

strict three-fourths by six miles, with an average depth of twenty-seven feet. This reservoir when completed will add to the agricultural wealth of this fertile valley.

Elsinore has thrashed some 45,000 bushels of grain this past season, 20,000 of wheat and 25,000 of oats.

Joshua Sylvester Jr. and Miss Annie Jonhson entered into a partnership for life a few days ago.

The Co-operative store, which has lived through the varied financial storms, before which so many have succumbed, still lives, and is doing an extensive business under the management of J. S. Jensen. The business has been in existence some twenty years, having started with a capital of seventy-five dollars; it now has a capital of ten thousand.

Their great mill, a joint stock concern, is running to its full capacity. Brother J. F. Petersen in charge. There is a very large number of hogs in the yard of the mill; but with all their exertions in this line the mill owners did not stop the importation of a car load of bacon by the various stores of the county the past season.

J. G. McDonald's traveling man, Mr. Schank, called here, and reports a large sale of Christmas candles in the county.

Miss Alice Penrose's Amateur Theatrical company of Richfield played Queena here last night. The performers were well sustained. Miss Etta Mr. and Mrs. N. N. Woody and W. H. Waddell of Chicago, Illinois, are meeting with great success as music teachers. They are gaining the patronage of the young people of the southern towns, who are ambitious of excelling in vocal music. A. J.

FOOTBALL.

The Medical Record, commenting on the death of a Georgia student as a result of injuries received in a game of football, expresses the opinion that the time has come for a general movement for legislation against that kind of sport. The paper mentioned gives this strong reason for its position:

"In view of the great number of serious accidents on the football field between college teams, it is impossible any longer to view the game in the light of innocent recreative amusement with harmless and healthful athletics for its object. Although so-called slugging has been ruled out in the new game, there is still left enough of brutal muscular force to make the alleged sport productive of the greatest variety of surgical injuries to every part of the body. In fact, there is hardly a game played in which some one of the contestants is not more or less seriously hurt. Only the severer injuries are noted, while the lesser ones serve as enlivening incidents to call forth the plaudits of an excited audience. Short of actual death on the field, not much account is taken of the hundreds of young men who are oftentimes injured for life as the result of the rough-and-tumble methods of the match. The trainers explain the number of injuries by the lack of requisite physical preparation for the contest, but in reality the more the footballers are trained the more dangerous becomes the game."

There has been some talk of adopting rules by which the game should be rendered more refined and less dangerous, but so far no such rules have had the effect intended. Football remains a deadly sport, as many serious and fatal accidents amply prove.
