EVENING NEWS.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE BURN. ING OF COLUMBIA.

During the war I belonged to the 3d Bigade, 4th Division, 17th Army Corps. This brigade consisted of four Iowa regiments, viz.: 11th, 18th, 18th and 18th Regiments. I belonged to Co. "F," 18th Iowa.
The Saluda and Broad rivers form a iunction a very little above the city of Columbia, S. C., and the main stream is called the Congaree. Logan was laying the pontoons across the twe rivers above mentioned, when the brigade to which I belonged arrived at the banks of the Congaree, opposite the city. The State House was on the ridge, probably three quarters of a mile, and a little down the stream from us. From the top of this ridge, where the State House was located, to the water's edge, the ground sloped more abruptly at first, then more gently, until within a quarter of a mile of the river, where the slope was scarcely perceptible, a quarter of a mile of the river, where the slope was scarcely perceptible, making what we usually term a "flat." On the edge of this "flat," farthest from the river, and below us, the railroad depot was located. We were about west of the city, and could see everything to the top of the ridge.

The depot was burning when we came in sight, and long before a "Yankee" soldier could get across the river.

kee" soldier could get across the river. General Belknap commanded the di-vision, but he sent word to our brigade asking for volunteers to cross the Congaree in boats, if he could find them.

Everybody volunteered, and we commenced hunting for boats. The regiment finding the first good boat was to have the heavy of crassing first. The have the honor of crossing first. The Fifteenth Iowa men found a flat boat Fifteenth Iowa men found a flat boat first, but it went under water when the men commenced filing in. My regiment found a good flat boat which carried about twenty-five men at a trip. I was in the first boat-load. We laided a short distance below an old mill, which was occupied by some of Hampston's cavalry. Of course they vacated very quickly and left us in possession. When about seventy-five men of my regiment had crossed, Lieutenant-Colonel J. C. Kennedy employed us as skirmishers, and we started straight for the State House. Logan was still laying his pontoons. After firing a v ry few shots at Hampton's men, after we got into the city, we reached least two hours after we put our colors

on the State House.
I am thus particulan because I wish to show that we were the first "Yan-kee" soldiers in Columbia, and conse-this was on fire in two or three places when we reached it. None but Hampon's men or the citizens of the place could have set fire to this cotton. The cotton was piled probably three bales high, a little nearer the north side of the street, than the middle, in order to pile of cotton was, I now can give no estimate, but the impression left on my boyish mind was that it was im-of the city that took fire. The fire did not get into the main part of the city until about dark, and did not reach the State House until about one o'clock a. m. In the meantime, I, with many others, tried our best to stop the conflagration and help the women and children rescue the few household effects that it was possible to get out of the burning houses.—North American Reviiew.

THE DRAWER WAS NOT EMPTY

STRANGE ROMANCE HIDDEN IN SECOND-HAND SAFE. [SPECIAL TO THE N. Y. WORLD.] MONTREAL, March 28th.—A very strange diamond story has come to light today. About eight years ago, J. Cassils, of the firm of Shaw Brothers Cassils, of the firm of Shaw Brothers & Cassils, wholesale leather merchants, bought a large old-fashioned safe from a second-hand dealer. One of the small drawers of the safe was locked, but as the dealer said it was locked when he got it some two years before, and as the person who sold it told him it was empty, and he had lost the key, he gave it no more attention and the safe was sold as it stood. This week Cassils bought a new safe, and out of curiosity the locked drawer was forced open and, carefully wrapped in jewel

the paper lining of the trunks. All the jeweiry in the store had been unset, then melted into sheets and the gems stored away. A great many diamonds were found in a small plum-pudding the ladies were carrying by way of lunch, and several were found concealed in their dress. Notwithstanding these proofs, Mrs. Mellor and sister were not found guilty at the trial. There was a good deal of speculation as to what became of one magnificent diamond. Many of the jewels were afterwards traced, but this one was given up as lost. It has at last turned up in the old safe. If any of the credup in the old safe. If any of the creditors of the abscending jeweler inquire into the find made by Mr. Cassils, and if their jewels can be traced or identified, there may be quite an interesting legal squabble as to who is entitled to

JETS OF GINGER.

When a lady physician calls upon a gentleman patient, does it show that she's Mr. calling?

Good place for women to go and govern: The land west of the Indian Territory; it is "No Man's Land." A Connecticut man who has traded horses two thousand one hundred and twenty times, now has an animal worth fifty dollars for his cuteness.

"Yes, my heart is aleaping," sang the young lady at the plane. "It must take mighty short leaps the way she laces," whispers another young lady. —Burlington Free Press.

The mean height of the land above sea-level, according to John Murray, is 2250 feet, and the mean depth of the ocean is 12,480 feet. Only 2 per cent of the sea is included inside a depth of 500 fathoms, while 75 per cent ites between 500 and 3000 fathoms. If the land should be filled into the hollows the sea would roll over the earth's crust to a uniform depth of two miles.

"You can take the witness," said the prosecuting attorney in a trial before an Arkansas court to the defendant's lawyer.

"Judge exclaimed a young man in the back part of the room, standing upon a seat and waving his hands wildly, "don't let him take her! That witness has been engaged to me for more'n three years!"

Tracing the old safe was not an easy matter, but the following seems the solution of the story: Twelve years ago, H. A. Mellor did a large business in diamonds and jewelry on Notre Dame street, Montreal. But he suddenly disappeared, and on his store being seized, it was found that almost everything of value had disappeared also. Subsequent developments showed that but very few jewelry houses in Canada had escaped, while several English diamond dealers were caught. Nellie Bastlen was at that time a notorious woman here, and with her Mellor made his escape to the time a notorious woman here, and with her Mellor made his escape to the United States and settled in St. Louis, where he finally dropped out of sight.

Shortly after Mellor's disappearance Mrs Mellor and her sister were on their way to the United States. Their trunks were subjected to a thorough search, and it was found that the sides and bottom were lined with thin sheets of gold, over which had been pasted the paper lining of the trunks. All the lewelry in the store had been unset.
