Roy Heward Succumbs to Chloroform while t nder an Operation-Mother of Runaway Boy Comes for Him. A lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks was instituted last night in Ogden. The Salt Lake

Elks, about 200 strong, under the leadership of Acting Exalted Ruler A. E. Lyon, with Capt. F. F. Stoll as marshal of the day, and L. F. Harr as drum major, paraded to the station in Salt Lake last evening, clad in the regulation linen duster and high hats. The special train bearing the Salt Lake members of the order arrived at the depot with Held's band about 6:39 the depot with Held's band about 6:30 p.m. The prospective Ogden members had in the meantime marched from K. of P. Hall to the depot, headed by the Glenwood band. In a few minutes the parade was formed. Held's band with the visitors was in the lead. A unique feature of the parade was the appear-ance of a live elk of the four-footed va-riety at the head of the Salt Lake con-tingent.

TWO BLOCKS OF ELKS.

TWO BLOCKS OF ELKS. When in line there were just about two blocks of a double line with men-ten feet apart, wearing silk hats and linen dusters, with canes decorated with ribbons of purple and white. A lunch was served in K. of P. hall im-mediately after the parade. In the lodge room, after the initiatory ceremonies, the following officers were elected Jesse F. Baker, exalted ruler; R. S. Joyce, esteemed loyal knight; A. S. Condon, leading knight; E. M. Allison, Jr., esteemed lecturing knight; J. H. Knauss, secretary; R. T. Hame, treas-urer; H. A. Landin, C. A. Bechtol and T. W. Jones, trustees; A. P. Hestmark, tyler. These officers were duly installed and about midnight the jolly crowd sat down to the banquet table. down to the banquet table. He was highly esteemed and much beloved by all, was one of the ward teachers, an active member of the Mu. tual Improvement Association, and a faithful attendant of the Sunday school. Had been married only six months to Miss Alice Rowley, daughter of the late well known John Rowley of Nephi, Utah. In the absence of the Hishop-ric, the funeral services were conducted by Elder Henry Lunt, in the school-house Sunday afternoon, when com-forting and inspiring remarks were made by a number of speakers, who also spoke in culogistic terms of the ex-emplary character of the deceased.
