 1 responding. The fire was in the center of the building and did more damage to the contents than the building. The total loss cannot be estimated at this time.

ANOTHER FIRE TODAY.

Late this afternoon a fire alarm came in from Ninth North and Eighth West streets, where some frame buildings were on fire. The engine from No. 1 and other apparatus from the West Side station responded to the alarm. The exact nature of the fire could not be learned before press time.

JUDGE TIMMONY'S COURT.

Steve Shurtliff a laborer from Murray was up on the charge of disturbing the peace, although the evidence showed that he was guilty of assault and battery, if anything. Last evening, while under the influence of liquor, he rang for a messenger at one of the boxes, and when the boy appeared, he refused to pay him. After squabbling over the price for some time he pulled a knife from his pocket and struck at the boy. He then ran down the street and Officer Lincoln stepped in front of him to head him off, but Shurtliff made a pass at the officer. Lincoln hit him a blow on the head with his club and then took him to the station.

"This man is not guilty of disturbing the peace and is discharged," said Judge Timmony.

George Barton evidently considered it funny to be in the police court on the charge of drunkenness, as he laughed a great deal and looked tickled to death. "You're too funny," said Judge Timmony, "and it will cost you $5."

George Murray was arrested on the charge of vagrancy. Officer Smith testified that he saw him begging from a couple of men. Murray said he was on his way to Leadville and the court allowed him to go.

J. C. Wilcox, a bartender in a Main street saloon pleaded guilty to the charge of assaulting and beating his wife, but the evidence disclosed otherwise and he was convicted. It appears that his wife went into the saloon last night and because she would not leave at the command of her husband he struck her and then seized her by the throat. The case was very brief and Judge Timmony sentenced him to 100 days in labor and a fine of $50. Wilcox was defended by Attorney Johnson who gave notice of appeal.

FEDERAL COURT.

The case of the Red Wing Gold Mining company vs the Queen Fire Insurance company, was terminated today by the jury returning a verdict for the defendant according to instructions from the court. The defendant was being sued for $5,000, the amount of the policy on the plaintiff's mills, which was burned down.

The case of the United States vs A. A. Noon of Provo, charged with taking gibsonite from the government lands on the Uncompahgre reservation, was being tried before Judge Marshall this afternoon. The case progressed slowly on account of witnesses failing to put in an appearance.

AFTERNOON MINING CALL.

Daily West and Tetro Very Strong - May Day Weakens. The stock market was quite active this afternoon. Daily West, Ajax and Tetro were the features. The former was traded in at $43.75, while the latter sold up to 16%. Ajax was in good demand at prices ranging between $1.82 and 1.77. Ben Butler sold at 16, while May Day weakened to $1.05. Joe Bowers was active at 6%. Sunbeam was traded in around 91. Tetro participated at $1.184. Yankee Con. sold up to $1.50 and Martha Washington went at 45. Closing quotations on the principal stocks were as follows:

Table with columns: Bid, Asked, Stock Name, Price. Includes Ajax, Ancho, Bore, Bullion, Ben Butler, Con. Mercantile, Dalton, Daily, Daily West, Dexter, Emergent, Eagle and Blue Bell, Golden Eagle, Galena, Horn Silver, Joe Bowers, Lower Mammoth, La Reine, Lathrop, Mammoth, Manhattan, Martha Washington, May Day, Petro, Richmond Anaconda, Sacramento, Silver King, Sunbeam, Star Con., Swansea, South Swansea, Shoshone, Tetro, Teosira, Utah, West Morning Glory, Yankee Con., Richmond Anaconda, Sacramento, Silver King, Sunbeam, Star Con., Swansea, South Swansea, Shoshone, Tetro, Teosira, Utah, West Morning Glory, Yankee Con.

RELIEF SOCIETY EXCURSION.

There will be an excursion to Saltair Tuesday, the 9th, under the auspices of the Relief Society, for the benefit of the Woman's Building. President Snow will be in attendance, and has consented to speak on the occasion.

There will be music, songs, toasts and sentimental, luncheon, dancing. A general good time is anticipated. Welcome one and all to the day's pleasure, and be assured this is a commendable cause. ELIZABETH STEVENSON, JULIA P. M. FARNSWORTH, Committee.

LATE LOCALS.

Agnes Carlson was this afternoon committed to the state insane asylum by Judge (two term) James after an examination by Drs. Mayo and S. E. Elterbeck, who found the patient suffering from melancholia. Her father, Carl Carlson, and sisters, Mary and Alma Carlson, testified that Agnes would not eat and suffered from severe spells of melancholia, alternating with hysteria, and talked of committing suicide.

Charlotte Sainsbury's examination as to her sanity was continued today and she was discharged. The court considered that her relatives wanted to get out of the old woman, who appears to be perfectly harmless.

