Failed to Indict. - Among a number of cases ignored by the Grand Jury now in session, is that of Freeman vs. Cheshire, for assault with a deadly weapon. Our readers will remember the circumstance, which occurred several months ago, wherein John H. Freeman accused George Cheshire of stabbing him while walking around his house late in the evening. Three other cases from Park City, one for robbery, one for assault and another for forgery, were also let alone. The evidence da L. Lectures and Recitations.—Bro. William Clegg, of Springville, writes arrived here in 1852, and resided in steadily growing in the two Stakes. | that he is about starting out on his regular winter tour through various parts of the Territory, giving recitations and lectures, as has been his wont for several years. His pieces are all composed by himself, and are of a moral, entertaining and instructive character. "Infidelity and Scepticism," a lecture designed especially for the young, is one of the features of his programme; also a dramatic poem, called the "Outcast," whose design is to illustrate the vices and their hideous results that prevail in civilized countries, and an "argumentative and remonstrative" poem entitled "Divorce." The time occupied in rendering these is about one hour and three-Notice to Y. M. M. I. A .- We are quarters, just a nice evening's en- $1.00. For lame Back, Side or Chest, tertainment.
