

ARBITRATION AND PEACE MOVEMENT

During Past Year Friends of Them Have Found Much to Encourage Them.

UNIVERSITIES INTERESTED.

Provide Specialty to Give Students Facts—Report of Committee on Colleges—Address by La Lanne.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., May 21.—That friends of the movement in favor of international peace have found much to encourage them during the past year was the opinion expressed in letters, addresses and reports read at today's session of the Lake Mohonk conference for international arbitration, already more than 200 American colleges and universities have provided in special ways to present annually to their students the principal facts connected with the arbitration and peace movement, according to the report of the committee on colleges and universities. That the college work has advanced much interest appears in the fact that in 75 instances public meetings for consideration of the subject have been held and in 30 colleges there have been public debates.

James Bryce, the British ambassador to America, in a letter expressing regret at his inability to attend the conference, called attention to the several arbitration treaties signed by the United States during the past year.

"It now remains for the people and the press of the country that have entered into these treaties," he wrote, "to see that full effect is given to them, and that if any cause of dispute should arise, there shall be no disposition to stir up angry feelings, no attempt to evade the obligation to resort to that means of a peaceful settlement which arbitration provides."

Prof. George W. Kirohwey, dean of the law school of Columbia university, said he believed the development of international law will exert a strong moral force in maintaining peace and good will among the nations.

Tonight's session of the Lake Mohonk conference on international arbitration was devoted to the business men's movement in connection with the general object of the conference. Addresses were made by the following representatives of business men's organizations:

Marcelus M. Marks, president of the National Association of Clothiers; Frank D. La Lanne, president of the national board of trade; Clark Olden, president of the Erie, Pa., chamber of commerce; James Arbuckle, of St. Louis, manager of the Latin-American and Foreign Trade association; and A. B. Farquhar of York, Pa., representing the National Association of Manufacturers.

T. D. LANNES ADDRESS.

In our study of history we find that most of the records tell of the exploits of the warrior, the conquest of arms. The conquests of peace are not as seriously recorded, yet the thoughtful reader, recognizing that they contribute more to the greatness and progress of the world, is wont to pick them out from the books their results, and not how the greatest commercial nations planted colonies, carried civilization and peace wherever commerce went, and how great cities and countries were created, whose stability stood for wealth, progress, enlightenment and peace.

The Phoenicians, those greatest of early traders, banded together in bands of trade the merchants of their great cities, who contended in friendly rivalry for the trade of the world. Solon, seeing the peaceful progress of Phoenician civilization, and believing that a reign of peace would bring the world to the nation of Jews that the world of the arts of peace. Soon, by his encouragement, he induced the nations of his people to trade, he aided the peaceful growth of his country, so that Israel ranked first among the nations, while his peaceful policy helped to keep the neighboring nations for friends and customers.

HANSAATIC LEAGUE.

Later we find the greatest league of all times for peace dominating the commerce of northern Europe and the Baltic—the union of the Hansa cities beginning in the city of Lübeck and soon having a membership of 80 of the leading cities of the world, sweeping out of existence the bandit baron who obstructed traveling on land and sea, the pirates of the seas, so that all the nations should peacefully carry on their international trade. Not for warlike purposes did the league exist, but to maintain an army and navy, but only as guardians of the peace of the world. For nearly 600 years did this powerful league control the commerce of the nations of the north, keeping its members generally happy and busy, and at peace. The international usages of this league grew into the established code. The well-organized commerce of Germany, England, Holland, France, Spain, Italy and the Netherlands today has its very foundation stones laid by this combination of business men, and cemented by centuries of honest dealing and peace.

I have dug out of my books this brief synopsis of the merchant's influence upon civilization, happiness and peace of the world; but let us not think that the business man desires peace at any cost, for the stability of commerce, he is no less a patriot than any other citizen, and the records show that he willingly sacrifices his fortune and his life in need be in defense of his country. Who more willingly would than the patriot business man if a call is made or taxes are increased?

HOW TO CONTINUE PEACE.

No bill to modify the power of the federal courts in the exercise of injunction will be passed at this session of Congress. It was decided tonight at a conference of the Republican members of the house that to enact such a measure would be unwise. The conference was in session from 8 o'clock until 11:30. The various so-called anti-injunction bills that have been introduced were discussed and various amendments to them were proposed. Between 11 o'clock and the hour of adjournment three votes of the caucus were cast. The first vote was on a motion by Mr. Fassett of New York to adjourn the caucus until 8 o'clock. It prevailed by a vote of 75 to 62. Shortly after he had made his motion of adjournment Mr. Fassett was overcome by the heat and closeness of the atmosphere in the chamber and was assisted to the lobby. There he fainted. Several of his colleagues and employees of the house restored him to consciousness by the application of cold water and apparently he fully recovered.

As indicated by the several votes taken tonight sentiment for and against a modification bill was pretty evenly divided, and those who led in the debate took part with much vigor and spirit.

A RENO KILLING.

Reno, May 21.—Stanley Peck today shot and instantly killed Andy Sater, a fellow employee of the Southern Pacific steamship company here. Peck then went home and telephoned Deputy Sheriff Branton to come and arrest him.

