The Long Branch Scandal—National Telescope.

WASHINGTON, 1.—The morals of Senator Carpenter have quite disturbed some of the leading republican Senators, especially one or two from New England, and a movement is on foot to supersede him as president of the Senate, during the first week of the coming session. One Senator appears to have no doubt of the truth of the Long Branch scandal, and is conferring with other Senators as to the propriety of getting Senator Terry, of Michigan, to preside over the Senate.

The British and American claims, under the treaty of Washington, were exchanged on the 21st of September. But fifty cases remain to be adjudicated, mostly covering the cotton claims. There will be no necessity for a supplemental treaty extending the commission.

The equatorial telescope, now being constructed at Cambridge, Mass., for the naval observatory here, will be finished the latter part of this month, or early next, and will be shipped to Washington. The new building in which it is to be mounted is nearly completed, and the new instrument will be ready for work about the middle of November.

The U. S. Attorney for Kentucky has forwarded to the Attorney General, a report of the recent K. K. outrages in that State, as published in the journals here, and suggests what steps should be taken for the arrest of the offenders. It is understood that it is impossible for the civil authorities to arrest them, and the aid of the military will be asked.

It is said there has been no publication of the account of the receipts and expenditures of the government since General Grant became President. An act of Congress of 1841, provides that the secretary of the treasury shall prepare and submit to Congress, on the first of December, each year, an account of the receipts and expenditures of the government for the preceding year. The last one of these documents extended only to June 30, 1870.

The "Wawasseett" Report.

The official report of the Wawasseett investigation was made public to-day. The inspectors state that the Wawasseett was considered safe in all respects, and was allowed to carry thirty cabin and twenty deck passengers. They do not believe the statement of the officers, that they did all that was possible, under the circumstances, to save the lives of the passengers. Referring to the testimony of Captain Woods, they say the saving of the boat seemed to be uppermost in his mind, to the exclusion of the lives of the passengers, most of whom were helpless women and children. They cite his own testimony in support of this opinion. Attention was called to the fact that the evidence given at the investigation by the officers and crew, coincided in all particulars. They assert that there was no time to do more than was done, no opportunity to save the boat, that every man was employed in the best manner wherever he happened to be on hand, that the boat's planks, etc., were thrown to those who went overboard, and hose was laid, but the water could not be applied. This testimony, say the commissioners, is seriously contradicted by some of the passengers, of more intelligence perhaps, and cooler observation. The fire is supposed to have originated in the fireman's room, near the back connection of the boiler, and the inspectors therefore require all bulk heads, boiler hatches and other woodwork near or around the boilers of all steam vessels to be covered with metal, leaving a sufficient space for the air to circulate between such metal covering of the woodwork as a preventive against future disasters on steamers by fire. The commission find that the master was acting without license; that he had no organization or discipline whatever in his department on board his vessel; no officer was designated to take charge of the boats, life preservers and pumps; no printed instructions were passed up concerning the number and manner of using the life preservers, or other life-saving appliances, and the women and children were deserted in the hour of their last extremity. If a hose had been attached to the pumps, or one or both had been promptly used in connection with the fire extinguishers and steam smothering pipe, the latter being under the charge of the engineer, they firmly believe the fire might have been put out and the dreadful calamity avoided. The conduct of chief engineer Pierce during the burning of the steamer, as well as his unofficerlike conduct after the calamity, is condemned, and the highest penalty prescribed by law is recommended. The revocation of the license of Robert Nash, as engineer on steam vessels within the jurisdiction of the U. S. is also recommended. In order to guard against similar disasters in future, the inspectors of steamboats are recommended to visit vessels from time to time, and ascertain from their own observation the condition of the organization and apparatus for extinguishing fire and saving life. As the Wawasseett at the last inspection was up to the standard required by law, no dereliction of duty can be charged to the inspectors. It is recommended, however, that the Potomac Ferry company be prosecuted for violation of the steamboat law, and captain Wood and his mate R. W. Gramitt, for acting in such capacity without license. The report has been referred to the solicitor general for his action.

The Brooklyn Defalcation.

NEW YORK, 1.—Late developments in Brooklyn financial affairs startle the city, and the ring is greatly demoralized. The defalcations discovered are as follows: Sinking fund $60,000; treasurer's office $98,000; tax commissioner $337,000; education fund $90,000; Bridge Co. about one million. McClure, who is at the head of the treasury ring, Fowler, who is at the head of the board of city works, and McLaughlin, the head of the tax office ring men, are soundly denounced. [illegible] was put in an [illegible] examination. It is well known that he will not be punished. The corporation counsel [illegible] by instituting a criminal charge instead of a civil suit against Boardman, and thus will conceal the facts which would otherwise come out. The mayor, also of the ring, makes the complaint in this form to conceal the truth. Judge Pratt, of the [illegible] court, has ordered the city court, have [illegible] decided in conspiring to appoint a receiver for the trust company. A letter in [illegible] addressed to the district attorney, clearly shows his complicity.