Only one marriage license was issued today. Bart A. Smith, 23, and Blanche W. Dean, 23, both of Salt Lake.

PENSION FOR LUCINDA CHASE.

(Special to the "News.") Washington, D. C., July 5.—A widow's pension of $8 per month has been granted Lucinda Chase, Park City, Utah. Edward N. Quinn of Salt Lake has declined a $600 position in the treasury department.

LADIES' MEETING.

The Ladies' semi-monthly meeting will be held in the Fourteenth ward assembly hall on Saturday, July 6th, at 2 p. m. MRS. I. M. HORNE, President.

TODAY'S REALTY TRANSFERS.

Following is today's record of real estate transfers, made in the office of the county recorder up to 2 o'clock this afternoon: Charles A. Dupee, trustee of estate of Ralph O. Dupee, deceased, undivided 1/4 in 10 r. by 4 r. from 6 r. west of n. e. cor. lot 5 blk 12, plat A, S. L. C. survey, $1,300. Charles A. Dupee, trustee of estate of Ralph O. Dupee, deceased, undivided 1/4 in 10 r. by 4 r. from 6 r. west of n. e. cor. lot 5 blk 12, plat A, S. L. C. survey, $1,300. Charles A. Dupee, trustee of estate of Ralph O. Dupee, deceased, undivided 1/4 in 10 r. by 4 r. from 6 r. west of n. e. cor. lot 5 blk 12, plat A, S. L. C. survey, $1,300.

Constipation, Headache, Biliuness, Heartburn, Indigestion, Dizziness, Hood's Pills. Indicate that your liver is out of order. The best medicine to rouse the liver and cure all these ills, is found in Hood's Pills. 25 cents. Sold by all medicine dealers.

BUENOS AYRES IN STATE OF SIEGE. New York, July 5.—The Western Union Telegraph company is advised that the Argentine congress has declared Buenos Ayres in a state of siege for six months, and has established censorship on all messages thereto. The agent of the Cunard line later received another wireless message from the Lucania saying she was fifty miles west of Pastnet at 3:20 p. m. and proceeding at half speed owing to a fog. Counterfeiters Caught. Chicago, July 5.—Two men, giving their names as Bernard Hagin and Max Klump, who are wanted in St. Louis on the charge of counterfeiting, were arrested here today. Hagin said they had planned to hide evidence of their work by dumping their moulds and plating batteries into the lake, but the officers were too quick for them. Gov. Pingree's Remains. Detroit, July 5.—Thousands of sorrowing friends and admirers of Hazen S. Pingree, former governor of Michigan, today passed in line through the corridor of the city hall, where the former governor's body lay in state, amidst a profusion of counterfeiting. Detroit Post G. A. R. of which Mr. Pingree was a member, escorted the remains from the railroad station to the city hall. The exterior of this building was appropriately draped with black and the national colors. The long corridor was banked in palms and hung with funeral black. At the center of the corridor a catafalque had been erected and here the casket was placed with an American flag draped over it. A military guard of honor stood near the casket. Presidential Appointments. Washington, July 5.—The President today made the following appointments: Frederick V. Martin of Indiana, to be commissioner of immigration, port of San Juan, Porto Rico. Jacob John Hunter, commander in the navy, on the retired list. Philip E. McDonald and Russell M. Yount, both of Michigan, rank of lieutenant, junior grade, navy. Sterling Exchange. New York, July 5.—Sterling exchange easy with actual business in banker's bills at 4.87 for demand and at 4.84 for sixty days; posted at 4.86 and 4.82, commercial bills, 4.84 1/2 to 4.85. Prime mercantile paper, 4 1/2 per cent. Gen. MacArthur Sails. Washington, July 5.—A cable message was received at the war department today from Gen. Chaffee saying that the war department remains closed to visitors after 2 o'clock each day. The new scheme worked like a charm, and senators, representatives, tourists, and other unwelcome callers have gone up against the door and knocked till their knuckles were sore without result, because they did not know the secret code. Since the lockout has been placed at 2 o'clock instead of 3 the casualties have been even greater, although no cabinet officer has fallen a victim since the memorable occasion when Secretary Hay tried all the knocks he knew. The other day, however, Senator Foraker triumphed over the door without the faintest knowledge of the open sesame, and he has been chucking over his victory ever since. The counterjumper knock has by this time become a matter of notoriety to congressmen, so many of them having fallen victims to it. Accordingly, when Mr. Foraker arrived at the war department, he found the doors locked, he knew what it meant, and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him, and he decided to return and he heaved a faraway chuckle on the other side. His scowl grew deeper and he rattled the doorknob impatiently, conscious that a group of newspaper men, sworn to secrecy about the correct fraternal knock, were regarding him gravely and that the secretary's men were chucking on the other side. Then Mr. Foraker stepped away and thought for a moment. His anger overcame him,