

NEWS FROM THE NORTH

WHISKEY TRADE—HUNGARY—ACCIDENTS

It appears from the Utah Journal that the letting down of the bars in favor of the whiskey traffic by the Supreme Court is causing a flood-rush of that kind of business into Logan. The other day we noticed the fact that three licenses for the retail dispensing of the poisonous stuff had been granted by the City Council, and now Driver & Son of Ogden have leased premises in the beautiful city of the north for the purpose of opening a wholesale branch of their liquor house.

The issue paper says that early on Monday, Mr. Reading, of the firm of Reading & Reading, business on Main St., discovered that their premises had been entered last Saturday night and the safe burglarized. The thief had drilled one hole close to the combination lock which failed to connect. Another hole in which the drill used was left, effected its purpose and the safe door was easily opened.

A lock on an inner drawer was then forced, the partition shelf let down and the iron compartment removed. Mr. Reading calculates that from $75 to $100 were abstracted therefrom.

The Journal also gives the details of an accident at Wellsville. It appears that on last Saturday Mr. Robert Leatham and his son went to the field for a load of hay. He had the load on and was climbing the ladder to put the binding pole in place, when the ladder broke and he fell backward on the horses, which ran away, dragging the Leatham for about thirty rods, he holding on to the wagon tongue, when the load upset (the boy remained on top and was thrown far enough away to escape comparatively unhurt). At this juncture the coupling pole broke and the team continued on with the fore wheel. Mr. Leatham at this time became unconscious and cannot remember whether the wheels passed over him or not. He is badly bruised all over the body and had profusely bled, thank God, though much hurt, he is not fatally so.

Excellent Mechanical Arrangements.—The scenic exhibition last night demonstrated indisputably the completeness of the mechanical arrangements of the paroled stage of the Salt Lake Theatre. The scenery brought here had been painted expressly to fit the dimensions of the stage, six galleries, and rigging left of the California Theatre. This is one of the most perfect in all respects of any in the entire country. The scenery paid for it by one of the three or four greatest scenic artists in the United States, was the most elaborate possibly ever produced in San Francisco, and the entire capacity of the theatre had been utilized by the artist.

Notwithstanding the fact that it was well known among theatrical people in San Francisco, and so explained to the manager of the Silver King company, that the most extensive alterations had been made to bring the Salt Lake Theatre stage to perfection, yet Mr. French was exceedingly nervous, fearing that his scenery could not be produced in this city with its full effect. Mr. Gerzon had been sent ahead to arrange the scenery and upon the arrival of Mr. French and his company it required but a glance around to see that everything could be produced upon our stage precisely as the artist had originally intended in San Francisco, and the first remark made by Mr. French upon getting his foot upon the stage, was that his scenery would fit it as it painted expressly for it. The success of the scenic mounting and handling of the scenery last night is due to Mr. Gerzon and to the thoroughly capable and intelligent stage machinists of the Salt Lake Theatre, Messrs. Evans and Timms. They deserve the warmest praise for the manner in which they at night brought order out of the chaos of the afternoon, and for the admirable executive ability which they evinced in the skilful handling of the thirteen assistants under their charge. They were ably seconded by Mr. Chas. Hawley of the Walker Opera House and by Messrs. Jas. Van Tassel and Levi Axtell. Of course some difficulties are inseparable from the first performance of a piece of such magnitude but the few errors made were not important, and did not retard the performance a moment.

The management of the Salt Lake Theatre spared no pains nor expense to present this magnificent scenic outfit to its greatest effect. All are to be congratulated upon the success which has followed the strenuous and anxious efforts of all. It is certainly a sad fact that the demands (which have been fully met) upon the stage arrangements and upon the intelligence of the attendants of the Theatre, cannot be exceeded in the future. This point is so important that it appears to us well worthy of careful notice.

Instruction for Ladies.—Dr. Elvira S. Perney will commence her class in the various branches of medicine immediately after the October Conference. The facilities offered here are admirably adapted to the demands of the Territory. She says she will spare no pains to have a practical, useful, and interesting course, and will be aided with many lectures, etc., from gentlemen and body physicians of this city.

She also desires for the benefit of the class, some clinical opportunities of different kinds, as she can avail herself of them.

Dr. Barry also offers treatment and care by herself and students, at the house, for ladies requiring services in accouchement.

A Fenellar Kite.—This morning Charles Barrell, Sr., exhibited to us a peculiar kite he had made in accordance with an English patent improved upon. It is formed of a fabric with the stars and stripes on it, and so constructed as to be susceptible of being rolled up umbrellalike. The tail is constructed of colored bag or cane, which, all with the wind and give the kite a very remarkable buoyancy.

AN ASSAULT CASE.—This morning, in the police court, a colored man named Macdonald was tried for an assault upon an old man named Gratton. The evidence showed that, on Commercial Street, a woman who had a child with her, stated that the accused had struck the little one by the legs and struck his head against the wall, and on some time exhibiting a bruise on the child's face. Macdonald thereupon rushed at with the intention of striking her, when old Gratton took her part, saying, "No black son of a gun will whip a white woman when I'm around." The accused then turned on him, when another person stepped between them, but did not prevent Gratton from getting a blow from the colored man. At this juncture an unknown man darted across the street and pounced upon Macdonald, giving him a terrible beating, stopping him about like a fish.

During the progress of the case Mr. Dilley, the counsel for the defendant, delayed the proceedings by superfluous twaddle, being somewhat ardent in spirit and exceedingly limber in tongue. From the way in which he brought in repeated repetitions it looked as if his imagination the memory of the court was defective. Macdonald was fined $10 and costs.

A Good Yield.—A. W. Putnam informs us that he recently cut with a scythe, the lucern from a parcel of land belonging to D. Carter, of Bonville, obtaining three tons to the acre. This result was in face of the fact that the land had never received any dressing nor water, the ground being naturally moist.