Ignacio Mariscal, a Mexican diplomatist, has arrived here, and says there is no truth whatever in the rumor that the newly elected Mexican [illegible] American enterprise.

The democratic State committee will meet in this city this week to prepare their call for State conventions.

The freight market, via Cape Horn, remains in a very quiet state, and although the period has arrived when there should be some signs of coming activity, there are no indications of improvement, and the probabilities are that the dullness will continue some weeks yet.

The assets of Treasurer Sprague, of Brooklyn, now in the hands of the comptroller, amount to $200,000 and his seven bondsmen promise to make good any deficiency.

Tax-collector Burrows has denied, in emphatic terms, the charge of Warren, the expert accountant, that the money collected in his department has been withheld for months from the treasury.

Shocking R. R. Accident.

CLEVELAND, 1.—John Wilson, aged twenty-two years, a brakeman on the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad, met with a terrible accident yesterday. As he jumped on a car running toward him, he slipped, and one foot caught between the frog. He clung to the ladder, but was unable to extricate his foot, and the car wheel ran along his leg until he was pulled down on the ground, and then it ran along, until, on reaching the thigh, the body was effectually blocked. The flesh was stripped off, and the bone was horribly crushed and mangled. The man was taken to a physician's office, and he was given an extraordinary amount of chloroform, but without effect for a long time. Amputation was necessary, as a last hope of saving his life. But even that was of no avail. It is not known that he has any relatives living.

An Honest Vote Wanted.

PHILADELPHIA.—L. H. Ashmead, secretary of the reform club, has issued a circular, calling on the citizens, irrespective of party, to co-operate in the movement to secure a fair ballot and an honest count of vote at the October election, and inviting them to furnish him with their names and addresses.

Abolished.

OMAHA, 1.—The law known as the Warren criminal code goes into effect to-morrow. It will abolish lotteries in this State.

WESTERN.

Citizenship—"E & E" in Court Again—Bound for Japan.

SAN FRANCISCO, 1.—Twelve persons assumed the rights of citizenship to-day, in the 19th, fourteen in the 3rd, and forty in the 12th district court.

William J. Bryan, who was convicted of manslaughter, for causing the death of a Chinaman at the mission, was sentenced to the state prison to-day for two years.

The suits of Smith against Prior Brothers, for an infringement of patent on a water closet, were decided in the U. S. circuit court this morning, in favor of plaintiff. In the case of Prior, damages were awarded in the sum of $800, in the case of O'Connor damages $450.

The Hahn and Kent Mining Co. have levied a 10 per cent assessment. The Justice Mining Co. levied an assessment of one dollar.

Another law suit has been brought against the R. & E. Company. Upon application, U. S. district Judge Hillier, of Nevada, granted a restraining order, which will prevent the R. & E. from working the disputed ground. R. & E. was quite weak to-day on account of this prospective law suit.

The steamer Japan sailed at noon to-day for China and Japan. She took out the largest number of cabin passengers that has left this port by any steamer for China, for two years. The treasure shipment was comparatively light. She carries a full cargo, including about nine hundred barrels of flour.

The Evening Post, to-night contains two open letters to governor Booth, overhauling his subsidy record, and also his vote on questions affecting railroads when Booth was State Senator.

The Bulletin, in an editorial this p. m., apologizes for its attack on John Rosenfield, late harbor commissioner on Saturday. The Bulletin said he was a fugitive from justice, but this evening says his energy and honesty have seldom or never been equalled by public officers.

Meetings were held to-night in different parts of the city. The people's union meeting, at Union Hall, was addressed by Governor Booth, who spoke only ten or fifteen minutes because of sore throat. Alexander Campbell spoke for half an hour or more, and was followed by a man named McGown, and John Hamill, one of the Dolly Varden candidates for the legislature. The democratic meeting was not as large as their last meeting in Platt's Hall. Robert Ferrall made a very good speech. The absence of distinguished speakers at both meetings to-night was noticeable.

Stabbed.

LODI, Cal., 1.—Lafayette Woods was stabbed last night, at about 12 o'clock, in Woodbridge, by a German wood-chopper, generally known as Adam. It is said that the stabbing was without provocation, and it is [illegible] doubt will prove fatal. The [illegible] be murderer was arrested this morning by sheriff Cunningham.
