

UTAH LEGISLATURE.

COUNCIL.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

When the forty-first year of the bill of rights for the government of metropolitan cities had been read, on its second reading, Black moved it forward so as to make it a bill to extend its influence on the Territory, after the first Monday in November, after the first Monday in November.

Evans opposed the change; Black insisted that it was important that the bill should be made to apply to all the other cities.

Evans replied by saying that Black had threatened to withdraw his bill if it was not given to him, and that he could not let the governor veto it, because that, like any bill, had bicameral signature, but they could not do that.

Black insisted that he had not threatened to withdraw any one's bill.

Evans wanted to know why Black was opposed to continuing the term of office.

The latter replied that it required a white bill for a new officer to get notice with his bill.

The two men's unanimous

At this point three communications were received from the Governor and sent to the Council.

The first announced his approval of C.F. 11, for the payment of contingent expenses; the second, giving notice of his approval of C.P. 12, for the payment of commission and interest on account.

The third communication read as follows:

SALT LAKE CITY, JUN. 25, 1892.

Wm. W. King, President of the Council.

Dear Sir—I have herewith transmitted to you my opinion concerning the bill to extend the bill of rights to the metropolitan cities.

It would be unwise to amend it, as it stands, and we will take up the bill again, and by inserting a section, I will have it ready for you to consider.

I suggest the amendment to section 1, by which the bill is to be applied generally, so that the school shall be held more frequently than once a day as the municipal functions.

This would be a good amendment, and we will take up the bill again, and by inserting a section, I will have it ready for you to consider.

I will also have a bill ready for you to consider.

RAW AS BEEF-STEAK.

Utah's First Annual Supper from Miss Holmes Covering the Entire State Carried by Cutlure.

will be the attraction at the Salt Lake Tuesday evening, in a special especially written for her and entitled "The Salt Lake Steak." This will be a unique and interesting dinner, and is to be a great success.

It is bright and cheerful, and is intended here and there with pathos, and in the character of Mrs. Percy, Mrs. Holmes' mother, who died last summer. Miss Holmes has a charming manner for the display of her lightness, brightness and versatility. She is a good entertainer and her enjoyment will undoubtedly be successful.