CONFERENCE NOT A SHAM.

We cannot consider a conference of civilized nations, a sham. And I cannot understand what the learned journalist means when he speaks of the conference as "a strange and humiliating performance which has just ended."

In plain English the conference is a sham and brought forth a progeny of shams because it was founded on a sham. We do not believe that any progress whatever in the cause of peace can be accomplished by a repetition of the strange and humiliating performance which has just ended.

CONFERENCE NOT A SHAM.

The agreement by all the nations for the creation of an international court in prize cases, alone, is worth all the work done and time expended. The agreement that force of arms shall not be resorted to to collect contract debts till arbitration has been carried through and obeyed, is of much value to the world. To have two-thirds of the nations of the world agree to the old favorite American doctrine, that private property of enemies at war, even if carried in enemies' bottoms, shall be exempt from capture, is a victory but deferred.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON COLLEGES.

A report was presented by a committee consisting of Dr. Benjamin H. Wheeler of the University of California, Dr. E. A. Alderson of the University of Virginia, Dr. James B. Angell of the University of Michigan, Hon. John W. Foster of Washington, Dr. Daniel C. Gilman of Baltimore, N. Y., The award of the prize will be made at the Mohonk conference of 1909.

Announcement was also made of the gift to the conference of a prize of $50 to be awarded by the conference for the best paper on "International Arbitration" written by any student of any American college or university. The donor of the prize is Chester De Witt Pugsley, a Harvard undergraduate and a son of former Congressman C. A. Pugsley of Peekskill, N. Y. The award of the prize will be made at the Mohonk conference of 1909.

PRESIDENT AND PUBLIC BUILDINGS

He Has "Taken Notice" of the Bill Appropriating for Same and Asked for Report.

HE MAY OR MAY NOT VETO IT.

Indicated That He May Use It for Forcing Enactment of Legislation He Desires.

Washington, May 21.—President Roosevelt already has "taken notice" of the $32,000,000 public building bill, although that measure is still in conference between the two houses of Congress. He today asked Secy. Cortelyou to prepare a report on the measure to guide him in determining whether to sign or veto it. Mr. Cortelyou, is asked to include in his report, first, whether the condition of the public funds justifies so large an expenditure for public buildings at this time; second, the amount of future expenditures which will be made necessary to complete the new projects authorized in the measure; and third, an opinion, based on the expert judgment of the supervising architect of the treasury, as to the necessity for each of the projects provided for.

That there is connection between the president's desire to be fully informed as to the public building bill and also of the condition of the treasury, is indicated by the fact that the president is also to be kept advised of the progress of the bill. It was decided tonight at a conference of the Republican members of the house that to enact such a measure would be unwise. The conference was in session from 8 o'clock until 11:30. The various so-called anti-injunction bills that have been introduced were discussed and various amendments to them were proposed. Chicago, May 21.—Headquarters for the presidential candidacy of Charles E. Hughes were established at the Auditorium Annex tonight by the National Hughes League. Andrew B. Humphrey, secretary of that organization, was placed in charge.

A FEMALE STOWAWAY.

Vallejo, Cal., May 21.—A young woman giving the name of Olga Lelle and her home at Los Angeles, was arrested last evening on Georgia street wharf while entertaining a crowd of blue jackets from the torpedo flotilla. She admits having come up from San Francisco as a stowaway on board the torpedo boat Hipland, and declares her presence on board was known to most of the crew and "some" of the officers. One seaman reported at the police station and offered to marry her on his next pay day, but she is still in prison.

A MUSICAL ROMANCE.

Wealthy Woman Adopts Boy Singer For Her Boy's Companion.

New York, May 21.—Norman Thomas Simpson, the 15-year-old son of ex-Policeman and Mrs. Thomas Simpson, of South Orange, N. J., has been adopted by Mrs. Rosalie Kittinger, a wealthy woman of Morristown, N. J., in order to please her young son, who longed for a singing playmate.

Young Simpson is the soprano soloist of St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal church, Morristown, and Mrs. Kittinger's son, Lloyd, is one of the choir boys. The Kittinger boy is ambitious to become a soloist and believing that Simpson could teach him, he asked his mother to adopt the South Orange boy which she has done with the consent of his parents.

Mrs. Kittinger is sending Simpson to the high school in Morristown with her son and later will send both to a musical college.

IS IT SPITE WORK?

Earl Gulick Arrested on Charge of Robbing a Man.

New York, May 21.—Earl Gulick, 20 years old, once well known as a boy soprano and son of Dr. John J. Gulick, was arrested yesterday afternoon at the instance of Alexander H. Dunlap. He was locked up in police headquarters on a charge of "acting in concert with two others and robbing the complainant of $50 in cash" on May 15.

Gulick protested his innocence and told a detailed story of his movements on the night in question. He insisted he was the victim either of a misunderstanding or a "job" and his father said he would fight the case to the bitter end.

At the house given by Dunlap as his residence, it was said that no person of the name was known there. Young Gulick, who is now a teacher of vocalism, began to sing in public when he was only 4 years old. He made a tour of the country under the management of J. J. Pond, frequently sang at the White House before Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt, and was a soloist at the funeral of Mr. McKinley.
