Clark, chairman of the committee, should appoint a committee of five from the club to act with a committee of five from the United Commercial Travelers' association to arrange for holding the U. C. T. June convention in this city.

Jose, Cherished Jewel—Christopher Diehl, the veteran secretary of the local Masonic fraternity, lost the diamond setting from his scarf pin yesterday. The gem was not only valuable, but had been in the possession of Mr. Diehl since 1851 and was much prized. Diligent search was made for the missing article, but without avail.

Squires held a conference this afternoon, relative to holding here the national encampment of the G. A. R. in 1909; and the board instructed the G. A. Mrs. Mayenbaum leaves a husband and daughter and a son and daughter by her first husband, James McIntyre of this city.

MAN NOT IDENTIFIED.

The police have been unable to establish the identity of the man who was ground to death by a San Pedro train in the Oregon Short Line yards Thursday night. The remains are still at O'Donnell's undertaking parlors unclaimed. A postoffice receipt for a $3 money order may lead to the identity of the man and the authorities are doing all they can to learn something about him.

FOR MORE SCHOOL BONDS.

Jordan District Is to Hold Special Election to Decide Matter.

It is proposed to put up an eight-room school at Riverton and four rooms each at Dalton and Lark and upper Bingham. The furnace rooms of the Dan-per, Bingham central, East Jordan and West Jordan are to be removed from the main buildings, as precautions against explosions and fires. The present bonded indebtedness of the Jordan district is $104,000, and four and a half per cent, the sum of $15,000 having been paid off last year.

LARD AND HOG STOLEN.

A box car at Third West and Second South street containing property belonging to the Ogden Packing company, was broken into last night by thieves and 450 pounds of lard and one dressed hog stolen. The thieves broke a lock from the door and then pried off the seal. The theft was reported to the police and officers are working on the case.

PATROLMAN'S CLEVER WORK.

Police Officer Fred Clough had a thrilling chase in the patrol wagon this morning to 289 east Fourth South street where he arrested a Mcycle. Word came to headquarters that a stolen wheel was at the place mentioned and Officer Clough started on the trail. He boarded the patrol wagon and made a fast run to the scene, capturing the bike single handed and alone. He did not catch the thief but landed the bike safe and sound at headquarters.

DR. M. R. STEWART AND HIS METHODS

Organ of the Crooks Flies to His Defense in Smallpox Cases.

SOME PECULIAR ARGUMENTS.

Five Houses Under Quarantine Makes It About Time to Open the Isolation Hospital.

Three cases of smallpox in Salt Lake City are directly traced to the happy-go-lucky methods of Health Commissioner M. R. Stewart.

Following the publication in last night's "News" of two cases on Colfax avenue, between Sixth and Seventh South on Second East street, it now transpires that there are five houses under quarantine. They are:

Frank Roberts, 232 Colfax avenue.
Mrs. Jennie Roberts, 232 Colfax avenue.
L. J. Haddock, 219 Colfax avenue.
Geneva Greenhaigh, 469 Colfax avenue.
William Holmes, 288 north First West street.

As is to be expected, the Tribune flies to the defense of the health officials and in half a column of frenzied type under the heading of "Mormon Organ Attacks Officials," the organ of the crooks makes itself ridiculous. Here is a sample:

CASES SUPPRESSED.

Continuing it sets forth that Mrs. Roberts was taken down with smallpox and recovered and then her son contracted the disease—all of which will be news to the public, as apparently it was carefully suppressed in the weekly statistics issued by the health authorities. The Tribune then goes on gravely to state:

"Haddock demanded the opening of the isolation hospital when his was the only case in the city, the health authorities say. As it cost almost $300 a month to maintain the hospital for only one patient, and the proportionate cost for two persons is far less, the city health authorities, following a well established custom, declined to open the hospital just for Haddock's case, informing him that should another case appear the hospital would be opened for his admission."

FACTS IN THE CASE.

The facts in the case apparently are that on March 24 the health authorities were notified that Mrs. Roberts had smallpox. She was ordered to stay in her house, as it would be too expensive to open the isolation hospital for a single case. Then another member of the family came down with the disease, and on Friday, April 10, L. J. Haddock, secretary of the Manufacturers & Merchants' association, who is a neighbor, made the third resident of Colfax avenue to contract smallpox. Following Mr. Haddock's case, Geneva Greenhaigh, 649 Colfax avenue, took the disease. With four cases on hand, Dr. M. R. Stewart awoke from his lethargy.

Both Mrs. Roberts and Mr. Haddock have recovered and will be out of quarantine in a few days, but the health authorities want them to go to the isolation hospital. Mr. Haddock was given the alternative yesterday with the promise that quarantine would be raised from his residence today if he went. Naturally, after having exposed his family already and they all having been vaccinated, he prefers to remain at home in this the eleventh hour.

NOT PLEASANT READING.

In the face of the above interesting little narration of facts, it might be timely to reproduce a clipping from the San Jose, Cal., Mercury. Dr. C. N. Walter, health officer of that city, recently visited this city, and on his return home he broke into print with his impressions of Salt Lake. Among other things, he demonstrated that he was not overwhelmingly smitten with the existing health department and its methods.

Here is what he says: "The health department is composed, as I said before, of the mayor, ex-officio chairman, and four physicians, a clerk, chemist and bacteriologist, inspector of provisions, sanitary inspector, quarantine inspector and plumbing inspector. Salt Lake has a population of 30,000 to 30,000—about double that of San Jose. We have three paid men, and until recently only two. Salt Lake City has 10 paid men, and for real effecting a good clean town board of health has outdistanced them."

GREEK WORKS OLD GAME.

A Greek, whose name could not be learned, robbed a fellow countryman out of $10 last night in the Commercial pool room by working the old employment agency trick. The victim discovered that he had been buncoed and reported the matter to Officer Staines. The latter went to the pool room but the Greek saw him coming and hatched out of the back door. Staines gave chase but the wily Greek was too fleet of foot for the officer, and made his escape.

THIEVES GET BANANAS.

A small store belonging to a man named Pierpont, at 175 west Second South street, was burglarized last night and two dozen bananas taken. The job was evidently done by boys. A large boulder was thrown through a glass door and a window was broken.

FOUND NO GAMBLERS.

The police received word last night that a gambling game was going on in the Headquarters saloon in Commercial street. Officers were detailed to raid the place but when they arrived on the scene found all serene and reported that there was no gambling there.
